FLEET HEAD REMOVED

Crawley Ousted by Ship Board

Gen. A. C. Dalton Given Corporation Chief's Post After Sudden Action

Naval Official States Step Due to His Opposition to Dollar Line Barter

WASHINGTON, July 8. (AP)—Capt. [illegible] Crowley joined the growing [illegible] of ex-presidents of the Emergency Fleet Corporation today when the Shipping Board, without previous notice of a suddenly called special meeting and by a vote of four to two removed him from office and elected Brig. Gen. A. C. Dalton, [illegible] Assistant Quartermaster General of the Army.

The removal was accomplished by accepting the resignation which Crowley was required to file with the board when he was sworn in nine days ago to succeed Rear-Admiral [illegible] Palmer, also removed by the [illegible] made on Chairman Lasker of the board by Admiral Benson and Vice-Chairman Farley for a statement of the reasons for accepting the resignations of Commissioners [illegible] Walsh, who seconded the motion, and Bill voted with the chairman to terminate Crowley's service "at once."

ACTION SUDDEN

The special meeting was called by Chairman Lasker about noon without [illegible] of its purpose. News of the action did not leak out until [illegible] in the afternoon, however, when [illegible] by the chairman announcing the change was circulated [illegible] the board and corporation officials. It was the military record of Dalton, who was placed on the [illegible] list today at his own request to permit his acceptance of the post, and it also carried an [illegible] paper giving business references for the new corporation president and the names of the following [illegible] Senators Wadsworth, New York; Weller, Maryland; [illegible], Republicans; and [illegible], Democrat, Texas; and Representatives [illegible], Kansas; Wainwright, New York; [illegible], Tennessee; and Anthony [illegible], Republicans.

Previous eliminations of Capt. [illegible] and Rear-Admiral Palmer left but [illegible] as a result of the refusal of the latter to accept a ship management contract which figured largely in the Senate investigation of the Shipping Board.

Crowley, it is understood, will be retained in the service, with the rank of captain.

MUCH POISON IN HOMEMADE LIQUOR

Poisons which are used in the manufacturing of alcohol are not always removed by redistillation. The amount of methanol in denatured alcohol varies from 2 to 10 per cent. The public often turns to making its own liquor under the delusion that a homemade liquor is pure, but chemical analysis of homemade liquor shows this to be erroneous and states that such liquors are very often highly poisonous aldehydes and fusel oil. Homemade liquor does not go through the careful distilling processes necessary to eliminate toxic substances. Therefore homemade liquor lacks the [illegible] essentials, namely, aging, repeated distillation and [illegible] in proper vessels. These latter poisons, of themselves, may produce serious gastro-intestinal disorders.

The chief inspector of police of New York City informs me that 900 specimens of liquor seized in the city some time ago, and nine samples were fit to drink. Of over 7,000,000 gallons of bootleg liquor seized by Federal agents during the past year only 1 per cent was genuine. A large per cent of such liquor is "cut liquor," made by taking a couple of quarts of cheap Scotch and adding enough water, together with grain alcohol, prune essence and carbolic acid enough to make a case of a dozen bottles. Even the liquor connoisseur can scarcely detect the synthetic [illegible] mixture.

Germany is sending quantities of methanol to this country. Also the Germans assert that their use of methanol may be used as a substitute for intoxicating drinks without the dangerous effects of ordinary methanol, this idea is scouted by American experts who know that 8 ounces should be attempted a trail of death would follow the experiment.

According to Dr. McGrath, the [illegible] public problem of the city of New York has become serious. In fact, he informs us, the city cared for 7000 alcoholics. Now the number has risen to 7000 yearly. Previously patient recovered in two or three days—now the average is five days.

The word "recovery" as applied to alcoholism, however, has a different meaning from what it formerly had. A patient may now recover although acute symptoms due to past-use of alcoholic beverages, but definite organic changes undetected at the time by patient or physician, are [illegible] gradually taking place in the stomach, liver, pancreatic and nervous tissues which later on will crop out [illegible] recognizable disease entity.

Were the public generally aware of this fact the liquor problem would be easily solved. But there always an air of smartness in those who surround a cocktail shaker. Either everyone is willing to take a chance or unwilling to offend by a refusal. Better by far to saturate the air of the room with laughing gas, if conviviality must be artificial provocative, and a thousand times more reasonable to insult a guest, if he takes affront thereat, than chemically to insult your stomach with all its dire consequences.

GEORGIA SHRINES OF "UNCLE REMUS"

Georgia has two shrines for admirers of Joel Chandler Harris to worship at. The first one is his home, the "Wren's Nest," which is maintained as a museum and where is daily visited by many persons. The other is now the Emory University, where the original manuscripts of many of his stories have been placed by the members of his family in whose care they have been. The "Wren's Nest" is more than a name in a very accidental sense. The home is located in a remote part of the city and one morning Uncle Remus went out to the front gate to get his mail he found that a pair of wrens had built a nest in the mail box the postman was forced to bring the birds, but Uncle Remus would not permit it. "Guess we will have to make some other arrangements for the mail. We must not break up a home," he said. And the birds remained.

In his younger years Joel Chandler Harris worked on a weekly paper which was published in the town of Forsyth, and after home in the country, and after home it is custom to seek the Negro cabins and listen to the stories of the old men, and it was here that he acquired the inspiration for his own [illegible] Within a period of twenty years Joel Chandler Harris produced [illegible] twenty-two volumes of [illegible] stories. He was an extremely [illegible] person and refused all offers of lecture or to attend functions, even when it was likely to be made a big [illegible] on one occasion he found himself [illegible] the midst of some persons at a [illegible] ing who were calling on him for a speech. He arose and announced that he could not speak without [illegible] drink of water and he was [illegible] to get a drink. He never returned.

NEW YORK SUBWAY STRIKE MAY INVOLVE POWER MEN

Interborough System Faces Tie-up; Employees Get Ultimatum to Return by Monday

NEW YORK, July 9. (Friday) (AP)—The forward truck of the fourth car of a ten-car southbound Interborough Rapid Transit train left the rails between Bowling Green and South Ferry stations early today, throwing the car into the concrete wall of the tube. The fifteen or twenty passengers aboard the train were assisted to emergency exits without confusion. No one was injured and only slight damage to the tracks resulted.

NEW YORK, July 8. (AP)—The subway strike approached a crisis today. The chief developments of the third day of the strike were assertions by strike leaders that all Interborough power-house employees will join the strike tomorrow and an ultimatum by subway officials that strikers failing to return to their jobs by Monday will be permanently replaced by new men.

Edward P. Lavin, one of the strike leaders, announced today that there will be "something of a startling nature in the next forty-eight hours." Asked if this promised development had to do with a possible settlement, he replied, "perhaps."

"In any event," he added, "if we lose, we will be good losers and if we win we will be modest winners."

So far the strike has been confined to motormen and switchmen on the Interborough subway, the city's main underground arteries. The strikers broke away from the union recognized by the company and formed their own organization in an effort to enforce demands for higher wages. Varying numbers of recruits have been claimed from the Interborough elevated lines, but company officials have said what small defections there have been have not affected service.

Subway service was estimated by the company to be 77 per cent normal today, and some of the Brooklyn area in which service was stopped when the strike was called was reopened.

The number of strikers to date is somewhere in the region of 700. If the power-house men should join in the strike, the number of men involved would be more than doubled and the effect would be felt on the elevated lines as well as the subways.

It was said at strike headquarters that the power men will hold a meeting tomorrow and join the strike tomorrow at midnight. Officials of the recognized union, however, said that the power-house men had given no indication of joining the strike. Subway officials added that even if the power men did quit they could easily be replaced and trains will continue to run.

In a message addressed to the strikers today, President Hedley of the Interborough issued his ultimatum. He offered to take back all strikers "except a few to whom this offer cannot be extended," up to noon Monday. After that time, he said, all vacancies will be permanently filled with the new men now operating trains and strikers who wished to return after that would have to take their chance with other new applicants.

CREW DIED AT POSTS

Submarine Tells Tragic Tale

S-51 in Dry Dock Gives Silent Proof of Heroism in Sea Disaster

Bodies of Victims Will be Taken From Ill-Fated Navy Craft Today

NEW YORK, July 8.—Every man on duty in the submarine S-51 when she was struck last September 26 off Block Island by the Savannah liner City of Rome, stuck to his post and sank with the ship. This was revealed today when the submarine was put in dry dock in the Brooklyn Navy yard and divers went through her battered hull.

Lieutenant-Commander Ellsberg, in command of the salvage operations, said the preliminary investigation showed that the only men who attempted to leave the doomed boat were those whose positions indicated they were off duty.

The S-51 apparently sank about thirty seconds after she was hit, the lieutenant-commander said.

The stricken submarine, apparently resentful at being dragged from the bottom of the sea, was as stubborn as ever in the dry dock. The bodies of her heroes will not be taken out until tomorrow. First hopes had been to suck the thirty-four feet of water out of the dry-dock after easing the submarine into her cradle of timbers and then bring out the bodies today. But this was found impossible and the work of taking out the bodies was delayed until tomorrow.

REVEALS SAILOR'S BODY

As the water receded in the dry-dock, a great gaping hole in the submarine's port side, just aft of the conning tower, was revealed. Inside this hole, pinned between the bent steel plates and the engine-room bulkhead, was the body of a seaman. One arm was stretched out in an effort to grasp the lever which would have closed an emergency valve and saved the lives of his fellow-seamen.

Through a small opening in the radio-room divers saw the body of the radio operator, seated in his chair, his head and shoulders bobbing up and down in the green water over the keys of his instruments.

Examination of the machinery of the submarine, not possible when she was lying on the ocean bed, showed the Diesel engine, or main propelling engine, had been disconnected from the propeller and the clutch was thrown out. The electric engine, used for reversing, was connected, indicating her commander had attempted at the last minute to back away from collision with the steamship.

As soon as the water is out of the basin an examining board consisting of two naval officers and two men representing the Ocean Navigation Company, owners of the City of Rome, will go through every part of the submarine examining every instrument, dial, machine and working part to determine the responsibility for the collision and the cause of the sudden sinking.

After this examination is completed Lieut. H. C. Patton, second in command of the S-51's sister ship, the S-50, with two petty officers and six seamen of the S-50, will make a tour o. the ship at the command of Admiral Plunkett and carry out the bodies.

EVERY MAN A HERO

Commander Ellsberg, who had charge of the rescue paused this afternoon long enough to tell the results of the first inspection.

"Every man died a hero's death," he said. "This is proved by the position of the bodies. Many of them were standing with their hands on the valves when they died. The condition of the engines shows every effort was made to avoid the collision, and, when that was inevitable, to close the valves of the water-tight compartments.

"The rudder was hard right.

"The periscope was turned aft as if the man in the conning tower had been looking back at the City of Rome. In the engine room bodies are at their posts.

"As soon as the water is pumped off we will begin taking out the bodies."

Commander Ellsberg said he expected to find between twenty and twenty-four bodies on board. Twenty-four men have not been accounted for, but it is possible some of these escaped when the submarine started down.

COOLIDGE AGAIN CASTS LINE

Showers Fail to Keep Him Indoors, But Results of Second Day of Fishing Kept Secret

PAUL SMITH'S (N. Y.) July 8. (AP)—Overcast skies and occasional showers greeted President Coolidge today, as this the second day of his vacation in the heart of the Adirondacks, but served to curtail his activity only a little.

Elated by his success of the first day as a fisherman when he landed a three-pound pike after a sharp struggle on the waters of Lake Osgood, and tempted by ideal fishing weather, the Chief Executive is understood to have tried his luck again behind the wall of trees which guard the lake. What success attended such an effort, however, was not revealed.

UNDISMAYED BY RAIN

Undismayed by a heavy rain, Mr. Coolidge was early astir at the camp after a long sleep, and took a walk in the woods of White Pine Camp. But in the afternoon with bad weather continuing, he remained inside before a huge log fire. Then, when the skies cleared late in the day, he again strolled under the trees of the camp before going to dinner and another quiet evening.

The work of settling the camp meanwhile continued unabated, as indications of quickening interest on the part of the citizens and officials of this region multiplied.

Automobile tourists swung by the camp inclosure to obtain a glimpse of the summer White House while the ever-watchful eye of the public official was represented by an inspector for this section of the New York State Conservation Commission who, deciding that one day of respite was enough, called to see if the two white collies, Rob Roy and Prudence Prim, the ever-present companions and chums of the President and Mrs. Coolidge, were properly licensed for this State.

Not disturbing the pets, who were with the President before the log fire, Mrs. Coolidge attended to the matter by filling out the proper application blanks for the dogs with which the inspector departed happy.

HAS FISHING LICENSE

In such matters the President and Mrs. Coolidge are the same as private citizens in the eyes of the law, which requires the licensing of all dogs that reach at large in State forests, such as those which border the President's camp.

Gov. Smith of the Empire State anticipated one such complication by sending the President a fishing license a few days before the Chief Executive left Washington for his vacation. This license Mr. Coolidge wears pinned on his fishing cap, as required by law, and manifests pride in it.

The executive offices, scarcely a stone's throw from Paul Smith's Hotel where many of the Presidential party are living, opened its doors today. Located in a cottage of commodious rooms and great fireplaces, the accommodations are ample in every way.

Views of the President on questions of the day may be available late tomorrow when newspaper correspondents are expected to be received at White Pine Camp for the first time since he came here.

Partial Eclipse of Sun May be Seen Today

KANSAS CITY, July 8. (AP)—Persons in the Pacific Coast and in Southern States may witness a partial eclipse of the sun tomorrow with the aid of smoked glasses, provided clouds do not interfere.

The eclipse, the second and last for the year, will be visible west of a line drawn from Montana to Georgia, occurring late in the afternoon.

At Mt. Wilson, Cal., one-third of the sun's diameter will be covered and the eclipse will last from 3:25 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. Pacific Standard time.

KNOCKOUT FATAL TO BOXER

Clarence (Rosy) Johnson Dies After Taking Count in Bout With Pat Patrick at Whittier

WHITTIER, July 8. (Exclusive)—Clarence "Rosy" Johnson, 19-year-old Whittier youth, died tonight following his participation in a professional boxing bout at the Whittier American Legion Stadium. He was knocked out in the fourth round of his fight with Pat Patrick and died thirty-five minutes later at the Murphy Memorial Hospital here. It was reported that death was due to either a brain or spinal hemorrhage.

Johnson, according to ringsiders, was boxing in his first professional fight, having only recently received his license from the State Athletic Commission. Those who saw the bout declared that Johnson received many blows on the back of his head.

The two men were fighting as welterweights, Johnson having weighed in at approximately 150 pounds. Patrick had knocked him down in the third round, but Johnson had risen without taking a count.

JOHNSON TAKES COUNT

Patrick was awarded the bout in the fourth and final round when Johnson went to the mat and was counted out by Referee Johnny Schiff. Schiff, a World War veteran, is an old-time referee and has appeared at the Olympic Auditorium, Vernon and Hollywood in addition to many of the smaller Southern California fight clubs. He is an ex-boxer.

SURPLUS OF STATE GOES IN MILLIONS

Receipts During Year More Than $5,000,000 in Excess of Expenditures

SACRAMENTO, July 8. (Exclusive) A surplus of more than $5,000,000 in receipts of the State government over disbursements for the fiscal year just ended was reported today by State Treasurer Johnson.

The total cash receipts for the period were $114,455,846 09 and the Treasurer's report lists actual payments against this amount of $109,449,975.23.

The cash balance at the termination of the year was $42,884,845.98. This indicates an increase in the cash balance of approximately $5,000,000 as there was a balance at the beginning of the period of $37,849,278.27.

Although the daily receipts of the treasury during the year averaged $430,278.16, the office was administered without increased expense. The total cost of maintaining the treasury for the period was $31,680.

WITNESS SAYS HE SAW M'PHERSON KIDNAPING

Corroborative Story Related After Evangelist Undergoes Severe Grilling Before Grand Jury

Discovery of a new witness in the Aimee Semple McPherson mystery a short time after the woman evangelist completed her all-day cross-examination and dramatic recital before the county grand jury, yesterday shed more light on the asserted kidnaping and at the same time added another discrepancy to the amazing case. The witness, Harry C. Swift of 163 West Fortieth Place, appeared at Angelus Temple early last night and told of witnessing the actual kidnaping of Mrs. McPherson at the time she was thrown into an automobile parked on Navy street, near the bath-house in Venice, on the afternoon of May 18, last.

GIANT PLOT CHARGED

Pastor Says Ruin of Church Aim

Mrs. McPherson Speaking Over Radio Asserts Abduction Part of Conspiracy

Dramatic Assertions Hurled as Followers Disclose Approval of Words

Standing squarely before the microphone and carefully choosing the words she spoke with slow and measured emphasis, Aimee Semple McPherson, from the pulpit of Angelus Temple, last night told a capacity throng within her Four Square church and countless others at radio receivers that her kidnaping and temporary bondage were the result of a plot to "ruin the church," more "widespread" than had been dreamed before.

"I believe," she said, measuring every word as she uttered it, "that the dissemination of all this malicious propaganda about me was all part of the plot."

The buzz of voices in mumbled assent rose throughout the temple.

"I knew it," came sotto voce from a woman attired as a regular temple attendant.

APPLAUSES HEARD

"But, Praise the Lord," continued the evangelist, her voice rising, "I think it's going to prove a boomerang to the—"

The end of the sentence was completely lost in the outburst of handclapping that interrupted.

The evangelist made her appearance in the temple smiling happily. She had just left newspaper men in her home adjoining where they had heard the story of Harry C. Swift, to the effect that he had seen the car said to have been used by the kidnapers opposite the Ocean Park bath-house the day Mrs. McPherson disappeared and saw in it two men and a woman accused of the crime Mrs. McPherson charges.

The main floor was only half-filled when she entered the temple, but men, women and children streamed through the entrance ramps as she led the congregation in songs. By the time she made her first mention of the action in yesterday's grand jury inquiry, where she was the sole witness, there were few vacant seats in the entire temple, which seats 5300, and within a few minutes these also were filled.

TELLS OF EVENTS

"I suppose," she began, "that you want to hear something about what happened today.

"The grand jury has begun a real

Mr. Swift, in his statement to newspaper men summoned by Mrs. Minnie Kennedy to the Temple, and in a formal statement issued by the Temple officials later in the night, corroborated every detail of Mrs. McPherson's story so far as it refers to what transpired on Navy street.

DRAMATIC EVENTS

The witness placed the automobile into which Mrs. McPherson was thrown under his very gaze nearly a block away from the spot she fixed in her re-enactment of the kidnaping following her return from Douglas, Ariz., and definitely established the time of the kidnaping fully an hour before the time Miss Emma Schafer, Mrs. McPherson's secretary, says she left Mrs. McPherson on the beach to go to the telephone.

Mr. Swift's story, printed in full in this issue of The Times and greeted at the Temple with much rejoicing as it offers the first corroborations of Mrs. McPherson's kidnaping tale, came at the end of a day that was filled with dramatic incidents never before equaled in the new Hall of Justice.

For nearly seven hours the evangelist was closeted with the county grand jury while crowds of Temple workers, Mrs. McPherson's church-followers and curious throngs milled around the streets surrounding the Hall of Justice, the corridors of the District Attorney's office and the lawn of the old Courthouse.

When Mrs. McPherson, attired in the pulpit robes so familiar to thousands who crowd her temple at Echo Park, left the building to the blinding booming of photographers' flashlights, she had finished the amazing story of her separation from the beach, by two men and one woman, of her subsequent escape from her captors after her desert wanderings in Mexico. Illustrating her story with maps and blackboard, and frequently punctuating it with patient explanations of points not clear to the jury, Mrs. McPherson took the inquisitorial body through every detail of the events that have startled California and the nation following her sensational disappearance from the waters of the Pacific and the dramatic reappearance on the sands of Sonora.

HAIR-NET EVIDENCE

Mrs. McPherson's questioning and the subsequent two-hour cross-examination were conducted by Dist.-Atty. Keyes and Dep. Dist.-Attys. Ryan and Lickley, with Foreman Carter of the grand jury in charge of that body.

The examination disclosed, among other things, that Mrs. McPherson reappeared at Douglas, Ariz., with a silk hair-net she says she wore a the morning of May 18, when she went to the beach. The net was found in the pocket of her dress when her clothing was turned over to Chief of Detectives Cline. Neither Mrs. McPherson nor Capt. Cline had made any mention of the hair-net until yesterday. According to Mrs. McPherson she found the net on her hair when she awoke in the kidnapers' cabin.

The hair net, it was learned at the Hall of Justice, was turned over to Deputy Ryan immediately after its discovery by the police. It was under investigation and its existence was not generally known until official questioning in the grand jury brought Mrs. McPherson's answers on the subject yesterday.

KIDNAPING WITNESS FOUND

Story Corroborates Tale of Abduction as Told by Temple Evangelist

A statement corroborating Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson's story of how she was kidnaped at Ocean Park was issued under the name of Harry C. Swift, 163 West Fortieth street, by Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, mother of the evangelist, last night at the McPherson-Kennedy home. Swift was present at the time and elaborated somewhat on his story.

Harry C. Swift

He said that when he read Mrs. McPherson's story of how she was kidnaped, he recalled an incident that fitted in remarkably with Mrs. McPherson's story and that then believing that he had witnessed the kidnaping, he called on Chief of Detectives Cline, the 8th inst., and told his story. He told the story also to a newspaper man the same day and on the 9th inst., a short item about his story appeared in the paper.

This item, Mrs. Kennedy said, was brought to her attention yesterday by an Angelus Temple worker, whom she at once sent to find Mr. Swift. Mr. Swift was taken to the McPherson-Kennedy home and a formal statement was prepared and issued. It follows:

"On the afternoon of May 18 I drove into Navy street in Ocean Park. I was driving a delivery truck, not a very large one, and stopped to see a little lunch man there. I asked him if he thought I would get in trouble for parking there as the curb is painted red on both sides I think. However, I stopped just the same to make the delivery.

Quarrel With Mother Prior to Her Vanishing Rumored as Being Considered in Evidence

Mrs. McPherson's wrist when she was photographed at Douglas after the arrival of her mother and children, also occupied the attention of the grand jury. Mrs. McPherson told the inquisitorial body that she thought she left the watch with Miss Schafer at the beach and that Mrs. Kennedy brought it to her from Los Angeles.

VISIBLY ELATED

Mrs. Kennedy was visibly and enthusiastically elated over the appearance last night of Harry Swift and his story in verification of Mrs. McPherson's recital of the kidnaping car alongside the Ocean Park bath house.

"Here is a man whose word means something," Mrs. Kennedy told newspaper men. "He is a business man and his only interest is in seeing that some measure of justice is given sister after all the hard knocks she has had to withstand.

"Isn't that worth more than some small-town Mexican presidente?

"That's what sister asked the members of the grand jury today.

"She asked if her character, her reputation in the community, the great good that she has done, isn't going to mean something in the summing-up of all these wild rumors and reports."

Mrs. McPherson pointed out that Swift's story corroborates her first statement that the kidnapers' car was parked on the ocean side of the Speedway.

"When they told me I must be wrong because no parking was allowed on that side," Mrs. McPherson said, "why, I told them, well, maybe it was on the other side of the Speedway. You see now, I was right the first time."

APPEARS NERVOUS

When the jury adjourned at 5:30 p.m., it was reported that he had not completed this cross-examination and that she will be recalled at some future session.

Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, the evangelist's mother, will be the next witness to be called to the stand in the case. She will be called next Tuesday, the interim being given over to other work confronting the jury.

The afternoon session of the grand jury was shortened somewhat it was learned, because the evangelist had arranged for a baptismal service at the temple last night and wished to go home as early as possible in order to prepare for it.

Mrs. McPherson related something of her life story with its hardships and obstacles to the jury apart from her regular testimony, according to a report in full.

Ryan started questioning Mrs. McPherson following a ten-minute recess which was taken at 4 p.m. During a recess an hour before, Mrs. McPherson hastily conferred with her attorneys, Arthur L. Veitch, Leonard Hamner, formerly a deputy District Attorney, and Roland R. Woolley. This conference took place in an antechamber off the grand-jury room while the jurors were voting an indictment in connection with another case, and it was noted that the evangelist appeared to be exceedingly nervous.

When she was called back to the jury room she went immediately to a blackboard on which she pinned a blueprint showing her movements in Agua Prieta, Mex., into which she wandered early on the morning of June 23, to seek refuge after escaping from her captors' shack somewhere in Mexico.

Indications that Mrs. McPherson will be put through still another cross examination after Ryan completes his questioning was seen by the fact that most all of the jurors jotted down voluminous notes while she was telling her story. Through an understanding with the District Attorney's office, it was said, the jurors agreed not to question the evangelist until after Ryan completed his interrogation.

ON STAND ALL DAY

Mrs. McPherson was on the witness stand all day. She started her story at 10:30 a.m., and was before the inquisitorial body until noon when she was taken back to Angelus Temple by an honor guard of seven women workers for luncheon. She returned to the jury room at 1:30 p.m. and remained there until shortly before the adjournment at 3:30 o'clock.

In the afternoon she described in detail to the jurors—nineteen men and women—her twenty-mile trek across the Mexican desert after her escape and of her wandering into Agua Prieta from where she was removed to the Calumet Hospital at Douglas an hour or so later.

She made this explanation with the aid of the blueprint, it was said, using a pointer to indicate on the map her movements. Earlier in the day she drew a chart on a blackboard in explaining what took place at Venice where, she says, she was lured to an automobile by her abductors.

When Mrs. McPherson was dismissed shortly after 5 p.m., she posed obligingly for cameramen but refused to issue a statement concerning the grand jury inquiry.

She admonished the photographers to "hurry, as I have thirty people to baptize at the temple tonight."

She immediately left the Hall of Justice in the company of her honor guard for the temple to prepare for last night's services.

Reports from the grand-jury room were to the effect that Mrs. McPherson was cross-examined on details of the first phase of her story. This was taken to mean the details of her narration of the incidents which took place at the beach.

The evangelist appeared tired and worn from her experiences of the day when she left the Hall of Justice.

Thousands greeted her on her arrival in the morning, but only several hundred were present when she returned in the afternoon. The crowd awaited her about the entrance of the Hall of Justice and followed her to the sixth floor, where the grand-jury rooms are located, flooding through the many halls and corridors to catch a glimpse of her.

Mrs. Kennedy, Mrs. McPherson's two children and other temple workers who have been subpoenaed did not appear yesterday, but will be called during next week's session, it was said.

QUARREL REPORT

It was reported last evening that information has reached the grand jury to the effect that Mrs. McPherson and her mother engaged in a quarrel the day previous to her disappearance, during which the evangelist is said to have made the remark:

"Well, we'll see if you can run it any better than I can."

A witness, a man, will be called before the grand jury to give testimony concerning the asserted quarrel, it was learned from an authentic source.

Attorney Veitch last evening explained the reason why he had instructed Mrs. McPherson not to take the oath of secrecy before the grand jury.

"This instruction was given to all of the Temple witnesses and it was carried out by Mrs. McPherson," the attorney said.

"As far as we are concerned there is no reason for secrecy in this investigation. We would just as soon have it conducted in a courtroom where newspaper reporters could be present and the public admitted.

"She has nothing new to tell. She has re-told her story time and again and there is nothing to add to it.

"I told her not to take the oath of secrecy because it would interfere with her telling what happened before the grand jury to the members of the Temple and over the radio. It also would preclude her discussing with her attorney and her mother what took place."

KEEN EXCITEMENT

Thirty minutes before the first arrival at the Hall of Justice of Mrs. McPherson, Keyes and Ryan went into conference in the former's office, during which, it was believed, they discussed the various phases of the case and outlined a plan for presenting the evidence to the grand jury.

Neither Keyes nor Ryan would comment as to the nature of the conference. All doors to the District Attorney's office were barred against intruders. When Ryan walked out he held under his arms the office's file on the case which contained the documentary evidence and notes.

All during this time intense excitement prevailed. Investigators and other office attaches were seen running in every direction on errands.

It was one of the most exciting and eventful occurrences at the District Attorney's office in months.

A few minutes after the conference between Keyes and Ryan broke up the triumphal arrival of Mrs. McPherson was announced, when word was sent to the grand jury.

Her appearance before the jury was delayed ten or fifteen minutes, however, when Mrs. McPherson made it known she wanted to talk with Ryan. She was taken to his office, still surrounded by her bodyguard of temple workers.

FACES CAMERAS

As she walked down a corridor to Ryan's office she was welcomed by a group of photographers who laid down a flashlight barrage. Finally she was able to push her way through the crowd.

Attorney Veitch accompanied her and they remained closeted with Ryan for ten or fifteen minutes. None would discuss the nature of their meeting with Ryan or the importance of the conference.

When she left the office the evangelist carried under her arm what appeared to be a blueprint.

It was 10:30 a.m. before she finally reached the grand-jury room. Her attorney accompanied her and she went immediately into the inquisitorial body's chambers. Veitch went to a witness-room, where he remained until the morning recess was taken at noon.

The oath was administered to Mrs. McPherson by Foreman Carter. She declined, it was learned, to take the oath of secrecy.

Later Veitch announced she did not take this oath because he had instructed her not to do so. He failed to give an explanation of this move. The attorney declared he had instructed all the temple witnesses to decline to take the oath not to reveal the grand-jury proceedings.

Within a few minutes she began the narration of her story of her abduction from the beach at Venice on May 18, last, where, she declared, a man and a woman lured her to an automobile, chloroformed her and drove her away to a two-story house where she was kept prisoner until they removed her to a shack near Agua Prieta, Son., Mex. It was from this shack, she says, she escaped after several days and then finally made her way to Agua Prieta early on the morning of June 23, last, where she sought refuge at the home of a Mexican family.

Mrs. McPherson was permitted, it was learned, to relate her story with but few interruptions when Keyes asked her a number of questions. Her story to the grand jury, it was learned from an authoritative source, was practically the same as the story she told to newspaper correspondents and to Ryan and Chief of Detectives Cline at the Calumet Hospital at Douglas, Ariz., after her reappearance.

In a few instances, it was stated, she supplied a few additional circumstances to a number of incidents concerned in her kidnaping story, but otherwise it was the same in every particular.

She told of going to the beach, of being approached by a man and woman, who later proved to be "Steve" and "Rose" who lured her to an automobile on the pretense they wanted her to administer to their dying baby. She told how she was chloroformed after being pushed into the automobile; her awakening later in a house with the "Rose" woman sitting beside her bed and of her being tortured with red hot cigar stubs because she refused to answer questions asked her by "Steve."

TAKEN TO SHACK

She went on to relate of being taken from the two-story house, which she thought was near Mexicali, as she had heard her abductors mention the name of that place, to a shack somewhere in Mexico. Here, according to her story, she was kept prisoner for several days until one day when "Rose," who had been left alone, went to get more food supplies.

The evangelist told the jurors, it was stated, of the departure of "Rose" and how she managed to roll off a cot to the floor where she cut the rope that bound her wrists on the jagged edge of a tin can. She told of her escape from a window and of her wanderings until she reached Agua Prieta.

She reached this point of her narration, it was stated, when the noon recess was ordered by Foreman Carter. An adjournment was taken until 1:30 p.m.

The only other persons in the grand jury room outside of the evangelist, the jurors, Keyes, his two deputies, Ryan and Dr. Likely were Asst. U. S. Atty. Ohanesian, who is working on the government's investigation of a $500,000 ransom note sent to Mrs. McPherson's mother and a shorthand reporter.

Ohanesian was present in the grand jury room merely as an "observer" in the belief some of the testimony given might be of some aid in the government's investigation, it was stated.

The only other witnesses who appeared at the Hall of Justice yesterday besides Mrs. McPherson were Frank Langan, manager of the Ocean View Hotel at Venice, where Mrs. McPherson changed her clothes, and Mrs. Sylvia Oberman of Venice, who says she saw her talking on the beach with a man whom the evangelist addressed as "Denny," or some other similar name. The two witnesses were told to return Tuesday.

Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. McPherson's two children, Rolf McPherson and Roberta Star Semple, and Miss Emma Schafer, her secretary, also subpoened as witnesses, failed to accompany the evangelist to the Hall of Justice.

CONVENTIONAL ATTIRE

Mrs. McPherson appeared before the grand jury in the conventional Angelus Temple attire of immaculately white dress with blue robe over the shoulders, her wealth of golden brown hair done high on her head. She was pale, but her eyes sparkled and her mannerisms lacked none of the vitality characteristic of her.

She smiled in conversation with her attorney, Veitch, as she turned into the grand jury entrance with Veitch escorting her closely with a tight grip on her left arm. She glanced at the door, smiled and stepped lightly within. The door swung on its springs and the following crowd was stopped.

Mrs. McPherson was in the jury room during the morning an hour and three-quarters. Mr. Veitch informed Mrs. McPherson's bodyguard, consisting of seven beautiful young women, attired as duplicates of herself, even to their hair, when she was ready to leave and they assembled, Bibles in hand, at the rear entrance to the jury room, huddling around the door, apparently to shield their leader from the army of newspaper photographers waiting there. They refused to give their names.

The grand jurors understood from Mrs. McPherson that she would not go out to lunch and Foreman Carter was announcing her statement to that effect when he was interrupted by the booming of flashlights as she stepped out of the jury room corridor to leave the building. Carter stopped short and smiled in a nonplussed manner.

KISSES GIRLS

Mrs. McPherson grasped each one of the waiting temple girls and kissed her fervidly. The way through the corridor was cleared with difficulty to the elevator and as she walked hastily with Veitch at her side, she paused to say, "Why, hello there, brother," to one old man and to the others who tried to grasp her hand or dress she cried, "God bless you."

Many in the crowd were unable to distinguish her from her bodyguard, so similar were they in size and appearance. She wore a black straw hat pulled down over her face as she

M'PHERSON NURSE WILL NOT APPEAR

Hospital Declines to Let Her Leave for Hearing Here; Murchison Coming

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) July 8. (Exclusive)—Los Angeles investigators of the Aimee Semple McPherson mystery received a setback here tonight when Miss Meribah Shinn, nurse at the Calumet Hospital, announced she will be unable to respond to a subpoena to appear before the Los Angeles County Grand Jury. Miss Shinn is regarded as an important witness regarding the physical condition of Mrs. McPherson after the latter's asserted hardships in wandering for many hours across the desert.

The only reason made public for this latest development was that the hospital authorities refused to grant her permission to leave the hospital for the Los Angeles investigation. Miss Shinn expressed willingness to tell the jurors all she knows of the case.

Police Sergeant Murchison and Miss Shinn both received subpoenas today.

Subpoenas which were expected for Chief of Police Bowden, Mayor Hinton, Ernesto Boubion, Presidente of Agua Prista, and Chief of Police Villa of that city, had not been received here late this afternoon. No explanation for the delay was offered by Bowden except that he believes the persons sought from this city by the jury will be summoned in pairs rather than all at one time.

investigation of the kidnaping and at last a real effort is under way to get the facts and apprehend the kidnapers.

"I told the grand jurors the whole story, all over again, in every detail."

Showering blessings upon those who have believed with her and extolling them for their loyalty to her, she said she realized that her story must sound strange and weird and that she could not blame persons for having some skepticism.

"Why, I sometimes find it hard to believe myself," she declared, "and have to pinch myself to make sure I'm back again and it all happened.

"If I were a trained investigator—I'm not—but if I were, one of the first things I would want to know if I didn't believe the story of my kidnaping would be the motive for not telling the truth."

In succession, she pointed out what she said were the only possible motives in such a case, shattering each as she propounded it.

She named insanity, amnesia, illness, overwork, love and publicity as the only motives which could govern in the event that her story is untrue.

DENIES AMNESIA

She declared it unnecessary to defend her sanity, denied that she suffered from amnesia and said physicians who examined her at the time she was insured for $300,000 (the policy later being dropped) told her she was "100 per cent well and whole," thereby effectually disproving a theory of "sickness." As for overwork, she could never tire in the service of "Christ and the effort to bring souls to salvation," she said.

"Love?" She laughed and the congregation joined her. "If I fall in love it will have to be with someone who is a better preacher than I am," she concluded.

"Publicity? Why, that's so silly," and she recounted the presence of thousands who thronged London to hear her, and other thousands who packed to capacity the largest auditoriums in Denver and St. Louis when she spoke there. Then she went on to say that since her return the temple congregation has increased as never before, 240 having joined last Sunday alone, and "even those who had become a bit lax in their attendance, coming perhaps twice a week, are now coming every day."

She also told her audience of the verification of her story brought forward by Mr. Swift, treated elsewhere in this issue in detail.

"Thank God, the truth seems to be coming," she shouted and the temple resounded with applause.

WITNESS FOUND TO KIDNAPING

ticed a large sedan or limousine leaving a man out. He was right in the Speedway.

"I was just going to pull around and when I saw this sedan car pull right in across the traffic I thought it was the Santa Monica ambulance coming to get someone who had been overcome. The man got out and walked backward. I, of course, did not pull in his way. As the man walked backward he looked at me rather crossly. I thought he would not like me to cross, so I did not move. I took him for a hospital doctor, or something like that. He swore rather roughly but I thought that wouldn't keep him from being a doctor. I did not move, just stayed.

"The car backed rapidly. It had been in the Speedway, but backed in on Navy, across the traffic and parked just about opposite from the bath-house. As the man walked back to the car he took another good look at me and I took a good look at him.

"I thought I would back out and get out, but I had no more than thought it till someone pulled in behind me so I sat tight. I don't remember whether I just sat there or whether I had a few words with the lunch man.

WOMAN ARRIVES

"I don't think it was very long before I heard a lady come up and I think she came on my side of the sedan. She said:

"'Here she is, here she is! I have found her! I have found her.'

"I don't remember whether she said, 'I have found her' once or twice, but I think it was twice. She said it joyously and I thought she had been looking for someone who had stayed out longer than they had expected her to. Then I saw a man and a woman come up. I can't say just how long after it was, but the woman was quite a little ahead of the two who came up. I noticed the woman had some kind of a cloak or coat wrapped around her. I could see that she had on a bright green bathing suit, could not tell the exact shade, but could see that it was a very bright color. I heard some words which were, I think,

"'Get in, get in the car.' Something to that effect. I did not notice particularly, just thinking that some girl had stayed in the water longer than they had expected.

THINKS ENGINE RUNNING

"I think the engine of the car was running, but am not positive. I think that the man started the engine right away as soon as the lady came up. The door slammed and the car started very quickly. I heard someone fall and thought someone got a tumble. I looked at the car closely but could not see through the glass.

"When I got blocked I took out my watch and it was 2:20. When I left I took out my watch again to see how long I had been blocked and it was 2:30.

"As a description of the people, the lady whom I noticed coming up who said, 'Here she is, here she is. I have found her. I have found her,' was away above the average-size woman. That is very vague, of course, but I would have taken her for a woman weighing say possibly 175. She was not so tall, but of average height. I first took her for a Mexican.

NOT MEXICAN

"I first thought the man I first saw getting out of the car was a Mexican or of foreign birth, but on closer look saw that he was not.

"The man who drove the car I think was a man who would weigh possibly 200 pounds. He got out of the car before he backed out of the Speedway. He got out of the car and walked around.

"The man who directed the other in parking was a man about six feet tall, weighing possibly 170, maybe not that heavy. He at first did not look so tall, but when he got up closer to me he rather surprised me. He was rather a sallow-complected man and looked to be about 45 years of age, though he could easily enough be 50 or 55."

MAN GASHED BY SAW HAS CHANCE TO LIVE

ELIZABETH (N. J.) July 8. (AP)—Although Frank Mesgleski's back was cut through and his left lung severed when he fell against a circular saw in his son's woodworking plant yesterday, he has a fair chance for life, surgeons said today. The man was taken to the Alexian Brothers' Hospital, where several hours were spent in stitching up the wound.

CROWLEY OUT AS FLEET HEAD

in the fight against consummation of the deal by Pacific-Northwestern interests before the Senate Commerce Committee and in the courts here.

Capt. Crowley was notified of the board's action and immediately left his office. He issued a statement, however, reverting to the Dollar sale incident as the only act of his as corporation head which had been disapproved by a majority of the board. Vice-Chairman Plummer and Admiral Benson also issued brief but sharp statements recording their disapproval of Crowley's removal.

"We have removed a man whose entire life has been devoted to the successful sailing, building and operating of American ships; I think this action speaks for itself," was all Mr. Plummer had to say.

Admiral Benson's statement was:

"I was most strongly opposed to the action of the board in removing Capt. Crowley, as in my opinion he has made a most efficient president of the Fleet Corporation, and I do not believe it possible to get a man in this country who has a more practical grasp of the American shipping situation or a better idea of the measures that should be taken to solve the practical problems facing the United States Shipping Board."

In his statement, Capt. Crowley pointed out that he had served as head of the Fleet Corporation for nine months, during which time he had brought about savings in excess of $5,000,000.

"No reason has been given for my removal," his statement continued. "The only act of mine, so far as I know, which has met with any disapproval by a majority of the board, has been my attitude in relation to the sale for the American Oriental Line and its affects upon the American merchant marine.

"I have had the most hearty support and indorsement of the two members of the board, who admittedly know more about merchant shipping than any other members, Admiral Benson and Vice-Chairman Plummer."

The new corporation president based his request for retirement from the Army on thirty-seven years of active service, which began as an enlisted man in the combat service in 1889.

Born in Lafayette, Ind., in 1867, he served in the several Indian campaigns, in the Santiago (Cuba) campaign, in the Philippines and in the occupaton of Vera Cruz in 1914, and also saw service in this country during the World War.

Gen. Dalton did not take over his new office today, although he was at Shipping Board headquarters and is expected to be inducted formally as president of the Fleet Corporation tomorrow.

CHANGE BELIEVED
PLEASING TO COOLIDGE

PAUL SMITH'S (N. Y.) July 8. (AP) Although President Coolidge made no comment when advised today of the removal of Capt. Crowley as president of the Emergency Fleet Corporation and the appointment of Brig.-Gen. A. C. Dalton in his place, his associates commented upon the coincidence that both were appointed to office by the Shipping Board during the absence from Washington of Mr. Coolidge.

AIMEE GRILLED BY GRAND JURY

Mrs. McPherson was scheduled to arrive at the Hall of Justice about 10 a.m., and half an hour before that time several thousand persons already were assembled on each side of Temple street, between Broadway and New High street, near the building entrance. The windows of the Courthouse and Hall of Records, opposite the entrance, and windows on the hall itself on that side of the building were filled with watchers.

The crowd on the sidewalk was roped off and on each side of the entrance a cordon of temple girls, in their costumes, was drawn up for Mrs. McPherson to walk between.

Roland Rich Woolley, attorney for some of the church associates of Mrs. McPherson, arrived at the District-Attorney's office early in the forenoon with a woman, introduced as Mrs. Smith, whose name, it was said, is Mrs. C. Hamilton. She was taken into the jury room, but did not testify, it was learned. She was said by Woolley to be an intimate friend of Mrs. McPherson, but he declined to disclose further information about her. She is a large woman of past middle age and with dark red hair. She was the "mystery woman" of the day.

Woolley is not one of Mrs. McPherson's counsel, he said, but, according to Veitch, has been retained by some of Mrs. McPherson's friends to help her, and Veitch said he gladly will accept counsel from Woolley.

AMERICAN EX-POILUS HIT WAR-DEBT PROTEST PLAN

Volunteers' Body Refuses to Join Paris Parade; Held Insult to United States

PARIS, July 8. (AP)—There will be no participation by Americans in the "Protest Parade" to be staged by veterans of the French army on Sunday in opposition to ratification of the American debt settlement with France.

The Association of American Volunteers in the French Army, 1914-17, has definitely declined to have any part in the demonstration. Yesterday the American volunteers announced their intention of being represented at the Alan Seeger monument in the Place Des Etats Unis to receive a wreath from the French Veterans Association as it marched past.

HERRICK IN STRONG STAND

The American Ambassador, Myron T. Herrick, has taken a strong stand against the action of the French, characterizing the proposed parade an insult directed against the United States and participation by Americans in such a demonstration as almost tantamount to treason.

In a letter announcing its decision not to participate, the Association of American Volunteers declares:

"We see ourselves obliged to retire before the aggressive spirit, even injurious wording, of the posters you have put up by the thousands throughout France. The heading 'Washington Calvary of Victors' is an insult to all soldiers who came over to fight for France."

PROGRAM CHANGED

The letter contains an admonition to the leaders of the demonstrations: "Be not illy advised. Your friends in America, who are trying to understand the situation, are rallying to your support. We who suffered with you during the war, who grew strong in love and wisdom through those trials are by your side and we must carry the same burdens as you, our brothers, carry. Hence we dare offer this advice."

Ambassador Herrick is much relieved over the action of the American volunteers. He had protested to Premier Briand and others in authority against the demonstration as originally designed. This contemplated the draping of the statue of Washington in black, the hanging of crepe on the entrance to the American Embassy and the playing of a funeral dirge over the death of Franco-American friendship.

FRANC GOES DOWN TO TWO AND ONE-HALF CENTS

PARIS, July 8. (AP)—The franc went down to the value of just about 2½ cents this afternoon while the Chamber of Deputies was discussing the respective merits of the experts' financial plan and the Socialists' proposal for a capital levy. The franc went as low as 39.80 to the dollar after the close of the Bourse.

The franc's weakness at the opening today was attributed to the impression made yesterday by the speech of the Socialist leader, M. Blum, who declared that M. Caillaux's plan "conceals germs of inflation" and who advocated capital levy.

The Finance Minister replied with seemingly good effect today, but the franc continued to go down. M. Caillaux reminded the Chamber that the solution of the problem was largely a question of confidence. When the people at home were reassured, then it would be possible to obtain support abroad, which was essential to stabilization.

The Minister rejected absolutely the idea of capital levy, and contended that it would bring about more disastrous inflation than would be risked by any other scheme.

The Chamber's objection to foreign loans to aid in stabilization of the currency, said M. Caillaux, was about as reasonable as would be refusal to allow merchants to borrow money to carry on their business.

FRANCE CAN NOT PAY, SAYS EX-MINISTER

PARIS, July 8. (Exclusive)—The ex-Minister of Finance and richest man in France, M. Loucheur, when interviewed regarding the Berenger accord, said that at the present time France can not possibly pay the United States and insisted upon a transfer clause similar to the Dawes plan, asserting that to be indispensable to a solution of the problem.

"In the present situation, we are physically unable to pay the sums to America and England that we promised," said M. Loucheur, referring to the 4,000,000,000 francs ($110,000,000) interest now being paid to Washington and London. "It is the necessity of purchasing dollars and pounds which has depreciated the franc. The very fall of the franc these days has been due to the necessity of Joseph Caillaux buying sterling to make payments which are due at the end of July. We can only place at the disposition of our creditors in America and England, an amount in francs equivalent to dollars and pounds due them. Then, if they can negotiate the exchange without depreciating the franc, let them do it."

Regarding future payments on the war totals, M. Loucheur suggested the creation of a special "tax for the liberation of the inter-Allied debts."

"Our children and grandchildren must know for whom and why they are carrying for sixty-two years these crushing burdens," he explained.

M. Loucheur admitted that such taxation would implant a bitter hatred against America and England during the long period of the annuities, but indicated that it would teach the French to recoup sums from tourists here.

BIRTHDAY OF OIL WIZARD TAME EVENT

Golf and Ride Entertain John D. on Eighty-seventh Anniversary at His Home

TARRYTOWN (N. Y.) July 8. (AP)—A game of golf and a ride through the Westchester Hills were the high spots today in John D. Rockefeller's observance of his eighty-seventh birthday.

The day was spent for the most part in quiet at his Pocantico Hills estate in the company of members of his family and friends.

After a light breakfast Mr. Rockefeller, as is his custom, retired to his study and attended to his business affairs. Then he played his daily game of golf, the pastime he expects to carry him to the century point. His opponent was W. O. Inglis, who is writing his biography. The score was not made public.

A light luncheon preceded his ride through the hills. Upon his return he spent nearly an hour reading some of the many messages of congratulation which poured in from various parts of the world.

In the evening a birthday dinner in the Rockefeller home was attended by old friends and relatives.

Doctor Accused of Using Dead Man's Permit

SACRAMENTO, July 8. (AP)—Charged with having practiced medicine at Maxwell, Colusa county, for twenty years upon the authority of a dead man's certificate, Dr. Oscar Franklin of that city was today subpoened to appear before the State Board of Medical Examiners at its October meeting by Dr. Charles B. Pinkham, secretary of the board.

Pinkham stated that investigations of the Medical Board indicate that the real Dr. Franklin died in New York City in 1908, after having been in California a short time and obtaining a license. The asserted impostor, Pinkham charges, learned of the facts concerning the New York physician, assumed his name and applied for a duplicate license, which was granted.

When confronted by the investigators recently and asked to produce his diploma, Pinkham said that Franklin informed the officers and others that his diploma and other credentials were destroyed in the San Francisco fire of 1906.

RIGHT TO RULE RADIO DENIED

Commerce Department Held Without Authority

Laws Do Not Give It Control, Says Justice Body

Officials to Outline Future Policy at Once

WASHINGTON, July 8. (AP)—Under an opinion rendered by the Department of Justice today, radio in the United States continues virtually unregulated.

In substance, it held that the Commerce Department, which sought its advice on the subject after Congress failed to pass specific regulatory legislation, is without authority under existing laws to control broadcasting by the issuance of definite wave lengths.

SIMILAR OPINION

This was similar to the opinion handed down by the Federal Court at Chicago in deciding a test case against the Zenith Radio Corporation involving asserted "pirating" of an unauthorized wave length. While its full import was not made known, it was announced at the Commerce Department that its text will be made public tomorrow along with a statement outlining the department's future plans.

Meanwhile, officials of the department refrained from comment pending a study of the document and no indication was given as to what the department's policy might be. It already has licensed and assigned wave lengths to more than 500 broadcasting stations and has on file more than 800 applications of those who desire to enter the field.

CHAOS FORECAST

Many of its new licenses and renewals of old ones have been for only short periods, officials point out, the theory that Congress would outline some definite lines, which either they or some other administrative body should follow.

Secretary Hoover had predicted chaos in the radio industry in event the first Federal Court decision was adverse to the government, and on what its policy is to be pending passage of some form of legislation by Congress, now that the government's own law department has held it is without authority, no one would venture an opinion.

TEXAS MAY FEED TRUST POTASH DIET

Plan to Smash Monopoly of Europeans Developed; American Supply Sought

WASHINGTON, July 8. (AP)—On the heels of a statement today by Julius Klein, director of the Bureau of Domestic and Foreign Commerce, that the Franco-German Potash Syndicate is regarded here as a monopoly, despite contentions to the contrary of its sales agency in this country, announcement was made at the Commerce Department that an official of the Bureau of Mines will leave shortly for Texas to talk over with State officials plans for exploring potash deposits there.

The department has an appropriation of $100,000 to carry on the investigation in Texas and in view of the benefit to Texas from any operations for potash recovery there were indications that some help might be sought of the State in carrying on the work.

The Geological Survey will decide whether the borings are to be made and the Bureau of Mines will supervise the drilling operations.

Approximately 90 per cent of the potash consumed in this country last year was imported from fields controlled by the Franco-German syndicate. Officials have been outspoken in their denunciation of practices tending to monopolize the production and sale of raw products essential to this country's needs, and they intend to do their utmost to develop production in this country and its possessions.

GOULD ESTATE SHOWS $1,662,385 SHRINKAGE

TOMS RIVER (N. J.) July 8. (AP)—Fees and expenses totaling more than $100,000 were awarded yesterday by Judge John P. Kirkpatrick at the third accounting of the shrunken estate of the late George J. Gould. The accounting, submitted as of last February, showed a total of $13,541,311.10, against the 1926 figure of $14,203,696.76, a shortage of $1,662,385.66. The will was filed last February by the executors, Kingdon Gould and Schuyler Neilson Rice of New Brunswick.

RADIO "SHORTENS" TRAIN

Conductor Facilitates Operation by Talking to Engineer From Caboose

CHICAGO, July 8. (Exclusive)—A new field for radio communication was opened today when a radio-equipped freight train on the New York Central lines was operated between Chicago and Elkhart, Ind., and two-way communication maintained between the engine and the caboose, nearly a mile and a quarter apart, during the entire trip. It was the first time such a demonstration had ever been held under actual road conditions.

The tests were conducted under the direction of Committee Twelve (radio and carrier-current system committee) of the American Railway Association, working in conjunction with the Zenith Radio Corporation and the New York Central. The demonstration was so successful that many of the railroad officials who witnessed it were enthusiastic and predicted that within a short time all freight trains on United States railways will carry radio equipment.

About sixty persons were present when the 116-car train, consisting of sixty-two loaded and fifty-one empty freight cars, the private car of F. F. Reifel, general superintendent of the New York Central Lines between Chicago and Toledo, O., a passenger coach and a caboose, pulled out of the Englewood freight yards bound for Elkhart. Most of the witnesses were railroad officials, a dozen or more American and one Canadian railroad, being represented, and during the four-hour-and-thirty-two-minute trip practically all of them held a conversation from the caboose with the engineer or with "Gus," the Zenith expert, stationed at the front end of the train.

The operation of freight trains, especially long ones, has been considerably handicapped by the lack of communication between the front and rear ends and that was why the officials were so interested in the tests. The present-day freight-service communication from rear to front or vice versa is almost entirely dependent upon arm or lantern signals.

The feasibility of radio as a means of communication between engine and caboose was demonstrated before the test train had left the yards. Train rules prohibit the movement of a train until there is a certain amount of air pressure on the brakes of the last car. When the train was ready to start that pressure was not sufficient and Conductor Jellison called Engineer Nelson and told him to give him more air. Under ordinary circumstances signals would have been necessary and from where the caboose was located, the engine could not be seen.

BRUSH FIRE ENDANGERS BUILDINGS

Blaze Across River From Redding Threatens Farm and School Houses

REDDING, July 9. (AP)—A brush and grass fire believed to have started from a carelessly discarded cigar stub, directly across the Sacramento River from Redding, was threatening the Enterprise schoolhouse, the Leonardini farm buildings and several other structures today. The flames, fanned by a stiff north wind, were racing along a one-mile path and had covered a stretch four miles long a few hours after they had started.

Approximately 100 fire fighters, including line crews from the Pacific Gas and Electric Company and a platoon from the Redding fire department, were at the scene.

TEN THOUSAND SEALS GET FREE HAIRCUT

SEWARD (Alaska) July 9. (AP)—Ten thousand seals on the Pribilof Islands of Bering Sea are receiving hair cuts, Capt. A. Anderson of the United States Bureau of Fisheries vessel Rider reported here. He explained that the seals, which are wards of the Federal government, are shorn so that the increase, if any, next year may be noted. Only males receive the tonsorial attention.

PAST COSTS CAROL THRONE

Father Reveals How He Forced Prince to Renounce Claim Because of His Morals

BUCHAREST, July 8 (AP)—The real reason that Prince Carol renounced his claim to the throne of Rumania was because of his "repeated moral delinquencies" showing that he was not fit ever to become the ruler of his people, according to his father, King Ferdinand.

In a talk with a correspondent for the Associated Press, the King revealed that he, himself, asked Prince Carol to renounce the throne. Although he asked to be excused from discussing in detail the circumstances of the renunciation, King Ferdinand said:

"It is a long and painful story. But I can tell you this, that there were no political motives behind it. It way my own act, provoked by my son's extraordinary conduct. No political leader forced a decision upon me.

"Although my action gave me deep anguish and pain to the Queen and myself, it had to be done in the interests of my country, the people, the government and the crown. Carol proved by his repeated moral delinquences that he was entirely unfitted to assume the duties of a sovereign. Therefore, I demanded his renunciation. I could with propriety have done nothing else."

Much secrecy has surrounded the reasons back of Prince Carol's renunciation of the throne last December, although his love affairs were known to have played a large part in his difficulties with his parents and the Rumanian government. Political complications were suggested as the reason, but could not be confirmed.

Prince Carol was married first in 1918 to Mlle. Zizi Lambrino, who came of humble stock. He was arrested and imprisoned despite his pleas to be allowed to renounce the throne and live quietly with his morganatic bride. Finally he consented to an annulment, and in 1921 was married to Princess Helen of Greece. But this marriage did not prove happy, and stories were constantly in circulation concerning Carol's escapades.

One in particular, that with Mme. Lupescu, attracted wide attention, especially after his dramatic renunciation of the throne made public December 31, 1925. Latest reports of Carol said that he and Mme. Lupescu had bought a villa just outside of Paris. Only recently Carol was dropped from the royal civil list of the Rumanian government. His private income is said to be about $30,000.

Crandall Retires in Sixth With Lame Souper

Emory Puts Doc in a Tie for Hurling Lead

BY ROBERT RAY

Jousting Hank Hulvey, the league's leading hurler, for five runs and to the showers in less than four innings, the league - leading Angels had an easy time blanking the Hollywood Stars, 7 to 0, in the home-brew series opener yesterday at Wrigley Field. "Doc" Crandall pitched six of the scoreless rounds and then pulled up with a heavy arm, retiring in the seventh to let Clyde "Pea Ridge" Day complete the good work of blanking the Stars.

Yesterday's victory moved the veteran Crandall up into a tie with Hulvey for the league's pitching honors, "Doc" having won twelve and lost three to Hulvey's eight won and two lost, giving both of them an .800 average.

The win also increased the Angels' lead over the Oaks to eight full games, the Aromas having fallen before the Seals yesterday at Sacramento.

The Angels started right out after Hulvey in the first inning, when Cramer and Armstrong bunched singles and then Art Weis sacrificed to center along and then Art Weis beat out a sacrifice fly to Cramer, bringing Statz across. In the second frame Ray Jacobs

LATZO BATTLES LEVINE TONIGHT

New Welter Champ Defends Title at New York

Third Gotham Fighter is Dangerous Challenger

Third Titular Scrap in Two Months at 147 Pounds

NEW YORK, July 8. (AP)—The third welterweight championship battle in less than two months tomorrow night calls upon Pete Latzo of Scranton, Pa., to take his newly won crown into the ring of the National League baseball park against a skillful New York boxer, George Levine, over the regulation title route of fifteen rounds.

PETE LATZO

Prevailing odds are 9 to 5 on the champion. Latzo already holds the verdict over his clever challenger, a decision gained last year. His record supports a boast that he has invariably made use of an initial test with a fighter to exhibit improved form against the same boxer in a return battle. But more important than these things to critics is the impressive start Latzo made as champion by his knockout victory over Willie Harmon last week at Newark, N. J.

Levine, who came to the front line of the challenging field by triumphs over Tommy Milligan, British champion, and Jack Zivic of Pittsburgh, pins chief hope for victory to outspeed and outbox the titleholder. He points with confidence to the fact that Latzo, a two-fisted fighter of the give-and-take type, has been troubled in the past by clever foemen such as Dave Shade, Billy Wells, George Ward and Frankie Schoell. Moreover, the challenger is generally admitted to have made long strides since his 1925 defeat by the Pennsylvanian.

Reports came from camps of the two men today that each had successfully reduced to the weight

CHICAGO STAR TOURS SCIOTO COURSE IN 68

Finishes First Round Two Strokes Ahead of Bobby Jones; George Von Elm Has Card of 78

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

SCIOTO CLUB, COLUMBUS (O.) July 8. (Exclusive Dispatch)—A large body of golfers went walking over the tassel-grass meadows and kiln-dried fairways of this golf course today, shooting the first eighteen holes of the national open championship tournament and when the sun mercifully went elsewhere along toward evening, the huge tally sheet which looks like the score board in a bucket shop, had something friendly to say for Will Mehlhorn of Chicago.

The tally sheet said that Will Mehlhorn had shot his round in the economical total of 68 shots and stood two strokes better than even the great Bobby Jones of Atlanta, who recently won the British open championship and who now stands second in this one.

There is another fellow in there, tied with Jones, at 70. His name is John H. Junor and it was a shame that no one had noticed him until he came shuffling up to the eighteenth green, the last player of the day, and holed out a birdie 4 to make his 70, with only a few die-hard spectators to watch.

BILL MELHORN

It is some time since anyone has had anything friendly to say for Will Mehlhorn.

It seems that he climbed a tree at a critical moment of a tournament in Texas, last winter and smote a tremendous sneeze, which so unnerved Bobby Cruickshank, then in the act of putting, that Cruickshank hit himself in the flank, pocket, failed

BOB SAGE LOSES TO SLATTERY

Jimmy Starts Comeback by Gaining Decision in Ten-Round Bout

NEW YORK, July 8. (AP) — Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo, N. Y., gained a judges' verdict over Bob Sage of Detroit in a hard-fought ten-round feature bout at Madison Square Garden tonight. Both boxers abandoned caution in the final rounds and swapped blows furiously to the finish.

Al Brown, Panama boxer, won a judges' decision over Pete Zivic of Pittsburgh in a ten-round bout preliminary. Each weighed 118 pounds.

Eddie McMullen of New York gained a decision over Frankie Brown of Jersey City in a four-round tilt, each scaling 162.

Billy Kelly of Scranton, Pa., outboxed Bert Laws of Ireland in a six-round struggle. Kelly weighed 109½ and Laws 113½.

BRAINS WON FOR LA BARBA

Rivers's Natural Ability Not Enough to Cope With Fast Thinking of Champ, Declares McDonald

BY PAUL LOWRY

"Fidel La Barba beat my fighter because he thinks faster." This was the frank comment yesterday of Charlie McDonald, manager of Georgie Rivers, on the defeat of the little Mexican challenger in his stirring ten-round argument with the flyweight king at the Olympic Auditorium, Wednesday night.

"Rivers has great natural ability. So has La Barba, but the champion is brainier," declared McDonald.

"There was no question about Lieut. Duke Kenworthy's verdict. La Barba won decisively. He is a wonderful fighter.

"Maybe you never noticed it, but nearly every time Rivers landed a right, the champion sunk a left clear up to the hilt in his stomach.

"And in the clinches when La Barba was unable to land on Rivers's body he whanged down on Georgie's arms. These were so sore by the time the ninth round opened that Rivers could scarcely raise them. Unable to reach La Barba at long range because of the latter's greater reach the challenger put up a great battle. It was the best of his career, but he caught the champion at peak form."

FIDEL LA BARBA.

Such praise from a manager of a defeated fighter is unusual. It affords a slant on the character of the man who uttered the remarks and also on some inside angles of the fight that were probably overlooked by many who saw the battle.

Early estimates of the attendance were somewhat too optimistic, as indicated by the official figures given out yesterday.

In round numbers the attendance was 7000 and the gate receipts after

MISS WILLS SOON BACK ON COURTS

Helen to Resume Practice Upon Arrival Home; Stars Sail From England

BROOKLINE (Mass.) July 8. (AP)—Helen Wills, national lawn tennis champion for the past three years, will resume practice the 19th inst. on the grass courts of the Longwood Cricket Club, Chestnut Hill.

Helen Wills

Miss Wills, Miss Elizabeth Ryan and Miss Mary K. Browne sailed from Southampton, Eng., for home today. Her fellow-Californians, who, with Mrs. Marion Jessup, comprised the team which captured the Wightman Cup, also plan to be here the week after next. Original plans called for a women's singles tournament at Longwood, but this has been canceled and their practice will coincide with the men's singles event, for the historic Longwood Bowl, which has been designated as the first official try-out for American Davis Cup stars.

BOB MEUSEL of the Los Angeles Meusels has been one of the main reasons for the success of the Yankees this year Redoubtable Robert has taken a new lease on life and, in the words of Bill Shakespeare, "The kid sure has snapped out of it." Last season this tall, handsome outfielder fell below the .300 mark for the first time in his major-league career, but now he is not only back within the charmed circle once more, but is batting around .360; better than he ever did before.

Just at present the Yankees are forced to get along without Meusel and will continue to do so for a week or so, as he is laid up with a broken foot. Bobby hurt his hoof sliding home in a game against Boston June 23, and his absence is proving a big handicap to the league leaders.

Mister Meusel's energy doesn't leave him when he arrives on base, either. While in times gone by he has given evidence of being lazy and lethargic, now he is full of pep, and, no doubt, imbued with the pennant urge, he is, as this is written, the leading base stealer in both circuits. As far as catching flies goes, he is all to the tanglefoot, and Bob's throwing arm is as good as ever, which means that there is none better.

Bob will be 29 years old a week from next Monday. He was born in San Jose, Cal., the birthplace of "Strangler" Lewis, and is the younger brother of the most famous brother combination now in baseball. Perhaps combination is not the word to use in this case, as these Meusel

BRAVES' TURNSTILE SCANDAL ENDS; NEW SECRETARY NAMED

BOSTON, July 8. (Exclusive—Judge Emil E. Fuchs, president of the National baseball club here, announced today Edmund P. Cunningham had succeded Edwin L. Riley as secretary of the club. Mr. Cunningham has been sporting editor of the Boston Traveler.

Coincident with this announcement, Judge Fuchs disclosed that an investigation of irregularities with field turnstiles has been concluded, with an admission of guilt by an employee who was not named.

Local police and detectives conducted the investigation, which is said to have revealed a shortage of almost $50,000 during the five years.

Mr. Fuchs's statement reads:

"The Boston National League club, as a result of a complete investigation, discovered irregularities with

Big Bill Cops Straight Sets; Johnny Doeg Wins Way To Clay Court Finals at Detroit

DETROIT, July 8. (AP)—William T. Tilden II, of Philadelphia, won his way into the semifinals of the national clay court tennis championship here today by defeating Lewis B. White of Austin, Tex., 6-3, 7-5, 6-1.

Cranston Holman, Palo Alto, Cal., and George M. Lott, Jr., of Chicago had four games each in the fifth and deciding set when rain interrupted play. Holman won the first set, 6-3, and the fourth set, 6-2. Lott won the second and third sets, 9-7 and 6-1, respectively.

Bill Tilden

Play was resumed after half an hour, Lott and Holman agreeing to replay the fifth set. Holman took the first game, but Lott got the next five; then Holman won five straight, bringing the score to 6-5, in his favor. The Chicagoan took three in a row to end the match, 8-6.

To enter the semifinals in the junior division, Emmet Pare of Chicago beat Junior Coen of Kansas City, 6-0, 6-3.

Berkley Bell, Austin, Tex.; "Sandy" Wiener, Philadelphia, and John Doeg, Santa Monica, Cal., won places in the semifinal singles of the first junior clay-court championship tennis tournament here today.

Bell, also a championship player, had the hardest tussle in his play, being extended to three sets to defeat H. H. Bancroft, San Diego, 1-6, 6-3, 6-3. The match was a battle between the serve of the Texan and the forehand return of the Californian, Bell gaining a large number of his points on service aces. In the third and deciding set, most of the games were long-drawn-out deuce affairs.

Wiener defeated Donald Cram, Nashville, Tenn., 6-2, 6-4, while Doeg won from Donald Strachan, Philadelphia, 6-4, 6-2.

BRITISH NEWSPAPERS STILL BUSY QUOTING WALTER HAGEN

LONDON, July 8. (Exclusive)—"Great Britain has lost all its pep and fight in all sports," the Evening News quotes Walter Hagen as saying before he left England.

In a one-column ironical front-page story this afternoon, the Evening News' reporter, who interviewed Hagen before he sailed, attributes further criticism by Hagen of the British which did not appear in his first interview.

"The Australians lick you at cricket—your own game," said Hagen according to the Evening News. "You haven't a golfer with pep enough to win a championship and this French Suzanne Lenglen licks you all at tennis. You haven't a first-class boxer in the country. There is nobody in the world like an Englishman for kidding himself about what a whale of a fellow he is when he is licked and what a hell of a sportsman he is."

Boston Lands on Slipping Tigers Again

Lambasting is Sixth in Row for Detroit

PHILADELPHIA, July 8. (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics went into second place today by trouncing the Chicago White Sox, 8 to 7. The Mackmen hit the ball hard. Simmons hit a home run and later Poole scored two runners ahead of him with a circuit smash. Poole's homer proved to be the winning hit, for the Sox came back strong in the final inning, scoring five runs on six hits. The game ended with a Chicago player on second.

ERNIE JOHNSON'S SUSPENSION STANDS

PORTLAND (Or.) July 8. (AP)—Manager Ernie Johnson of the Portland baseball club received notice today from President Harry A. Williams of the Pacific Coast League that after a conference with his umpires, he had decided to allow Johnson's suspension to stand. Following a protest by President Thomas Turner of the Portland club, Johnson was allowed to play until the protest was acted upon.

Johnson was suspended following his argument with Umpire Ryan in Monday's game over a base-running interference decision.

Walter Mails Bests Elliott in Mound Duel

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8. (AP)—Walter Mails allowed only five widely scattered hits today while his teammates pounded Jim Elliott for fourteen safe blows to give San Francisco a 4-to-1 win over Seattle, the second straight game for the Seals. Elliott's slants proved no puzzle to the Seals, and he retired from the mound after seven innings. Solons Rally in Eighth to Upset Acorns

SACRAMENTO, July 8. (AP)—Sacramento rallied in the eighth inning with two runs to nose out Oakland, 3 to 2, and take a 2-to-1 lead in the series here today. Vinci had pitched one-hit ball up to the eighth and had a one-run lead when the Oaks landed on him for two runs. Keating relieved him and stopped the rally. The Oaks threatened to tie things in the ninth, when Arlett opened with a double and took third on Caveney's bunt. Arlett was thrown out at the plate on an attempted steal with two out and two strikes on Lary. The score:

PORTLAND RIFLEMEN WIN SHOOTING EVENT

VICTORIA (B. C.) July 7. (AP)—Portland won the five-man pistol shoot of a seven-match event of International Police and Navy teams, at the Royal Mountain Mounted Police Barracks here today with 838 points. Seattle was second with 768 points.

SENCIO LEAVES WIDOW $5000

MANILA, July 8. (AP)—Clever Sencio, flyweight boxer who died in Milwaukee last April after a fight with Bud Taylor, left an estate valued at $5000, consisting chiefly in money deposited in a Chicago bank, states a petition filed in court here today by his widow, who asks to be appointed administratrix.

OBSERVATIONS

PREVIOUS to Wednesday night, when he faced Mr. Georgie Rivers, Fidel La Barba was the world's flyweight champion. During his fight with Mr. Rivers La Barba fought like a world's champion. Therefore, Mr. La Barba still is the world's champion. Fidel won back all the friends that he lost during his disappointing bouts of the past few months, when apparently the only title he held was that of being able to back around the ring faster than anybody in the world. He took the fight away from Rivers from the very start, and demonstrated that he can take and give 'em and that nobody at the weight is liable to beat him. He was every inch a champion.

The La Barba-Rivers fight just went to prove conclusively how well the flyweight champ can follow instructions. In his previous bouts in which his title was not at stake George Blake had instructed Fidel to play safe and he did. But Wednesday night Fidel had two things to fight for—his championship and his friends. He retained his title and won back his friends. When Fidel wants to fight, as he always used to as an amateur, he is the most popular kind of a scrapper, and that was very effectively demonstrated when not a dissenting voice was raised after he had beaten Rivers.

We pause here to toss a couple of bouquets, one at Cap Streiinger and the other at Lieut. Jesse Kenworthy. We approve Cap for picking Kenworthy as referee. The officiating was wonderfully efficient, and ought to be a lesson to our other arbiters, who seem more anxious to make it a three-handed fight than to enforce the rules. Kenworthy interfered gently but very firmly whenever necessary, but didn't butt in when the boys still had their hands free and showed a disposition to keep on fighting. La Barba and Rivers ought to be given three rousing cheers for fighting cleanly.

Isn't that a funny mix-up about the national track championship which everybody thought Hollywood had won, only to have the Illinois A.C. and New York A.C. take first and second by virtue of a better showing in the relays. It appears that for the first time in history and for some very good reasons, incidentally, the A.A.U. decided to count the relay points just exactly the way the rest of the points were counted, with the total score to decide the championship. And Hollywood, after winning the big share of the honors in the individual meet, lost the title because they had no relay team.

Too bad there was a slip-up like that. Hollywood was the only Coast team that had a representative right on the job, too. Hope that it won't happen again.

DELANEY SIGNED FOR FIGHT WITH SHARKEY

NEW YORK, July 8. (AP)—Jack Delaney of Bridgeport, Ct., who will make a second attempt to lift the light-heavyweight crown from Paul Berlenbach here next Thursday night, was matched today to fight Jack Sharkey of Boston in a twelve-round bout at the Coney Island Stadium on the 30th inst.

Contracts have been signed, the club revealed, with the understanding that Delaney will box the Hub heavyweight, whether he wins, loses or draws against Berlenbach. In the event of a victory for Delaney over Berlenbach, the light-heavyweight title would not be involved in the match against Sharkey, who normally scales 190 pounds or more.

TUSSLE CARDED FOR TOMORROW

Stars and Angels to Clash Monday to Make up Game Lost by Traveling

This afternoon's doubleheader between the Hollywood Stars and the league-leading Angels will not end the current series between the two clubs, for they will also have to play a game tomorrow to make up for the contest which they missed out on because of the Sheiks' tardy arrival from Portland. The series did not start until Thursday. Two games were played Friday to make up one of the tilts lost by the late start and the other one takes place tomorrow to round out the seven-game series. The Angels leave tomorrow night for Oakland, while the Stars remain here for a series with the Seals.

walked and all hands were safe when Leslie threw Mitchell's roller to Lee too late to get Jake at second. Truck Hannah hit into a double play, but Crandall doubled to the left-field corner and Jacobs counted.

Hulvey was driven to the showers in the fourth, when five hits were bunched to produce three more Seraph scores. Brasill was out to start the round and Jacobs followed with a double down the left-field line. Johnny Mitchell, with the hit-and-run sign on, singled to right, scoring Jacobs, and took second on the throw-in. Hannah put the hit-and-run sign on again and singled to right, Mitchell scoring. Crandall flied to Sheehan, but Statz sent Hannah to second with a hit to left. Hemingway's one-base clout over Lee's head scored Hannah from second, but not without considerable effort on Truck's part. That was all for Hulvey, Mulcahy coming on the scene and retiring the side by getting rid of Weis on a force play.

A pair of Hollywood errors made possible the other two Los Angeles runs in the sixth. With one away, Hannah walked and

Hoppe and Rosen Both Trying for Knockouts in Hollywood Bout Tonight

OTHAM BOXER ADE FAVORITE

York Boy Rated Too ood for Coast Lightweight

ppe Wins Last Three Bouts by Kayo Route

ie Owens Faces Roper in Classy Semi-wind-up

The main event at the Hollywood Athletic Legion stadium tonight will not last ten rounds, simply because the fighters, Charley Rosen and Dick Hoppe, have set their minds on winning by a knockout.

There seems to be some ill feeling between the two stables, one managed by Charley McDonald and the other by Eddie Sears. Hoppe and McDonald have heard that Sears stated, he thinks Hoppe soft for Rosen, and that should make a sweet fight for the fans who will wander out Hollywood way tonight.

In three fights during the last month Dick Hoppe has scored three knockouts. They [illegible] of the sensational variety. Those who saw Dick have [illegible] Perez on the floor six times and Reis last Saturday afternoon and finally fasten him in the count, claim that Hoppe will [illegible]

Rosen fans have seen [illegible] in many fights. Some of [illegible] have come against Dick [illegible] reasons he didn't train [illegible] as he should have. [illegible] changed his style of batting and it seems to have done [illegible] Richard. The neck [illegible] has come to Hoppe [illegible] with his ability to take a [illegible] but made him a dangerous lightweight.

[illegible] no matter how good Hoppe may be, he will go into the ring on the short end against the flashy New York Hebrew. Rosen, by beating Roscoe Hall and Johnny [illegible], won the favor of the [illegible] of Hollywood. He is fast and has a sleep-producing punch in either hand that he knows how to use.

Eddie Sears is going to groom Rosen for the Pacific Coast lightweight championship and then for a championship fight with Sammy Mandell in New York if such a fight can be sold to promoters back in Rosen's home town.

Hoppe is a good bet tonight to win. He has the stamina to go ten rounds and is hitting a lot harder and better than he ever did before. Rosen can be floored. Roscoe Hall did it and Hoppe hits harder than Hall does.

There is a fight in the semi-wind-up that can't possibly miss. Ernie Owens and Jack Roper should put up a fight that will be a thriller.

Owens is the smarter fighter of the two. He had one bout with Roper at Hollywood several months ago and Roper had a tough time staying the limit.

Jackie Carr fights Bud Couglis in the special spot. Another great prospect on the card is Bob Howard's boy, Jimmy Fella of the Hollywood Athletic Club.

Frankie Calfva and Jimmy Jasper raise the curtain.

PRIMED FOR HOPPE

Charley Rosen, the young Hebrew mauler shown herewith, meets Dick Hoppe in the main event at Hollywood tonight. Rosen has pleased the fans mightily in his first two bouts here and he will be made a slight favorite to cop. Hoppe is a tough one to lay low, besides carrying a potent wallop in his right duke. Rosen hits with either hand.

OREGON MAN NEW PACIFIC MENTOR

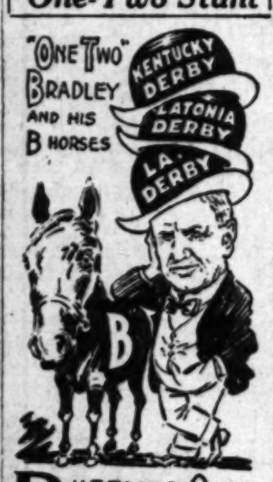
STOCKTON, July 8. (AP)—Ray McCart, captain of the Oregon Agricultural College varsity eleven in 1924, has been appointed coach at the College of the Pacific here.

McCart, who played halfback in college, will assist Head Coach "Swede" Righter with the Pacific varsity eleven and handle the freshman basketball team for the Tigers. He will also be in charge of the baseball squad.

TENNIS STAR ENTERS NORTHERN TOURNEYS

Miss Mary Barbara Taylor, tennis star of Occidental College and one of the leaders of the junior girls' net circles of Southern California, will compete in the northern tournaments at Seattle and Washington. This was the announcement made by the Tiger queen to her coach, Wynn Mace, tennis professional at the Los Angeles Tennis Club, yesterday afternoon.

Col. Bradley's Horses Patent One-Two Stunt



BUBBLING OVER BAGENBAGGAGE BOOT TO BOOT BEHAVE YOURSELF LACK SERVANT

BY AL DEMAREE
(Former Pitcher, New York Giants)

It looks as though Col. "One-Two" Bradley has started out to corner the derby market. Even the old Danbury hatters are getting uneasy.

Four times in turf history the colonel's 3-year-olds have run "one-two" in derbies. It started in 1921 when Behave Yourself won, followed by Black Servant, his stablemate.

Three times this year Bradley "B" colts have done their "one-two" stuff.

The Louisiana Derby at New Orleans started it with Baggenbaggage first and Boot-to-Boot a close second.

In the $50,000 Kentucky Derby Bubbling Over got all the glory, with Baggenbaggage second.

Just to make it three straight, Baggenbaggage and Boot-to-Boot ran "one-two" in the $25,000 Latonia Derby.

If anybody had laid a few bets at "Futsire book" odds that one man's colts would run first and second in the Louisiana, Kentucky and Latonia derbies he couldn't have carried his winnings home in a truck.

Unless Cariaris gets back into running shape soon it looks as though Bradley might add another American derby at Chicago next Saturday to his string.

BILL MEHLHORN LEADING

to hole out and blamed Mehlhorn. This was the sneeze heard around the world for Mehlhorn's poor taste in this crisis had been discussed in all languages including the profane, and from that time until today, when the score board so courageously came out for Will, it was just as easy to hear a good word for Satan himself at a camp meeting as to hear one for Will Mehlhorn at a golf tournament.

But success is a great healer and when Mehlhorn came gangling up to the eighteenth green to finish his round with two putts for that score of 68, just four swats under par, there was a sharp type of applause from the crowd and a dozen men jumped over the ropes onto the green to shake the hand of the man who owns the nose that snoze out of turn in the Texas open. All was forgiven and perhaps by this time Will Mehlhorn has been offered a club professional's job, of which he has had none for a long time.

The 150 professionals and amateurs in this tournament chose a broiling day to begin their march and there was scarcely a phantom of a breeze to ripple the silky whiskers of the rough, which is knee deep in some places and composed of some straight herb-like alfalfa in contrast to the tangled grass of the Eastern courses, and the spink shrubbery of the South.

There were about 3000 customers on the field, some of whom paid $2.20 for the honor of entering through the main gate instead of strolling in elsewhere, and most of the 3000 followed Bobby Jones, whose score of 70 will give Mehlhorn no comfort overnight. Mehlhorn is one of the innumerable Wild Bills of sport, being so called because he lashes out with his weapons and does prodigious things now and again. But he is not a steady golfer over a stretch of several days and a few errors between this time and sundown Saturday would cancel him.

Five strokes and nine other golfers stand between Mehlhorn and Walter Hagen, who took 72 slaps to get his ball around the premises—including one spot—the fourteenth hole, where his drive carried into the midst of a number of parked automobiles, and twenty men were required to move one that was locked, so that Walter could take his swing. He also lost a stroke in the bay at the 3RD hole and he remarked at the end of the day that the game was becoming so tense that no man could make two mistakes and really have a right to win the national open.

Those nine other golfers include this troublesome stranger from Portland, Or., John Junor, a pro whose name meant nothing whatever to the crowd and nothing but woe to the press coop. For Junor came walking home with his card of 70, after all the best minds of the press reservation had composed and dispatched their pieces to the journals which they respectively adorn, and then there ensued a session of fretting and frantic coppering, so that stories which already were in type could be revised to include this Junor among the leaders.

Junor is 33 years of age, a native of Aberdeen, Scotland, and the son of a skipper at Portland.

Joe Turnesa and Al Espinosa, with 71, and five men with 72, by name Diegel, MacFarlane, Pat Doyle, Dan Williams and J. G. Collins, also stand in front of Hagen and it may be said of Doyle, who plays out of New York, that he made three deuces in the course of the day.

Watts Gunn and Roland MacKenzie, the adolescent stars, were uniformly incompetent today, and they virtually eliminated themselves from the tournament with scores of 87.

Weinert Here For Bout With Chuck Wiggins

Charley Weinert, the Newark Adonis, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday afternoon to meet "Chuck" Wiggins at the Olympic Auditorium Wednesday night, the 21st inst., in the heavyweight feature of a triple main-event show.

Weinert returned east immediately after making his Los Angeles debut last month, when he defeated big Pat Lester of San Francisco in the most sensational heavyweight fight ever seen here.

Charley is in great shape. He boxed once en route, knocking out big Biff Hart of St. Paul in the second round of a scheduled twelve-round bout in Oklahoma. Weinert weighed 184 pounds and Hart tipped the beam at 217.

Matchmaker Joe Levy has arranged his second event with Billy Atkinson meeting Everett Strong in ten rounds, but he is still working on a high-class ten-rounder to open the show.

The Atkinson-Strong match is a "natural." They fought the fastest middleweight scrap ever staged at the auditorium a month ago.

JOHNNY WILSON WILL BATTLE IN OAKLAND

OAKLAND, July 8. (AP)—Johnny Wilson, former middleweight champion of the world today was signed by Promoter Tommy Simpson for a ten-round bout at the Oakland Auditorium on either the 21st or the 28th inst. Wilson's opponent has not been named yet, but Simpson declared he was considering Jock Malone of St. Paul, who is at present in the Northwest.

Turkish housewives refuse to change their methods of making the famous Turkish coffee, and recent efforts to interest them in electric percolators failed.

DANIELS TO COACH AT REDLANDS HIGH

REDLANDS, July 8. (Exclusive)—Guy A. Daniels, for several years coach of Redlands High School and most successful there and later coach at the University of Redlands, where he also enjoys a goodly measure of success, has been secured to again mentor the teams of Redlands High School and will take charge in the fall when the football season opens.

Mr. Daniels has had a wide experience in coaching, is well known to all the boys in the school and it is generally predicted by fans that there will be a keener interest in all sports at the high school than ever before. Coach Daniels will have charge of all the sports and is equally capable of coaching football, basketball, track and baseball.

ANNUAL ARROWHEAD NET EVENT ON SOON

The Lake Arrowhead Tennis Club has installed two new tennis courts on the south side of the lake in preparation for the annual tennis tournament slated for August 7, according to word of the officials of the resort club. Every year the hotel has held a tournament in which many local player have participated.

POCATELLO PITCHER A.W.O.L. GETS FINE

POCATELLO (Idaho) July 8. (AP)—Sid Hansen, pitcher on the Pocatello team of the Utah-Idaho baseball league, who took "French leave" after Sunday's game with the Logan Collegians, today was fined $300 and indefinitely suspended by Manager Bonner. Hansen is said to have left here early Monday for Oakland.

(AP)—Forty thousand Soldier's Field seats at $10 each will be available to the public for the Army-Navy football game here November 27, Commander Jonas Ingram of the Naval Academy announced today. The Annapolis athletic director is here to confer on plans for the annual classic and arrange quarters for the Middle squad of 62.

LUTZE IS MATCH FOR CHAMPION

Stecher Stronger in Legs, but Challenger Stacks Up Even All Around

NICK LUTZE

In almost all respects physically, World's Champion Joe Stecher and his foremost challenger—by the "nomination and election of the crowd," Nick Lutze — will measure up like a couple of corners on a square when they sidle through the next Wednesday night for their titular wrestling match.

Except in the legs, where the Scissors King is stronger than the best and also has bigger limbs than Lutze, young Nick and Stecher could not be much more evenly matched.

Stecher weighs in the vicinity of 212 pounds. Lutze scales now around 208, although his heft has been fluctuating between 200 and 215 since he first came to Los Angeles. Seven pounds between two heavyweights is not expected to make any great difference.

There is a quarter of an inch difference in height, Stecher standing six feet one and three-quarter inches tall, and Lutze being six feet one and a half in his stockings.

Those predicting a victory for Lutze are keeping the Stecher supporters busy in their discussions with the day of the match drawing near. Some have opined that youth will be served in this instance. They believe Stecher, who has been wrestling for more than twelve years, is about due to drop his title to some youngster, and they assert that Lutze, who is just 24 years of age, and is now going at his best, will prove fitting for the occasion.

Lutze's greater speed on the mat, his tremendous strength, his versatile wearing-down attack, and the effective way in which he applies the double-arm scissors and the reverse headlock are expected to be his advantages against Stecher who places almost complete reliance upon his head and body scissors to put an opponent on his shoulders.

SANTIAGO ZORRILLA WINS PASADENA GO

Santiago Zorrilla, featherweight scrapper from Panama, defeated Battling Siki Arce, Pasadena Mexican, after ten speedy rounds in the main event at the Pasadena Armory last night. The pair put up a good battle all the way and Referee Bill Darnley's decision was well taken by the fans.

The semi-wind-up, which was scheduled to go six rounds, ended in the second when Johnny Dougherty, a Pasadena middleweight, put Bob Sharner to sleep with a right to the jaw. In the other bouts Ramon Lugo won over Georgie Ryan in four rounds; Harry Fiske outpointed Karl Phillips, and Al Alvarado trimmed Jack Melton in the curtain-raiser.

SWIM MARK BROKEN BY LILLIAN CANNON

BOULOGNE (France) July 8. (AP)—Lillian Cannon of Baltimore today beat by thirty-seven minutes the record set last year by Lillian Harrison, the Argentine swimmer, from Cape Gris-Nez to Sangatte, near Calais.

Miss Cannon covered the approximate nine miles in four hours and eight minutes.

The swim was part of the practice for Miss Cannon's proposed attempt to swim the English Channel.

"I've always wanted a cigar like this"

"I've been smoking cigars for years and years and I've tried a number of different brands. But I was never completely satisfied. It always seemed to me there must be a better cigar somewhere if I could only find it.

"Then one day I determined to try the Bayuk Philadelphia Hand Made Perfecto. I'd been hearing a lot about it and I'd read somewhere about its being the leading 10c brand.

"'It must be good to make a record like that,' I reasoned. 'I'm going to see what it's like anyway.'

"Gentlemen! I tell you frankly that I had no idea that any cigar could be as good as this.

"The minute I lit it up I knew I had found a cigar that seemed to be just made-to-order for me—the kind of a cigar I had always wanted.

"Try it today. You'll never know the complete, all-satisfying joy of a good cigar until you start the smoke a-curlin' from a Bayuk Philadelphia Hand Made Perfecto."

It's always RIPE tobacco if it's a BAYUK CIGAR

"These Men Will Know They're Good"

Again today we are announcing the names of two men who are going to receive a box of 25 Bayuk Philadelphia Hand-Made Perfectos. They are Mr. Sidney Olcott, internationally renowned moving picture director, Hollywood Athletic Club, Hollywood, and Mr. Edwards Davis, president Two Thirty-Three Club, No. 2323 Marmont Lane, Hollywood. Watch this space in future advertisements for the names of other happy smokers added to the millions who enjoy this fine, Ripe Tobacco cigar.

MISS GLADMAN IS VICTORIOUS IN VICTORIA NET TOURNAMENT

VICTORIA (B. C.) July 8 (AP)—Wallace Bates of San Francisco, defeated C. W. Aikman of Montreal in the fourth round here today of men's singles in Canadian lawn tennis championships, 6-3, 2-6, 7-5.

Leroy Rennie of Toronto, beat J. McDonald, Tacoma, 7-5, 6-3. Howard Langlie, Seattle, was a winner over McLean, Vancouver, 6-2, 8-4.

Other winners included Leon De Turenne, Seattle, and Gerald Cunningham, Victoria.

In men's doubles, Howard Langlie and Whitcomb Quillan, Seattle, won over Gerald and J. Cunningham, Victoria.

Men's doubles winners were Howard Langlie and Whitcomb Quillian, Seattle, who defeated Gerald J. Cunningham, Victoria; Haines and Holmes, Winnipeg, who disposed of W. P. Honsberger, Oakland, Cal., and Kline, San Francisco, and Grant Laizure and Dick Burr, Seattle, who beat Rennie and G. Nunns, Toronto.

Women's singles victors were Miss Gladman, Santa Monica, Cal., Miss Erdle, Tacoma; Miss Brunn and Miss Leachman, San Francisco.

Eastern Trip Awaits Willis if Victorious

Tim McGrath will probably take his hard-hitting middleweight, Cowboy Jack Willis, to New York if he again succeeds in mowing down Bert Colima at Vernon next Tuesday night.

Jess McMahon, matchmaker of Madison Square Garden, has first call on the services of Willis in New York, where the Texan knocked out Ted Lyons last winter in a round. McMahon, having a dearth of topnotch talent, has wired McGrath to come East at once. No eastern opponent has been named for him yet.

McMahon has promised Willis a couple of warm-up fights and then would use him against Greb or Flowers for the title. When Willis was in New York he demonstrated his ability to hit, but lacked seasoning. He was picked up by a wealthy hotel man, a friend of McGrath's, and sent to the veteran handler of boxers to handle.

CUB PREXY PROTESTS CALLING OF CONTEST

CHICAGO, July 8. (AP)—President Veeck of the Chicago Cubs today protested to President Heydler of the National League the action of Umpire Moran in terminating the second game of a double-header at Pittsburgh Tuesday. The game was called in the sixth inning on account of rain with the Pirates leading, 3 to 2. Veeck claims there had not been sufficient rainfall to call the game.

New Lighting System to be Tried at Ascot

Ray Logan has issued a blanket invitation to the racing fans of Los Angeles and vicinity to visit Ascot Park tonight and inspect the electric lighting system which will be turned on for testing purposes. It is the consensus of opinion of those who have seen the track lit up in preparation for the nocturnal automobile races that start tomorrow night, that the contractor has done himself proud.

When the races were held two years ago five big generators were borrowed from a motion-picture company and four of them were used to keep the lights going while a fifth was held in readiness for an emergency.

Otto K. Olesen, who has the contract this year, is using only one such generator, but has augmented it with juice from the high-power Pacific Electric line, and the general effect is said to be even better than before.

BOOMER WINNER OF FRENCH GOLF TITLE

ST. CLOUD (France) July 8. (AP)—The young French professional, Aubrey Boomer, playing over his home course here, won the French open golf championship today with an aggregate of 280 for the 72 holes.

Abe Mitchell, British star, who led at the end of the morning round by five strokes, weakened in the afternoon and finished second with 285. George Duncan, former British open champion, was eleventh with 291.

Big Swordfish Gaffed After Torrid Battle

AVALON (Catalina) July 8.—(Exclusive)—Robert C. Mankowski today brought to gaff his first broadbill swordfish, a 364-pound xiphias gladius, or purple battler of the sea, the ambition of all deep-sea anglers. This is the fifth broadbill scored by Catalina anglers to date this season. Mankowski landed his fish after a battle of two hours and forty-five minutes. Capt. Tad Gray, who gaffed the big catch from the launch Swastika III stated that the broadbill put up one of the stiffest battles he has ever witnessed in deep-sea angling.

Sportsmen in Catalina waters seem to have graduated from the tuna and marlin class, in former years held to be the zenith of great game fishing and are out only for broadbill, known as the fiercest and most dangerous antagonist an angler can encounter with rod and reel.

Romer C. Grey scored with his second broadbill swordfish for the season last evening, bringing to gaff a 334-pound swordsman monster after an exciting battle of two hours and fifteen minutes' duration. His first broadbill of the season was taken a week ago and weighed 368 pounds. His brother, Zane Grey, the novelist, has taken the world's record broadbill this year, a 582-pound specimen which has become the target which all other sport anglers are trying to eclipse, holding that there are always bigger fish in the sea.

H. W. Adams, first broadbill catch of 1226 season, 300 pounds; R. C. Grey two broadbills, 368 and 334 pounds; Zane Grey, world's-record broadbill, 582 pounds; R. C. Mankowski, 361-pound broadbill.

Until recent years it was thought impossible to take broadbill swordfish on rod and reel and until the past two years one or two of these great game fish were taken by sport anglers annually.

Tuna taken to date this season by sport anglers number twenty, according to Tuna Club records.

ENTRIES CLOSE TOMORROW

Entries to the La Jolla tennis tournament close officially July 10. Intending contestants please notice: Any entry arriving later than noon, July 12, cannot be considered.

MAY GO EAST SOON

Here is Fidel La Barba, world's flyweight boxing champion, as sketched by Salvador Baguez of The Times art department. The title-holder may be taken East soon by George Blake.

the 5 per cent State tax was taken out amounted to $24,514.10.

Of this amount La Barba's share at 47½ per cent reached $11,644. Rivers was paid off on a 15 per cent basis. His check was for $3677.11.

Though La Barba's plans are somewhat indefinite his manager, George Blake, said yesterday that they planned to leave soon on a barnstorming tour of the East.

Promoters in several eastern cities are anxious to secure the services of the flyweight champion in no-decision bouts and Blake probably will accept several of these, he said.

However, he indicated La Barba will not defend his crown again until he comes of age in September, at the earliest. Then he will be able to avail himself of a fifteen-round championship fight in New York for which big money is a possibility.

At any rate it seems unlikely that Los Angeles will see La Barba's next defense of his crown. It is also unlikely that an $8.25 top price for seats will be charged here for a long time, even if it is a championship fight. At a $5.50 top local show men declare the auditorium would have been filled to capacity, and scaled at least $10,000 more at the gate for the Rivers-La Barba affair.

Lawn Bowlers Reach Finals in Tournament

REDLANDS, July 8. (Exclusive)—Finals in the Southern California lawn bowling matches are now being reached and played today and tomorrow. Redlands men are well represented, for Henry Jenkins and Melvin Hooper are still undefeated in their rink games and also in their doubles matches.

The finals in the grand challenge will be played Friday night between Cummings rink from Riverside and Hooper's rink of Redlands. The finals in the doubles event will be played tomorrow and are between Jenkins and Hooper of Redlands and Aspinwall of Los Angeles. The finals in the singles competition were played today and were won by Tom Jenkins of Los Angeles, who defeated Aspinwall in a 21-point game, winning by the small margin of 3 points.

Brodersen of Redlands reached the semifinals in this event and lost to Aspinwall. The finals in consolation rinks are between Skinner of Redlands and Walker of Los Angeles. The draw today besides the finals above enumerated includes one of the most attractive events of the tourney, viz: the ladies' singles. It is expected that about twenty-five ladies of the various clubs will compete.

Charles Hoff to Pole Vault in Vaudeville

Charles Hoff, now "The Vaulting Viking" in theatrical parlance, makes his debut at Loew's State Theater today where a special runway has been built for him to clear the bar at 12 feet, 13 feet 6 inches, or what have you?

Hoff is being billed as "the all-around athletic champion of the world," and is said to be getting a salary of $2500 a week for the week, which salary will continue during his tour of the Fanchon-Marco West Coast Theaters circuit.

Hoff, however, is not being paid for his pole vaulting on the stage, declares his manager, Harry C. Brandon, but for his dancing act alone. Hoff is teamed up with Joyzelle Joyner, well-known dancer, who dances both the Charleston and the tango with him.

LEADING FIELD IN TITLE PLAY

Macbeth and Pendergrass on Title Journey

Martin Assures Competition in Feature Today

Youngsters Score Well in Annual Championship

BY BILL WISE

Julian Cahn, Hillcrest youngster, brought much credit to his home club by winning two feature matches in the Southern California junior champion ship flight tourney, over his home course yesterday.

Cahn, starting at the bottom of the second bracket in the championship flight, defeated William Adler, 5 and 3, yesterday morning and after trailing Dick Russell of Rio Hondo, most of the eighteen-hole route, rallied, and carried the visiting youth to the twentieth green to win his second match of the day. Cahn was four down at eleven, but recovered beautifully to crash through in the overtime set-to and will clash with Lee Pendergrass in what promises to be a sensational semifinals match this morning.

Norman Macbeth, Wilshire, and David Martin, Rio Hondo, logical semifinalists, played great golf to win their two matches yesterday. Macbeth, tourney medalist, breezed around in even figures to score his first win over Stanley Politzer, 6 and 5. Gilbert Eckles, flashy Oakmont youngster, carried Macbeth through a lot of golf, before losing, 2 and 1.

Martin started after the junior crown with a 6 and 5 victory at the expense of Bill Srere and continued titleward with a 3-and-2 win over Les Hensley. Martin will meet Macbeth this morning, in one of the two best tilts ever scheduled in this vicinity.

Lee Pendergrass, husky playing through champ crashed through William Van Metre, 3 and 2, in the morning and won from Charles Seaver, 3 and 4, in the second-round match. Pendergrass is very much at home over the immaculate Hillcrest layout, but will meet a worthy defender in the person of Julian Cahn. Cahn is one of the nicest youngsters in the classic, modest—and a real tee-and-greens fighter. He is out there trying all the time and came from behind in championship style, as he demonstrated in no uncertain terms yesterday.

Matches in all flights were closely contested yesterday and semifinals play today will be even better. Several defaults yesterday, due to summer school attendance, were unavoidable.

Yesterday's complete results were as follows:

FIRST ROUND—CHAMPIONSHIP

Norman Macbeth defeated Stanley Politzer, 6 and 5.
Gilbert Eckles defeated Larry Norton, 5 and 4.
Leslie Hensley defeated Marvin Moss, 1 up, 20 holes.
David Martin defeated Bill Srere, 6 and 5.
Lee Pendergrass defeated William Van Metre, 3 and 2.
Charles Seaver defeated Marshall Morrison, 3 and 2.
Dick Russell defeated Clifford H. B. Little, 1 up.
Julian Cahn defeated William Adler, 5 and 3.

SECOND FLIGHT

George Moss won from George Fieldman by default.
Phillip Ayres defeated Jack Bowser, 1 and 2.
David Hanna defeated Bob Brownstein, 1 up.
Franklin Smith defeated H. M. Richelberger, 1 up.
James Robinson defeated William Danielson, 4 and 2.
D. H. Dungster defeated Francis Bowey, 1 up.
Warren Johnston defeated Warren Newmark by default.
Art Marshall defeated Ralph Lee, 2 up.

THIRD FLIGHT

Lee Rose won from Bob Schetzman by default.
Gordon White defeated Sidney Rice, 3 and 4.
J. Millholland, bye.
Ernest Combs won from Ben Card by default.
Franklin Stevens defeated S. Freedman, 3 and 2.
Bart Hisey, bye.
Leonard Srere defeated Ray Bellas, 7 and 5.
Joseph Trautman defeated Lee Rice, 2 up.

SECOND ROUND—CHAMPIONSHIP, 9 A.M.

Norman Macbeth defeated Gilbert Eckles, 3 and 1.
David Martin defeated Leslie Hensley, 3 and 2.
Lee Pendergrass defeated Charles Seaver, 3 and 4.
Julian Cahn defeated Dick Russell, 1 up, 20 holes.

SECOND FLIGHT, 9:30 A.M.

George Moss defeated Phillip Ayres, 7 and 6.
Franklin Smith defeated David Hanna, 1 up, 20 holes.
D. H. Dungster defeated James Robinson, 3 and 2.
Warren Johnson defeated Art Marshall, 3 and 2.

THIRD FLIGHT, 9:40 A.M.

Lee Rose defeated Gordon White, 7 and 6.
Ernest Combs won from J. Millholland, by default.
Bart Hisey defeated Franklin Stevens, 4 and 3.
Joseph Trautman defeated Leonard Srere, 4 and 3.

EDDIE GLEASON HARD AT WORK FOR BROWN

Gym experts, who watch Eddie Gleason in his daily workouts at the Main-street gymnasium, predict a brilliant future for the ex-amateur boxer. Gleason, who is one of the best lightweights ever turned out of the L.A.A.C., is meeting Young Brown in the six-round main event at the Main-street Athletic Club tomorrow night. Since he turned professional, Eddie scored three wins. Johnny Sacco, Eddie Shannon and Al Grunan were his victims in six-rounders. The boy will not travel over six rounds until he is fully matured. That is the reason why he is not boxing regularly.

Joe Burns and Joe Pimenthal are the semifinalists. Pimenthal trimmed Al Neff in a recent six-rounder at Vernon. He looks to be in his old form. Burns beat Ernie Gooseman in San Diego last Friday night. Eagle Thomas, colored, and Pee Wee Nolan are carded for the four-round special event.

INVITE BOBBY JONES TO SPOKANE TOURNEY

SPOKANE, July 8. (AP)—Bobby Jones, Atlanta golfing wizard, was today invited to participate in an exhibition match here with Forest Watson, Pacific Northwest amateur champion, for the benefit of the Shriners' hospital for crippled children.

The Spokane mobile unit of the hospital extended the invitation, which will be delivered through Forrest Adair of Atlanta, Jones's employer, and a national trustee of the Shrine hospital organization.

O those haunting, taunting, hot-pipe blues!

THE HOT-PIPE BLUES is now a back number. . . a dirge of days gone-by. Modern pipes no longer moan, "What'll I do?". . . They've changed their tune to "Sweet and Cool," and "Always!"

So if your pipe still gets red-hot, it's a safe bet you're still smoking tobacco that's cut too fine—for finely cut tobacco naturally burns fast and smokes hot. . . Pipe tobacco should be cut in large, slow-burning flakes.

Try this on your pipe: First, ream it clean, then fill it full of Granger Rough Cut. . . It'll never get hot again! Notice how slow Granger's large flakes burn. . . how cool it smokes. Cool as a sea breeze. . . from morning till night.

Granger ends all your pipe discord. For it's neither sharp nor flat—but smooth and "mellowdious"! . . . Keep your pipe packed with Granger and life'll be one long, sweet song!

GRANGER ROUGH CUT

The half-pound vacuum tin is forty-five cents, the foil-pouch package, sealed in an air-tight glassine wrapper, is ten cents

Marshall N. Dana, Portland Editor, President

Twenty-third Convention is Brought to Close

Head of World Club Speaks at Last Session

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8. (Exclusive)—Marshall N. Dana, associated editor of the Oregon Journal of Portland, was officially proclaimed 'president of the Pacific Coast Advertising Clubs Association this afternoon when Don R. Gilman of San Francisco, his predecessor, swung the gavel which was the death knell of the twenty-third annual convention of the organization.

Bernard F. Kelley of Spokane was proclaimed vice-president for the territory of Eastern Washington; Clinton E. Reynolds of Tacoma, was elected vice-president of the territory of Western Washington to succeed Jesse Peay of Seattle; Thomas Hill of Portland, was elected vice-president for the territory of Oregon; Rowland Brown, territorial secretary of Hawaii, was elected vice-president for the territory represented by Northern California and Nevada; Thomas H. Rhore of San Diego, was re-elected vice-president for the territory of Southern California, and Fierence Shindler of Los Angeles, was elected vice-president to represent the women of Los Angeles.

BANQUET AND DANCE

The social event of the convention was held tonight in the Colonial and Palm ballrooms of the Hotel St. Francis. After a banquet the delegates danced until early morning. The newly elected officers of the association were greeted uproariously when they appeared at the banquet.

One of the outstanding features of the last session of the convention was a notable speech by C. King Woodbridge of New York, president of the International Advertising Clubs of the world. "Service Clubs, An Aid to International Understanding," was the subject.

"It has taken a great many years to develop mutual trust among men," Woodbridge said. "The 'divine right' of the public be damned' schools are gradually faded out of existence. Steam, wireless, telegraph, airplane, automobile, railroad and our own daily newspapers and national magazines have continually increased the smallness and ease of communication, we have grown away from the individualistic tendency and found a new spirit which reigns today, the spirit of co-operation among men.

"The eyes of the Old World are watching this newer country of ours grow and prosper. They have asked that we come closer to them that they may see how we do things and learn from us why we do these things. Today in countries across the water you find this spirit of co-operation making mans springing up with increasing strength. In Britain and in continental Europe there is being developed a mutual trust among men and the agency is the plan patterned after the Kiwanis, Advertising and Rotary clubs of this land. In my travels for the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World through the entire United States and across the water to British and continental countries, I have found, just as I find in my own country, men and women forward looking with high ideals and worthy ambitions, genuinely seeking to find the spirit of co-operation among men.

ONE SUPREME ISSUE

"There is one supreme issue before humanity today. It is this: Is there any permanent method by which large collective groups can live together in comradeship, co-operation and peace? Yes, by voluntary association and by common agreements as to business principles and practice that are for the public good. Business men everywhere hold in their hands the destiny of nations. Trade follows the flag of mutual understanding and trust. This association, as well as every other service club, has a great responsibility, not only in keeping steadfastly before our own local associations this spirit of friendly co-operation, but it has a great responsibility as a new force in international relations, for, after all, nations live by doing business and not by politics. This service clubs not only become an aid to organized business but are an inestimable aid for the public good."

Other speeches touching on various problems of special interest to the advertising profession were made by Don Francisco of Los Angeles, Louis Honig of San Francisco, Ernest R. Ham of Portland, Streeter Blair of Kansas City, Mo., Clarence E. Fisher of Seattle, Florence Shindler of Los Angeles, Willis Brindley of Seattle, F. A. Stearns of Los Angeles, Charles Duncan of San Francisco, William A. Davis of Oakland, Hal King of San Francisco, Mrs. Dorothy Frank of San Francisco, Carl Brockhagen of Sacramento, Hal Weller of Oakland, W. P. Rogers of San Francisco, and Lou E. Holland of Kansas City, Mo.

COAST AD PLAN SUCCESS

Co-ordination of Cities Results in Increase of Inquiries From Outside Points

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8. (Exclusive)—The campaign launched by the Pacific Coast Empire Association for co-operative Pacific Coast advertising has been so successful that member cities have had an increase in inquiries from other places during the last year ranging from 15 to 35 per cent.

This was a report received at additional drive which will keep the Pacific Coast unit predominantly before the public. The individual efforts, instead of losing momentum, will register more returns because of the association with other cities, all of which have their attractions."

At today's meeting the Los Angeles All-Year Club reported that its organization had received 35 per cent more inquiries during the last twelve months than during the preceding year. The Seattle Chamber of Commerce reported a 20 per cent increase and other cities gave like reports.

The association appointed a committee comprising Whitcomb, as chairman; Paul Shoup, executive vice-president of the Southern Pacific Company, and Harry Chandler, of Los Angeles, to find ways and means whereby the Pacific Coast Empire Association can create a fund to meet a proportion of each city's advertising expenditures.

Among those in attendance of the meeting were Harlen Peyton, former president of the Spokane Chamber of Commerce; J. A. Eves, president of the Tacoma Chamber of Commerce; Roy E. Bishop of San Francisco, president of Californians, Inc.; Joseph B. Knowland, representing the Oakland Chamber of Commerce; W. R. Farrington, Governor of Hawaii; John Fox of the San Diego Chamber of Commerce, and Harold Crary, of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce.

Antialien Land Victory Won by Japanese Child

OLYMPIA (Wash.) July 8. (AP)—Holding that complaints drawn to escheat farm lands asserted to be held in violation of the antialien ownership law must be subjected to critical consideration because they are actions in fraud, the Supreme Court today affirmed the King county court in sustaining a demurrer to an action brought to escheat to the State agricultural land in King county held in the name of Nellie Ishikawa, an American-born Japanese minor. The lower court dismissed the complaint on the grounds that it was too weak to withstand a general demurrer.

The land was deeded to the child in September, 1918, several years before antialien land ownership law was passed. While the State contended that W. Ishikawa and wife are in actual possession of the land the courts pointed out that the complaints fails to establish any relationship or that the child is not entitled to own the property, among other grounds warranting dismissal.

HAWAII ASKS REVIEW ON SCHOOL-LAW RULE

WASHINGTON, July 8. (AP)—The government of Hawaii has petitioned the Supreme Court for a review of the decision of the lower Federal Court holding unconstitutional its foreign-language school laws. Hawaii asserts that it is important to the welfare of the island that the Japanese schools should be regulated.

Rail Chief Sorry He Delayed Visit Here 62 Years

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8. (AP)—Patrick E. Crowley, president of the New York Central Lines, waited sixty-two years before he came to California, and he is wondering today why he put it off so long.

"The entire West is tremendous, awe-inspiring," he said here today. "California, in my opinion, is the most self-sufficient of all of the States. There is every kind of climate, every kind of soil, every kind of scenery that any part of the world can boast. My sole regret is that I did not see this empire before."

STANDARD TAX LIEN LAW URGED

Bar Association Committee Proposes Change

Uniformity for Extradition Also Advocated

Convention to Get Report in Coming Week

DENVER, July 8. (AP)—A proposed standard law governing Federal tax liens was adopted here today by the thirty-sixth national conference of commissioners on uniform State laws, and will be presented to the American Bar Association for approval when that organization opens its national convention in Denver next week. The tax lien proposal was the first of six which will be acted upon by the uniform law commissioners before being presented to the bar association.

The other five proposals to be considered are one dealing with chattel mortgages; a uniform act for the extradition of persons charged with crime; a standard motor vehicle code; a uniform public utilities act, and a uniform act to regulate the sale of firearms.

All of the measures have been discussed at sessions held since the convention opened Tuesday, and are being whipped into final shape rapidly, according to George B. Young, of Montpelier, Vt., chairman of the conference.

The proposed standardization measure for controlling vehicular traffic with a uniform system of traffic laws is expected to be adopted unanimously by the convention as its part in the drive to protect human life. A report, similar to that proposed by the commissioners on uniform laws, likewise will be presented to the bar association by a special committee which has been studying the problem for two years.

Although the uniform law commissioners are unable, through the nature of their work, to make any specific recommendations for the enforcement of the law, the bar committee's report will recommend ideas for putting the proposals into effect. Chief among these is a campaign of education through the schools and press and also regulations providing for revocation of careless drivers' licenses.

TERROR SQUAD SHOOTS WORKER

Nonunion Molder Foreman May Lose Leg

Victim Tells of Warnings to Join Organization

Injunction Obtained in Carpenter Strike

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8. (Exclusive)—Having ignored two asserted warnings to "join the union or take the consequences," John Goynton, nonunion foundry foreman of 719 Rhode Island street, was shot down at Nineteenth and Vermont streets while on his way to work early this morning by the "terror squad" in a curtained touring car. His right leg and back were riddled with buckshot. It may be necessary to amputate the leg in order to save his life, attending physicians say.

The shooting marked the thirty-eighth atrocity in the molders' strike since its inception nearly four years ago. The record now stands as one dead, three maimed for life, nineteen shootings, eight attempted shootings and eleven other assaults.

The automobile from which Goynton was shot swept up behind him and stopped at the curb. Goynton saw the front door open and a man put his head out. The head was withdrawn and in its place appeared the muzzle of a sawed-off shotgun. One shot was fired. As Goynton dropped to the sidewalk the machine was driven swiftly away.

TELLS OF WARNING

The shooting was seen by Mr. and Mrs. John Russ of 679 Vermont street and R. Stone of 794 Rhode Island street, who hurried to the wounded molder's assistance and called an ambulance. At the Mission Emergency Hospital it was found that Goynton's leg and back had been punctured by forty buckshot. After emergency treatment he was taken to St. Luke's Hospital. In a statement from his cot to representatives of the Industrial Association Goynton said that about two weeks ago two officials of the molders' union called on him at his home and told him that it was his last chance to join the union. He refused. It was the second warning, he said.

Goynton is employed by the Enterprise Foundry at 2902 Nineteenth street.

Immediately following the shooting the Industrial Association posted a reward of $10,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of Goynton's assailants, believed to be the same "terror squad" that has been operating in similar shootings.

FOURTEEN SHOT

According to Industrial Association statistics, gunmen have shot fourteen nonunion molders, apprentices and helpers, one woman, a 13-year-old boy and three union molders, including Frank Brown, business agent for the union. One victim, Peter Navarrett, a union molder, died last April from his wounds, while three other victims were compelled to undergo amputation of legs. The woman and boy were victims of stray shots.

There has been but one arrest in San Francisco since the terror squad began operations more than three years ago, it is pointed out by the Industrial Association. In that case Edward Redmond and John Carey were captured in an automobile with a sawed-off shotgun concealed in a violin case.

Despite signed confessions by them that they had been hired by Frank Brown, business agent of the molders' union, to shoot nonunion molders at $125 per victim, they were dismissed by Police Judge O'Brien several months later.

INJUNCTION ISSUED IN CARPENTER STRIKE

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8. (AP)—A temporary injunction restraining the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, the Bay District Council of Carpenters and four local carpenters' unions from interfering with the employment of nonunion carpenters on building projects here was obtained by the Industrial Association in Superior Court here today.

The suit was filed by Industrial Association attorneys in behalf of twenty-three contracting firms. An order to show cause directing counsel for the carpenters' organizations to appear next Tuesday to argue a motion for a permanent injunction also was obtained.

The effect of the order will be that further cases of violence here in connection with a strike against contractors employing nonunion workers will render union officials liable to arrest on charges of contempt of court, in addition to other charges which may be filed against them.

Five affidavits, four of them by nonunion carpenters in hospitals from beatings declared to have been inflicted by strike sympathizers, and the fifth summarizing more than 200 cases of violence said to have occurred since the strike began, were attached to the complaint.

Four union carpenters were arrested on charges of picketing today. They are said to have shouted at nonunion carpenters working on a job.

Transportation Outlook Bright in Central West

SALT LAKE CITY (Utah) July 8. (AP)—There is no dark spot on the transportation horizon of the five States—Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah and Idaho—it was declared at the eleventh meeting of the Central Western States advisory board to the American Railway Association here today. General State committees and commodity committees read their reports to the major session of the meeting, disclosing a general increase in the car needs of the States for the expeditious movement of the coming agricultural crops.

The chief aim of the gathering, which was attended by 126 representatives of carrier systems and ninety-five shippers, was to gather data on probable carload movements of agricultural crops and an exchange of ideas for better co-operation with each other.

LANDSLIDE WIPES OUT WHOLE FAMILY

SANTIAGO (Chile) July 8. (AP)—An entire family is dead in Valparaiso as a result of a landslide from the mountain Arrayan, which crushed their home. A mass of earth and stone smashed the dwelling of Pedro Alvares and killed him, his wife, mother-in-law and five children.

EXECUTION OF BOY SET FOR TODAY

Youth 19 Years of Age to Die in Electric Chair at Nebraska State Prison

LINCOLN (Neb.) July 8. (AP)—Barring unforeseen developments, Don Kid Ringer, 19 years of age, will go to his death in the electric chair at the State prison here tomorrow morning. He will be the youngest man to be executed in Nebraska.

While W. S. Gilbert of Trenton, N. J., executioner, tested the apparatus by which the State will take the life of Ringer for the slaying in October, 1924, of Carl Moore, Hastings auto dealer, young Ringer today was baptized.

Rev. Thomas A. Maxwell, pastor of the Christian church, immersed him in a large bathtub in the prison hospital.

Packing Houses Destroyed by Incendiary Fire

WATSONVILLE, July 8. (AP)—The packing-houses of P. P. Stolich, Kovacich & Chicovich and M. M. Borina were destroyed by fire last night at an estimated total loss of $75,000. The plant of the Appleton Evaporator Company was destroyed, with a loss of $85,000.

The fires are believed by the police to have been of incendiary origin.

Packing-house fires in this city since the first of the year have destroyed fourteen plants, with an estimated total loss of $900,000.

Divorce Case Brings Forth New Mystery Woman

Wife Reveals Blasted Hopes at St. James Court

NEWPORT (R. I.) July 8. (AP)—Milton J. Budlong's relations with two mystery women, Mrs. Budlong's attempt to obtain an introduction for her daughter at the Court of St. James and moral effects of Mrs. Budlong's "shirt episode" on her husband featured today's hearing on Budlong's petition for divorce on the grounds of cruelty.

Abbott Phillips, counsel for Budlong, spent an hour on the stand reviewing the Budlongs' marital difficulties, which have resulted in two unsuccessful suits for separation by Mrs. Budlong and the present hearing.

NOTES ON SHIRTS

Describing the time when Mrs. Budlong barricaded herself in her husband's New York apartment and answered threats and entreaties on notes pinned to her husband's shirts and tossed from the window, Phillips declared:

"Mrs. Budlong once told me that her only weapon against her husband was publicity. During those days Mr. Budlong was pointed out in hotel dining-rooms and by taxicab drivers and others when he ventured on the street. He told me he thought he could never hold his head up in New York."

Mrs. Budlong, acting as her own counsel, since she summarily dismissed her attorney last Tuesday, brought out some of her blasted social aspirations while cross-examining Oscar L. Halsey, a business associate of her husband.

"Didn't Representative Fuller promise you he would help us socially when you intervened for us (in Washington)?"

"Yes."

"Didn't he promise to assist in having my daughter, Frances, introduced at the Court of St. James?"

"At my request."

Halsey explained that the Representative referred to is not Gov. Fuller, of Massachusetts, his brother-in-law.

A "Mrs. Y." bobbed up in the case today to take her place beside "Mrs. X." mentioned yesterday and Budlong's relations with her formed the basis of much of his cross-examination by his wife.

ALLIGATOR HIDE TRADE GROWS

MONTERREY (Mex.) July 8. (Exclusive)—That the slaughter of alligators for their hides is an important industry in the coastal region of Eastern Mexico is shown by the statement that these hides are being exported to the United States at the rate of more than 10,000 pounds a month. A number of the hides are also exported to European countries.

MAN INSURED FOR MILLIONS

DAYTON (O.) July 8. (Exclusive)—The most heavily insured American citizen of his age is Frederick B. Patterson, 34 years of age, president of the National Cash Register Company. An additional $1,000,000 of personal life insurance was delivered to him a few days ago, making his total now $1,800,000. Seven companies participated in the total.

GUNMEN OF TONG SPEED TO CAPITAL

Cars With Machine Guns Reported on Way to Avenge Two Murders

SACRAMENTO, July 8. (AP)—Three automobiles conveying Chinese gunmen of the Hop Sing tong, are speeding toward Sacramento to carry on the tong war which claimed two victims in California in the last few weeks.

The three cars left Seattle, Portland and Ogden simultaneously, according to information reaching the office of Sheriff Jones, who in turn notified Sacramento police. The cars are said to be equipped with high-powered machine guns, and it is suspected a surprise attack on Sacramento's Chinatown, home of the Bing Kong tong, is planned.

To cope with the situation, deputy sheriffs and police have been detailed in large numbers to patrol the Chinese district.

HEIRS OF CLARK IN NEW VICTORY

Cousin of Will Contestors Witness for Defense

Testifies Uncle Not Sane as Late Senator

Evidence Offered in Suit Over $47,000,000 Estate

BUTTE (Mont.) July 8. (AP)—Further testimony that William Anderson Clark, of Stewartsville, Mo., and the late Senator William Andrews Clark, of Montana, were not the same man, was written into the records of the court here today at the hearing of a suit brought by three women who claim shares in the $47,000,000 estate left by the Montana copper king.

The testimony was given by Benjamin Franklin Clark, of Denver, Colo., a cousin of the three claimants: Mrs. Effie Clark McWilliams and Mrs. Alma Clark Hines of Missouri, and Mrs. Addie L. Clark Miller of Denver.

HIS FORMER TEACHER

The witness testified he had attended a school in De Kalb county, Missouri, taught by the father of the three women who assert they are daughters of the Montana Senator, and also that he had worked in a drug store in Stewartsville, Mo., conducted by the same man, whose name, he said, was William Anderson Clark. Shown pictures of the Montana Clark, the witness declared he had never seen the man, and that the pictures were not those of his uncle.

A. D. McCroskey, 90 years of age, of Kidder, Mo., followed B. F. Clark to the stand. He said that he had learned that Anna Pierce, known as Anna Pierce Clark, and who is declared to have disappeared from Stewartsville about the same time as William Anderson Clark, is living in Butte. He said he had spoken with her, and that she had recognised him.

DEFENSE CLOSES

Attorneys for the Clark estate brought to a close today their presentation of witnesses. Although a score of depositions remain to be read, defense counsel announced that its W. D. Snow, 62 years of age, of Stewartsville, Mo., they had placed their last witness on the stand. Reading of the depositions is expected to consume two days.

Snow testified that he knew William Anderson Clark, father of the claimants and that he was not the same man as the Montana Senator, as the daughters declare.

Snow also declared he knew one Anna Pierce who followed the claimants' father to the west after he disappeared in 1878, and added that he saw her on the streets of Butte a few days ago.

Dr. L. E. Saunders of Stewartsville, Mo., also appeared on the stand during the day, declaring he knew the claimants' father in Stewartsville about 1870 and had seen Senator Clark at the Democratic National Convention in Kansas City, Mo., in 1900. There was no facial resemblance between the two men, he said.

HEARSE NOW PLEASURE CAR

NEW YORK, July 8 (Exclusive)—A hearse can be legally classed as a pleasure vehicle from now on. It was revealed in Brooklyn Traffic Court today when John Fitzpatrick was dismissed on a charge of driving a hearse in the lane reserved for pleasure vehicles on Manhattan Bridge. J. B. Brophy of Brooklyn, president of the New York State Undertakers' Association, who appeared in court to ask Magistrate Fisher for a dismissal of the charge, explained that a law passed last year removed the hearse from the commercial-vehicle classification. Fitzpatrick, when he was arrested returning from a funeral, refused to go into the commercial lane.

Los Canadienses Aspiran a la Independencia Política

VANCOUVER (Colombia Británica), Julio 8.—La Liga de la Nación Canadiense aprobó anoche una moción, por la que se declara que ha llegado la época en que el pueblo del Canadá "debe ejercitar derechos de nación libre." Otra moción que se votó censura la política de la Legión Canadiense de la Liga de Servicio Militar del Imperio Británico.

La moción en la que se hablaba en favor de "los derechos de nación libre," hacía hincapié en que los sucesos políticos de Ottawa, donde un ministerio conservador suplantó al gobierno del partido liberal," habían hecho resaltar enfáticamente la condición de colonia que tiene el Canadá.

En la otra resolución aprobada se dice que los esfuerzos para promover el militarismo en el Canadá no pueden acarrear otro resultado que el de embrollar al país en un conflicto en el que no tiene parte, y que será un gran obstáculo para la marcha del país hacia su completa emancipación como estado libre.

La Tripulación del Submarino S-51 Murió en su Puesto

NUEVA YORK, Julio 8.—Cada uno de los hombres que se hallaban de servicio en el submarino S-51, cuando fue éste echado a pique por el "City of Rome," el 26 de Septiembre último, frente a Rock Island, se mantuvo en su puesto y se hundió con el barco. Este hecho quedó revelado hoy, al ser visitado el maltrecho casco por los buzos, en el dique seco que ocupa la malhadada nave en el astillero de Brooklyn.

El capitán de corbeta Ellsberg, que ha mandado las operaciones de salvamento, hace observar que, según la investigación preliminar que se ha hecho, los hombres que no estaban de servicio fueron los únicos que intentaron abandonar el barco abordado y echado a pique. Los sitios en que se han encontrado sus cuerpos hacen ver que no estaban de guardia.

Agrega el citado capitán de corbeta que puede inferirse que el submarino se hundió como treinta segundos después del abordaje. Los cadáveres de los fieles servidores de la nación, que en él se hallan encerrados, serán sacados mañana.

El Gran Jurado Somete a un Severo Interrogatorio a la McPherson

Ayer a última hora comenzó ante el gran jurado del condado un severo y pormenorizado interrogatorio de Aimée Semple McPherson, pastora del Templo del Angelus, tan luego como ésta hubo completado el relato de cómo fuera plagiada el 18 de Mayo último en la playa de Venecia por dos hombres y una mujer, y cómo lograba treinta y cinco días después fugarse de un jacal de Méjico, donde la tenían encarcelada sus raptores.

Tocóle el interrogatorio circunstanciado de la evangelista al teniente fiscal Ryan, quien instruye sumario del caso para la fiscalía. Comenzó a interrogar a la señora McPherson inmediatamente después de la narración de ésta, que no fue interrumpida sino por esporádicas preguntas del fiscal Keyes.

Por espacio de más de dos horas examinó Ryan a la señora McPherson del modo más detenido y minucioso, pasando en revista todas las fases y todos los pormenores del misterioso asunto, según informes recogidos en el Palacio de Justicia.

A las 5:30, que el jurado suspendió la audiencia, dijose que no estaba todavía completo el interrogatorio, y que probablemente será citada otra vez la señora McPherson, para declarar en primer término, al reunirse de nuevo el jurado la mañana del próximo martes, a efecto de reanudar la audiencia.

Firearms Body to Have Officer of Army as Adviser

WASHINGTON, July 8. (Exclusive) Brig.-Gen. Golden L. H. Ruggles of the ordnance department will probably be designated to act in an advisory capacity to the special firearms committee of the National Crime Commission, it was announced at the War Department today.

The War Department was asked to appoint a man to be a member of the committee which will draft legislation regarding the sale of firearms, but Secretary of War Davis thought this action inadvisable. He offered, however, to designate Gen. Ruggles in an advisory capacity.

DURKIN CALLED VICTIM OF LAW

Slayer Suspect's Defender in Stirring Appeal

Declares Client Thought He Shot Hold-up Man

Denounces State's Aide for His Contentions

CHICAGO, July 8. (Exclusive)—After a series of dramatic crises, spaced between law citations and analyses of evidence, Atty. Eugene McGarry, in his final argument for Martin J. Durkin, concluded today's portion of his plea with a crescendo attack on the lawlessness of the law.

Throughout the hot afternoon Mr. McGarry had directed his defense of Durkin, on trial for the murder October 11, 1925, of Federal Agent Edwin Shanahan, into an offensive against the ways and means of law-enforcing agencies and individuals; their inconsistencies, their vagaries, their grotesque mistakes. Sharply the lawyer had silhouetted for the jury Durkin's theory of self defense, based on his contention that he thought he was shooting a hold-up man when he shot Shanahan in the garage that Sunday afternoon.

PRAISE FOR ZEAL

With praise for Shanahan's zeal, and blame for his overzeal in attempting to make an arrest when, Mr. McGarry declared, a police officer, not a government special agent, has the arresting power, the defense counsel denounced Detective Sergeant Naughton who, according to Naughton's statement on the stand, had left the garage and ordered Shanahan in. He declared Naughton, not Durkin, was Shanahan's killer.

After Atty. McGarry's plea court adjourned for the day. Tomorrow McGarry will conclude his argument. He will be followed by Assistant State's Attorney Blumenthal who will close for the State, and by late tomorrow evening those twelve warm, weary men who have been in the jury box for weeks, it is expected will be balancing the Durkin theory of self-defense against the State's theory of Shanahan's right to arrest a man whom he thought to be guilty of felony.

As a secondary climax to Mr. McGarry's final episode, there was his impassioned speech in which he denounced Assistant State's Attorney Romano's statement that any private citizen has a right to make an arrest and the person so accosted has the obligation of submitting to such an arrest.

DURKIN DENOUNCED

"What is this country coming to if every Tom, Dick and Harry can come up and question you when it's none of his business. Gentlemen of the jury, if any man comes up to you like that and he tries to arrest you, you tell him it's none of his business."

During the morning session Durkin, his head bowed down in confusion, heard himself denounced as a murderer, a wastrel, a worthless criminal, of no use to society or to anybody, and one whose only law was that of the gun, by Assistant State's Attorney Romano, as the prosecutor closed his plea on behalf of the State.

Glendale Protests Proposed Destruction of Eucalyptus Trees

"Woodman Spare That Tree" is the battle cry in Glendale as a result of the action of the Glendale City Council ordering the destruction of the giant eucalyptus trees on Lomita avenue, said to be the oldest trees of their kind in America. The action was taken to permit the widening of the avenue. A protest meeting was held yesterday at Glendale. Final action is to be taken next week. The doomed trees are pictured above. JARDINE TELLS CROP AID PLA[illegible]

Measures Designed to H[illegible] Finance Co-operatives

Farm Surplus May Then Better Distributed

Expresses Belief in Fut[illegible] of Organizations

ST. PAUL, July 8. (AP)—Legisla[illegible] favored by Secretary Jardine on crop-surplus problem has been signed to strengthen the co-op[illegible] tives and give them necessary ca[illegible] to meet the situation, he told American Institute of Co-opera[illegible] here tonight.

A surplus of any crop may be [illegible] by faulty distribution, to a lack [illegible] storage and transportation facili[illegible] and to restricted credit, the Secre[illegible] said, and it should be obvious t[illegible] there are difficulties that can [illegible] to met by soundly financed la[illegible] ensla organizations.

SUGGESTS WAY

"I do not see that the governm[illegible] can do more than make availa[illegible] adequate finances on reasona[illegible] terms and provide such services [illegible] will enable the co-operatives to [illegible] erate more efficiently," he said.

"I see no way in which better [illegible] more economical distribution of f[illegible] products can be brought about ex[illegible] through the more efficient perfo[illegible] ance of all the market functions.

"If there is overproduction of [illegible] product we must again, it seems, look to the producers' organiza[illegible] tions for the correction of the di[illegible] culty. Guidance of production [illegible] in correlation with the requirem[illegible] of the market have never been g[illegible] consideration until recently. . . . [illegible] other words, the cure for excess p[illegible] duction, as I see it, is co-operat[illegible] that goes back of the market [illegible] processes and begins with the p[illegible] duction plans of the farmers."

POINTS TO GROWTH

The Secretary reiterated his str[illegible] belief in the potentialities of the co[illegible] operatives, pointing to their gro[illegible] in 1925 to a point where they tra[illegible] acted $2,500,000,000 in business. Fr[illegible] the viewpoint of co-operative orga[illegible] nations, he said, he did not beli[illegible] it is or ever has been their pol[illegible] to ask the government to underta[illegible] any of the functions that the [illegible] ganize themselves were organized [illegible] govern."

"Dependence on the governm[illegible] for marketing service would give [illegible] in the final analysis," he said, "no co-operative marketing system, but [illegible] Federal or State marketing system.

SERIES CHARGES OF FARM BUREAU HEAD

WASHINGTON, July 8. (AP)—Sec[illegible] Jardine yesterday refuted charg[illegible] that he was one of the promoters [illegible] the Grain Marketing Company a[illegible] that he had indorsed the Fe[illegible] Slusher farm bill because it w[illegible] drafted "not only to enable the pr[illegible] ernment to finance the company b[illegible] to legalize it."

The charges, made in a statem[illegible] by William H Settle, president of t[illegible] Montana Farm Bureau Federation, a[illegible] read in the Senate June 29, last, [illegible] Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montan[illegible] during the debate on farm legisla[illegible] tion, stirred the Secretary to wr[illegible] Mr. Settle a letter which was ma[illegible] public at Mr. Jardine's office.

PLAN CONSTRUCTION

"I can not let go unanswered yo[illegible] charges as to my contract with t[illegible] Marketing Company," Secr[illegible] Jardine said, "in the first pla[illegible] similar charges are being made fro[illegible] other quarters and I am convinc[illegible] that it is part of a deliberate ca[illegible] to discredit me and my indors[illegible] of a legislative measure whi[illegible] I am positive is constructive an[illegible] worthwhile, secondly, Senate resol[illegible] 309, which was offered to i[illegible] force my alleged grain connec[illegible] and given wide publicity, w[illegible] acted upon by Congress bef[illegible] adjournment. Consequently I [illegible] not have an opportunity to place b[illegible] from the public information to pro[illegible] that the charges you make are abs[illegible] entirely without foundation. This was contrary to the inte[illegible] pretation of your national organiz[illegible] tion, and I was charged with unfri[illegible] ness. I consistently withstood pre[illegible] sure from your national organizati[illegible] to fashion the Grain Marketing Com[illegible] pany as it was organized. Further[illegible] more, I have insisted that all legisla[illegible] tion, including the Fess-Tincher bi[illegible] should be limited to associations [illegible] operating under the Capper-Volstea[illegible] act, and yet you call me a 'promoter' [illegible] and charge that the Fess-Tincher bi[illegible] was drafted to finance and legali[illegible] the Grain Marketing Company."

The Secretary quoted the record [illegible] to show on farm relief legislation [illegible] demonstrating "the utter weakness [illegible] the statements that either the Sec[illegible] retary of Commerce or I have any in[illegible] terest in selling any grain business [illegible] supporting any organization which [illegible] does not come strictly within the [illegible] Capper-Volstead Act."

Girl Files Suit for Damages in Use of Picture

SEATTLE, July 8. (AP)—Mrs. Helen [illegible] Stewart, formerly Miss Helen Keene [illegible] of Seattle, now in California, wife [illegible] her husband, today filed suit fo[illegible] $100,000 against the Puyallup Fai[illegible] Association, Puyallup, Wash., and [illegible] the Shell Company of California fo[illegible] using her photograph in advertis[illegible]

The photograph represents Mis[illegible] Stewart leaping over the hurdles in [illegible] the Puyallup Fair of 1923 upon he[illegible] mount, Solid Silver. In the fall of [illegible] 1925 the photograph bearing adver[illegible] tisements of the Shell Company and [illegible] the Puyallup Fair was posted throughou[illegible] Seattle.

Mrs. Stewart declared that on Sept[illegible] 12, 1925, she asked the com[illegible] pany and the association to remove [illegible] and destroy the posters, but he[illegible] request went unheeded.

BROWNS WHILE FISHING

SALT LAKE CITY, July 8. (Exclu[illegible] sive)—Hubert McHale, 37 years o[illegible] age, of this city was drowned in [illegible] Canyon while fishing. He [illegible] fell from a ledge of rock into the [illegible] stream and struck his head on a stone [illegible] which rendered him partly uncon[illegible] scious. The water was less than tw[illegible] feet deep. Two brothers were with [illegible] him but were unable to reach him in [illegible] time.

JARDINE TELLS CROP AID PLANS

Measures Designed to Help Finance Co-operatives

Farm Surplus May Then be Better Distributed

Expresses Belief in Future of Organizations

ST. PAUL, July 8. (AP)—Legislation framed by Secretary Jardine on the agricultural problem has been designed to strengthen the co-operatives and give them necessary credit to meet the situation, he told the National Institute of Co-operation here tonight.

A surplus of any crop may be due to faulty distribution, to a lack of storage and transportation facilities or to restricted credit, the Secretary said, and it should be obvious that any difficulties that can best be met by soundly financed large-scale organizations.

SUGGESTS WAY

"I do not see that the government ought to more than make available adequate finances on reasonable terms and provide such services as will enable the co-operatives to operate more efficiently," he said.

"I see no way in which better and more economical distribution of farm products can be brought about except through the more efficient performance of all the market functions.

"If there is overproduction of any crop we shall agree, it seems to me, that to the producers' organizations for the correction of the difficulty. Guidance of production and distribution with the requirements of the market have never been given consideration until recently. . . . In other words, the cure for excess production, as I see it, is co-operation. The gap back of the marketing counter and begins with the production plans of the farmers."

POINTS TO GROWTH

The Secretary reiterated his strong belief in the potentialities of the co-operative, pointing to their growth from a point where they transacted $2,000,000,000 in business. From the standpoint of co-operative organization, he said, he did not believe that over him been their policy of the government to undertaking to guarantee that the associations were organized to [illegible] on the government [illegible] service would give us [illegible] analysis," he said, "not a [illegible] marketing system, but a [illegible] marketing system.

CHARGES OF [illegible] HEAD

WASHINGTON, July 8. (AP)—Secretary [illegible] yesterday refuted charges [illegible] to the use of the promoters of the Grain Marketing Company and [illegible] had financed the Pease-[illegible] firm till because it was "not only to enable the government to finance the company but [illegible] it."

The charges, made in a statement [illegible] Settle, president of the [illegible] Farm Bureau Federation, and [illegible] the Senate June 29, last, by [illegible], Democrat, Montana, [illegible] attacks on farm legislation, caused the Secretary to write [illegible] letter which was made [illegible] of Mr. Jardine's office.

PLAN CONSTRUCTION

"I did not let go unanswered your [illegible] to in my contract with the [illegible] Marketing Company," Secretary said, "in the first place [illegible] was being made from [illegible] and I am convinced [illegible] part of a deliberate campaign [illegible] me and my indorsement of legislative measure which [illegible] is constructive and [illegible] soundly. Senate resolution [illegible] which was offered to investigate alleged grain connections [illegible] given wide publicity was [illegible] upon by Congress before [illegible]. Consequently I do [illegible] an opportunity to place before the public information to prove the charges you make are absolutely without foundation. You could [illegible] the facts if you had [illegible] to make an inquiry.

QUOTES RECORD

"On March 4, 1926, I refused to [illegible] the Capper-Volstead Act for the Grain Marketing Company, contrary to the interests of your national organization. I was charged with unfairness and unwarranted pressure by your national organization, the Grain Marketing Company, or was organized. Furthermore, I have insisted that all legislation, including the Pease-Tincher bill, be limited to associations under the Capper-Volstead Act, and not call me a 'promoter' because that the Pease-Tincher bill [illegible] to finance and legalize [illegible] Marketing Company."

The Secretary quoted the record of [illegible] on farm relief legislation as [illegible] "the utter weakness of [illegible] that either the Secretary of Commerce or I have any interest in selling any grain business or [illegible] any organization which [illegible] not come strictly within the Capper-Volstead Act."

Girl Files Suit for Damages in Use of Picture

[illegible], July 8. (AP)—Mrs. Helen [illegible] Miss Helen Keeney [illegible], now in California with [illegible] today filed suit for [illegible] against the Puyallup Fair [illegible], Puyallup, Wash., and [illegible] Company of California for [illegible] photograph in advertising.

UNION OIL NET EARNINGS GAIN

Operations Report for Six Months Issued

Full Recovery From Recent Fire Indicated

Increase of 5 Per Cent Over 1925 Period Shown

As additional evidence of full recovery from the recent fire losses and reflecting satisfactory conditions within the oil industry, the Union Oil Company of California yesterday issued its statement for the first six months of the year, showing a substantial increase in profits over the corresponding period of 1925. Net profits after all charges, including depreciation, depletion and cost of new drilling, amounted to $6,200,000, or the equivalent to $1.65 on the outstanding stock. This is comparable to $1.86 for the first six months of 1925.

On the basis of the six months' profits, earnings are running at the annual rate of $3.26. Actual earnings for the twelve months of 1925 were $2.78 a share.

Net profits for the six months ended June 30, according to the statement, were $6,200,000, or the amount remaining after the deduction of charges from the sum of $12,250,000, the amount of profit subject to depreciation and other charges. The net represents an increase of 5 per cent over the same period of 1925.

OUTPUT DECLINES

Production of crude oil for the six months totaled approximately 7,160,000 barrels, a decrease of 430,000 barrels from the production for the same period last year. Shut-in production, the report states, is 12,000 barrels a day. In the Southern California fields, thirty-one drilling crews are operating, while in other fields nine are running in Colorado, four in Wyoming and one in New Mexico. During the six months the company completed eleven wells in the Fort Collins area in Colorado, increasing the total production from that region to approximately 8400 barrels a day.

Sales in the six months' period amounted to about $38,500,000, an increase of $1,300,000. During this period a large quantity of gasoline was shipped to the Atlantic seaboard.

Capital expenditures of approximately $7,000,000 were completed, consisting of field-development work and addition to gas-compression facilities in Southern California fields. Improvements and new refining processes have been installed at the Oleum and Los Angeles refineries, according to the report. At the latter plant, new high-pressure cracking installation is being erected, of which two units are now operating and the remaining units will be completed during the present month. Fourteen 80,000-barrel capacity steel tanks are also in the course of construction.

ASSETS GAIN

Current assets, consisting of cash, United States government bonds and treasury certificates, accounts and bills receivable, oil inventories and materials and supplies, as of June 30, were approximately $56,000,000, an increase of about $1,000,000 over December 31, 1925. Current assets are over 6 to 1 of current liabilities. The quantity of crude oil, fuel oil, unfinished oils and refined products in storage is approximately 18,800,000 barrels.

The directors of the Union Oil Company yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share, payable August 10, next, to stock of record the 17th inst.

The income account for the six months ended June 30 follows:

	1926.	1925.
Profits earned from all operations, less general expenses, taxes (including income tax.) interest charges and provident fund, were approximately as follows:
Profit subject to depreciation, etc.	$12,250,000	$11,500,000
Provision for Depreciation and depletion	3,500,000	3,250,000
Labor and incidental cost of new drilling	2,450,000	2,250,000
Net profit for 6 months	$ 6,200,000	$ 5,900,000

Charges, resulting from oil fires, including reserve set aside for contingencies amounting to $734,455.14, have been charged to surplus.

WESTERN RAILS IN FAVOR

Southern Pacific and Western Pacific Attract Speculators; Development Watched

BY EARLE R. CROWE

Western Pacific and Southern Pacific, two of the important western railroads, are figuring prominently in stock-market gossip. Something of a mystery attaches to the former because of the conflicting reports of the reasons influencing the purchase of control by Arthur Curtiss James and associates, and the possibilities of the road in connection with the consolidation movement. As for Southern Pacific, the perennial dividend story is apparently collecting quite a colony of followers.

In connection with the announcement a few days ago of the election of several important railroad executives to the Western Pacific directorate, a dispatch from San Francisco stated that the James group planned to combine Western Pacific with Missouri Pacific and Denver and Rio Grande Western. In reply to this report, New York papers yesterday carried a statement from Mr. James that the San Francisco story was erroneous.

If the stock market elects to side with Mr. James the speculative possibilities of Western Pacific are not of as much immediate attraction as some of the traders have believed. But if the affiliations represented in the election of the new directors presage later developments along the consolidation line, then the prospects marketwise are worth consideration. It is always difficult, however, to assign the actual benefits that a consolidation will bring to the principals, but the stock market generally has the habit of looking at most of them with favor, at least for a time.

In one well-informed source this version of the Western Pacific status is suggested. The road, according to this reasoning, will pursue an independent course under the James management and will seek only to arrange the best traffic and working agreements possible with other carriers. The new controlling group is believed to have the idea that the territory through which the line passes will support a strong independent with the right kind of affiliations.

It is also suggested that the former Western Pacific management erred in allowing the Southern Pacific to acquire the Nevada California Oregon Railway and to control the business in Eastern Oregon, as it has done throughout the construction of the Natron cutoff. The feature of the Western Pacific, it is asserted, should have been through the connection of the Northwest with San Francisco by the interior route. Other strategic moves were also overlooked in Utah, probably due to the policy of the former management to go after the business of competitors, rather than pioneer in new territory.

Concerning the dividend possibilities of the Southern Pacific, the reason for a rise in the rate from $6 to $7 is evident, but whether the directors feel that the time is propitious is another matter. With the stock on a $7 basis the price of the stock would advance to 110 or 115. The premium would enable the company to sell new stock safely at par, whereas the quotation is now just above par.

Undoubtedly the Southern Pacific would like to sell new stock in order to reimburse its treasury for capital expenditures in connection with the investment in Southern Pacific of Mexico. It is too early, however, to know what will be earned on this investment, but even 3 per cent would materially improve the position of the parent company in the eyes of the security buyers. There is also the motive of increasing the number of stockholders on the Pacific Coast as a medium of building up good will and confidence.

Price of Crude in Pennsylvania Field Reduced

PITTSBURGH, July 8. (AP)—A reduction of 25 cents a barrel in the price of seven grades of Pennsylvania crude oil was posted by leading purchasing agencies today. Keister crude in National Transit lines, a new grade recently established in the Bradford district, was cut 15 cents a barrel, from $2.45 to $2.30. New prices on other grades reduced were:

Pennsylvania grade in New York transit and Bradford district oil in National Transit lines, $2.40; Pennsylvania grade in National Transit and Southwest Pennsylvania lines, $2.30; Gaino grade in National Transit lines, $2.35; Pennsylvania grade in Eureka lines, $2.35, and Pennsylvania grade in Buckeye lines, $2.05. Other grades were unchanged.

The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey has reduced the price of export gasoline in cases one-half cent a gallon to 28.90 cents. Export kerosene also has been reduced one-quarter cent a gallon, making the new price of water white 20.15 cents in cases and standard white 12.90 cents in cases.

BONDS OF FLORIDA UTILITY ON MARKET

SYNDICATE OFFERS LIENS OF POWER AND LIGHT COMPANY

Sale of $12,000,000 Florida Power and Light Company 5 per cent first mortgage bonds to Borbright & Co., Inc., Harris Trust and Savings Bank, Old Colony Corporation, J. G. White & Co., Inc., and Tucker, Anthony & Co., was announced yesterday in advices from the East. Through the purchasing syndicate the bonds have been offered to the public at 96 and interest, yielding about 5.35 per cent.

The company supplies electric power and light service in seventy-six communities in Florida, including Miami, Miami Beach, Hollywood, Palm Beach, West Palm Beach, Melbourne, Daytona Beach, Ormond and St. Augustine on the east coast, and Fort Myers, Arcadia, Sarasota and Bradenton in the the western part. Gas service is supplied in Miami, Daytona Beach, Lakeland and Palatka, and ice service in sixteen cities, bringing the total permanent population served by the company to more than 440,000. The company also controls the companies operating electric railway systems in Miami and Miami Beach, and distributing water in Miami and Stuart.

The bonds, of which there will be $40,000,000 outstanding, are secured by a direct first mortgage on the entire fixed assets of the company. For the twelve months ended May 31, last, net earnings were $5,019,331, or more than 2.3 times the annual interest charges on the funded debt. The operations of the company are supervised by the Electric Bond and Share Company.

UTAH CIGARETTE TAX INCOME RUNS HIGH

SALT LAKE CITY, July 8. (AP)—Revenues from Utah's State cigarette-tax law for the nineteen months ending June 30 averaged $6930.50 a month, Charles T. Frisk, superintendent of the department, announced in a formal report yesterday. The total receipts were $188,490.21. Expenses for the period covered in the report amounted to $12,737.75, leaving a net profit to the State of $175,752.56.

FRESH GAIN REGISTERED IN UNION OIL

Abrupt Advance Scored in Both Issues; Old Rumors Brought Out

Taking the cue from the New York market, the traders in Union Oil began another furious upward drive in yesterday's market on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange. In New York, however, the drive spent itself after a new high of 67½ was touched, but in Los Angeles the price was boosted to a peak of 59 1-8, finally closing at 58, a net gain over the previous day of 3 1-8 points.

Virtually the same performance took place in Union Oil Associates, the voting trust shares. Starting from 56 5-8, quotations were pushed forward to a high of 59, and finished at 58 1-8. The final price was 3 3-8 points over the close of the preceding session.

Explanations for the activity were as vague as they have been for the last few months. The usual conjectures relating to sale of the company and combinations with others were advanced, but the requisite confirmation was absent.

Quiet strength was again manifest in Shell Union. Opening at 28, the stock moved ahead for a new high for the year of 28 7-8, representing a net gain of 1 point. Standard of California dropped 3-8 to 61 3-4, and Marine Corporation slipped back 3½ to 1.43½. A gain was marked up in Julian preferred of ½ point to 16, while the common lost 1-8 at 2 3-4. Buckeye Union common sold at 18.

Activity was again evident in San Francisco Gold around 13, off 1 cent. Boundary Cone sold at 6¼ and United Western at 29, up 4½ cents.

Bond Issue of Sun Realty to Go on Market

Purchase and offering to the public of $3,500,000 first and general mortgage leasehold 6 1-4 per cent serial bonds, secured by four completed and occupied business buildings in Los Angeles, and the leasehold estates in their underlying lands, was announced yesterday by S. W. Straus & Co. The bonds are the direct obligation of the Sun Realty Company, one of the heaviest owners of Los Angeles downtown business property.

The buildings and leaseholds securing the issue are: Sun Building, southeast corner Seventh and Hill streets; Lincoln Building, on Hill street between Seventh and Eighth; Insurance Exchange Building, southeast corner Ninth and Olive streets; and the Swelldom Building, corner of Sixth street and Broadway. The first three are twelve-story office and store buildings, and the fourth is a three-story woman's shop building. The lands are held under long-term leases.

The bonds mature serially in from two to fifteen years, and are redeemable at 103 for the first five years, and at 102 thereafter.

June Output of Steel Ingots at Low for Year

NEW YORK, July 8. (AP)—Steel ingot production in June by all companies is calculated by the American and Iron and Steel Institute at 3,730,653 tons, the smallest monthly volume this year, but 346,202 tons more than in June, 1925. This brought the output for the half-year to 24,260,537 tons, compared with 23,383,071 tons in the first half of 1925.

Approximate daily production in June was 144,256 tons against 151,744 in May and 123,348 in June last year.

Per cent of operation in June, based on the "theoretical capacity" of 35,844,033 gross tons of ingots as of December 31, 1925, declined to 90.34 from 94.51 in May and 89.53 in April.

London Daily Radio

BY ARTHUR W. KIDDY

[Copyright, 1926, by New York Evening Post, Inc.]

LONDON, July 8. (By Wireless)—Weakness in French and Belgian currencies in today's markets began with heavy sales in New York last night, apparently due to the evidence of political opposition to Caillaux's intention to proceed to settle war debts. It is believed here, however, that Caillaux, French Minister of Finance, will carry his views and proceed to put the complete scheme in operation when the Chamber adjourns.

The markets remain quiet, with gilt-edged securities steady, despite fading hopes of a lower bank rate, unless autumn produces exceptional ease. European sterling loans were steady. Oils displayed a harder tendency.

Activity continues in diamond shares. DeBeers was heavily bought, also Johannesburg Investment, which is a big shareholder in DeBeers. The British dyestuffs report provides a striking contrast with the position before the government interest was purchased. Profits represent more than 6 per cent on the capital, despite an average reduction of 5.6 per cent a pound in dyestuff selling prices. The balance sheet reveals above $2,000,000 in cash and investments.

The Dunlop Rubber Company is proposing to form its Indian business into a separate company.

East Bay Water Preferred Due on Sale Today

Following the offering and sale yesterday of an issue of unifying and refunding bonds, the East Bay Water Company will today offer for public subscription an issue of 6 per cent Class A cumulative preferred stock, through a banking syndicate composed of Peirce, Fair & Co., Blyth, Witter & Co. and William Cavalier & Co. The shares are offered at 98 to return 6.35 per cent.

Annual net earnings available for the payment of dividends on the Class A preferred stock, after all prior charges, including operating expenses, all taxes, depreciation and interest charges for the four-year and five months' period ended May 31, last, have averaged, according to the bankers, in excess of $9 a share, or more than one and one-half times the dividend requirements.

The East Bay Water Company is engaged in the production, distribution and sale of water for domestic and industrial purposes in various cities adjacent to and including Oakland, having a combined population of 408,000.

Trade in Local Field Reported as Holding Gain

Bradstreet's survey of trade conditions in the Los Angeles district for the week will say:

Business generally is holding gains made during the past two weeks. While buying is still limited, trade is more optimistic. Department stores report better business with slight change in smaller outlying stores. Electrical-supply houses report satisfactory sales. Wholesale drugs trade reports monthly increase in sales. Collections are showing some improvement, although a number of lines are still complaining. Agricultural conditions continue good. Produce receipts are heavy with slight decrease in prices.

DODGE ELECTED TO ESPEE DIRECTORATE

NEW YORK, July 8. (AP)—Cleveland E. Dodge today was elected a director of the Southern Pacific Company, filling the vacancy recently created by the death of his father, Cleveland H. Dodge.

EARNINGS DROP

NEW YORK, July 8. (AP)—Net income of the American International Corporation for the second quarter amounted to $375,879, making net for the first half of the year $949,895, equal to $1.98 a share against $1,060,240 or $2.13 a share in the first half of 1925.

CALIFORNIA ICE OFFERS BOND ISSUE

San Diego First National to Market $350,000 Worth at 100 and Interest

Stephens & Co. and the bond department of the First National Bank of San Diego are offering today $350,000 California Ice and Cold Storage Company first mortgage and collateral 7 per cent sinking fund bonds, due 1936, at 100 and interest.

The California Ice and Cold Storage Company is a recent consolidation of the properties of the San Diego Ice and Cold Storage Company, the Bakersfield Ice and Cold Storage Company and the Home Ice and Cold Storage Company of Long Beach. The company operates three ice-manufacturing plants and three cold-storage plants at San Diego, Bakersfield and Long Beach, and through the proceeds of this financing will construct an additional cold-storage plant at Bakersfield and one at Long Beach. In addition to its ice-manufacturing and cold-storage business the company sells refrigeration and distilled water.

The bonds are secured by a first mortgage on the the properties acquired from the Home Ice and Cold Storage Company and by a first lien on all of the bonds and capital stock of the Bakersfield Ice and Cold Storage Company, the properties of which companies are valued at in excess of twice the amount of the bond issue, according to the bankers. In addition, the company owns other unincumbered real estate and practically all of the outstanding Class B stock of the San Diego Ice and Cold Storage Company, representing the voting control of that company.

Management of the consolidated companies will be in the hands of J. H. Dunbar, vice-president of the Southwestern Ice and Cold Storage Company at Yuma, Ariz., and of the San Diego Ice and Cold Storage Company.

Sale of West Coast Transit is Authorized

Another phase of the consolidation program under way in highway transportation was revealed yesterday when the Railroad Commission authorized the Pickwick stages system to purchase the operative rights and properties of the West Coast Transit Company for the sum of $289,900. The purchase price is to be paid in the capital stock of the Pickwick company.

The operative equipment included in the deal consists of fourteen trucks, two service cars and thirty-one passenger cars. In the operative rights are included certificates for the operation of stage service between Healdsburg and Crescent City and intermediate points and to various other cities in that section.

Acquisition of the West Coast Transit Company is part of an expansion and merger program recently undertaken by the Pickwick system.

United States Production of Gold Declines

WASHINGTON, July 8. (Exclusive) Unfavorable conditions in gold production since costs went up during war time, resulted in a further decline in output in the United States in 1925, according to final estimates compiled by the Bureau of the Mint with the co-operation of the Bureau of Mines.

Gold production in 1925 totaled 2,411,987 ounces valued at $49,880,200. This total value was less than that of 1924 by $3,416,600.

It was not quite half as great as in the year of the greatest gold production, 1915, when $101,035,700 was produced.

Silver produced in 1925 totaled 66,155,424 ounces, valued at $45,911,864. The silver production of 1925 exceeded that of 1924 by about 748,000 ounces. The largest silver output on record was in 1915, when 74,961,075 ounces were produced.

New financing scheduled for announcement within the next few days includes, it is reported, an offering of $1,100,000 Roosevelt Hotel of Hollywood bonds. The issue consists of first-mortgage 6 1-2 per cent bonds and will be offered by Alvin H. Frank & Co. and Sutherland, Barry & Co. of New Orleans.

Farm Program Mailed

An outline of the program suggested for stabilizing agriculture as a means of increasing prosperity in every other line of business throughout the State has been mailed to every chamber of commerce in California by the California Development Association. The program contains the recommendations of the State-Wide Committee of Ten, appointed at the request of the California Agricultural Conference recently held in Fresno, under the auspices of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

BUSINESS PHILOSOPHY

BY WILLIAM FEATHER

WHEN a business begins to lose money the boss hates the bookkeeper.

It's seldom the bankers take over a business that doesn't need taking over.

The greatest drawback to talent, or even genius, is disorderliness, slouchiness, carelessness.

Although something of an idealist myself, I always like to see a few reactionaries on the board of directors of any company in which I own stock.

ECONOMIC THEORY UPSET

Anomaly of Rising Security Markets and Declining Commodity Prices Discussed by Garrett

[Copyright, 1926, by New York Evening Post, Inc.]

NEW YORK, July 8.—Apparently the rising market in stocks does not portend higher prices for commodities. At least the index number that reflect the July 1 position of wholesale prices, computed by Bradstreet and by Dun, show no signs of an upturn. The general price level, according to both of these authorities, continues slightly downward.

That commodity prices have fallen month by month since the beginning of the present calendar year, is the conclusion reached by both compilers, but the rate of decline is losing in momentum. Recession on the whole has been less pronounced in recent months than it had been early in 1926. No indication appears as yet, however, of any substantial upswing in prices, and this must puzzle the prophets who have been awaiting signs of inflation.

Periods of prosperity are made sweeter for industry when the commodity trend is upward, and profits in the last year presumably would have been larger if trade had enjoyed the stimulation of a rising rather than a falling price level. But when prices rise for any protracted period almost always the movement stimulates buying of goods on a heavy scale, dealers load their shelves and once the advance ends, the bloom of prosperity suddenly turns into gloom. Distributors discover that their warehouses are loaded with goods bought at dear levels and that they must mark down the value of their inventories.

Prosperity in the present instance has come without the stimulation of a rising price level and of that the country now may be glad. It means that one condition that usually tends to usher in depression after an era of prosperity does not hang over business and threaten it.

If the declining commodity level has narrowed the margin of profit for industry it has also relieved the business world of the inflation pains that almost certainly would have come by now in different circumstances.

Dangers of an inflation in commodity prices were multiplied by the appearance of easier money, but the flow of funds that of late has lifted stocks, has not as yet been directed to the commodities markets and that is fortunate.

Tomato Crop of California on 46,000 Acres

SACRAMENTO, July 8. (AP)—In a report issued today the California Co-operative Crop Reporting Service estimates, the tomato acreage in California at 46,000. Of this amount, 32,000 acres are devoted to canners' tomatoes and 14,000 acres to table tomatoes. The condition of the crop is estimated at 85 per cent and San Diego is the only county which reports more blight than last year.

Shipments of cantaloupes from Imperial Valley will total 14,000 cars, says the report. The original estimates of the service have been reduced by approximately 4000 cars by a prevalence of mildew which not only served to diminish the crop, but also weakened the vines to such an extent that high-quality melons are rare.

SALES OF TRAVEL CHECKS INCREASE

NEW YORK, July 8. (AP)—F. P. Small, president of the American Express Company, says sales of travelers checks so far this year have established a record and vacation travel here and abroad has begun in good volume, indicating a good year for the company in gross and net earnings.

BUYING OF RAIL SHARES LEADS

Average for Group Highest in Last Ten Years

Record Freight Traffic Spurs Trading Interest

Leading Industrials Flattened Around Old Levels

NEW YORK, July 8. (AP)—Establishment of the highest level in ten years by the average of leading railroad shares featured the resumption of the upward movement of prices in today's stock market. The advance, however, attracted a large volume of profit-taking and considerable short selling, bringing about some irregularity in closing quotations. Trading showed a further expansion in volume, the day's sales aggregating 1,697,200 shares, as compared with 1,274,300 yesterday and 1,287,000 the day before.

There were several factors to account for the advance in railroad shares, including the announcement that freight traffic in the first months of the year was the largest of any corresponding period in history, the prospect of large grain movements this fall, and the general satisfaction with which Wall Street has received the unofficial word of the modified "Nickel Plate" merger plan.

Practically all the Van Sweringen issues touched new high levels for the year or longer; Chesapeake and Ohio at 143 7-8, the preferred at 142; Erie first preferred at 47 and the second preferred at 40; Pere Marquette, common at 39, "Nickel Plate" common at 59 3-4 and the preferred at 108.

Strong buying support also developed in the other rails. Reading touched the best price in its history at 98 7-8, while Baltimore and Ohio, Canadian Pacific, Louisville, Nashville, Missouri Pacific preferred, Pittsburgh and West Virginia, and Western Pacific all closed a point or so higher.

CENTRAL UNION TRUST COMPANY, NEW YORK, AMERICAN TRUSTEE

Price 98½ and Interest, yielding over 7⅛%

The security for these bonds and the responsibility of the Obligor Association have been personally inspected, analyzed and approved by representatives of the American bankers. We summarize the salient features of this attractive issue as follows:

OBLIGORS Bonds are the joint and several obligation of the three leading Roman Catholic Associations of Germany, with an estimated worth of $300,000,000 and estimated gross annual revenue of $42,000,000.

PURPOSE OF LOAN To relean to Roman Catholic Institutions, Dioceses, Parishes and Orders throughout Germany, largely for the financing of extensions and improvements of hospitals, asylums, homes for the blind, schools and so forth, totaling 3300 institutions.

SECURITY About 90% of releans will be secured by first mortgages on property valued over four times the amount of the relean and will be further guaranteed, in most cases, by a financially responsible body which must be entirely self-supporting.

GENERAL The Roman Catholic Church of Germany embraces approximately 23,000,000 parishioners, or 33% of the total population. No Roman Catholic Church organization in Germany has ever defaulted in any of its obligations, which is, we believe, true of Roman Catholic Church Organizations throughout the world.

New Nickel Plate Merger Plan Spurs Trading on Rail Group

[Copyright, 1926, by New York Evening Post, Inc.]

NEW YORK, July 8. (Exclusive)—With the new modified Nickel Plate plan the chief topic of conversation in financial circles, interest in the stock market switched sharply to the railroad list during today's session. Principal buying naturally was directed toward the shares in the Van Sweringen group, most of which ran up to new high levels under the leadership of Chesapeake and Ohio. Industrials, particularly the leaders, continued to appear rather tired after their recent spectacular advance, and profit-taking was rather heavy in that part of the market.

Revival of merger gossip relative to the rails turned attention toward stocks other than the Nickel Plate group. Baltimore and Ohio, Reading, Rock Island, New York Central and a number of others were in good demand at higher levels. The specialties were the outstanding features among the industrials, with sharp gains the rule in that direction. Motors were irregular, a sharp drive against Hudson meeting stern resistance after a setback of several points. Industrials continued irregular throughout the late trading, while rails in many instances made their best prices for the day in the final hour.

Nickel Plate Issues Feature

Heavy demand for the stocks of the rails in the Nickel Plate group was the outstanding feature of the session. Virtually all of them attained new high ground as Wall street conjectured on the possible terms offered in the new modified consolidation plan. Chesapeake and Ohio was the spectacular feature, while Pere Marquette and the Erie preferred issues also moved ahead impressively to new high levels on large volume of trading. Nickel Plate, after reaching new peak prices for all time, settled back to levels under the previous closing. According to Wall street's way of reckoning, Pere Marquette will probably receive the equivalent of par in the new exchange, while it was reasoned that Chesapeake and Ohio would get a 95 guaranteed dividend, with an additional half-share of new Nickel Plate.

General Motors and Steel

In contrast with the pronounced strength in the Van Sweringen rails, the recent leaders of the industrial list were inclined to lag. Steel common and General Motors were notable examples and both were taking advantage of the opportunity afforded for a well-earned breathing spell. Profit-taking was quite persistent and there was a goodly sprinkling of selling for short account on the theory that at least a moderate setback was due in view of the long and uninterrupted advance in those shares. There was nothing new in the situation to warrant the selling. The street is still as confident as ever that big developments are impending in the affairs of both those corporations, and it was remarked that the selling was not coming from the sources which were prominently identified with the recent upward movement.

Industrial Specialties Strong

Satisfied that the outlook was for a further relaxation in money rates before long, pools went ahead with constructive operations in many of the industrial specialties. Despite the backwardness of the leaders, that section of the list was not without its customary sprinkling of strong spots. American Can was taken up aggressively and approached within a fraction of the record high levels touched by the present stock. Demand for American Smelters was unabated, and Allied Chemical, Case Threshing Machine, Coca Cola, Fleishmann and United States Cast Iron Pipe were prominent among the active issues which registered gains ranging from 1 to over 4 points.

Woodin Sees Big Equipment Buying

With the exception of Baldwin Locomotive, which ran up rather sharply, the equipments were not especially influenced by the optimistic remarks of William H. Woodin, president of the American Car and Foundry Company, on the outlook for those companies. Predicting substantial improvement in equipment buying during the summer and fall months, he declared that the situation in the country at large depended in a broad way on the crops, where indications were good. Neither Car and Foundry nor American Locomotive showed much sign of life, and activity in Baldwin quieted down after S. S. Vauclain, president, had once more taken occasion to deny reports that negotiations looking toward the sale of that company's Philadelphia property were in progress.

Drive Against Hudson Unsettles

Motors as a group were irregular. Another vicious drive against Hudson combined with the heavy tone in General Motors to give the group a mixed appearance. Hudson had been driven down several points, before encountering formidable support, but once the selling movement was arrested rapid recovery was in order. General Motors moved narrowly as profit taking and short selling continued. Mack Trucks, responding to optimistic gossip relative to its current earnings was bid up quite sharply to new high levels for the recovery, while Nash and Studebaker ruled moderately higher throughout the day. Chrysler and Willys-Overland were disposed to sag under weight of persistent offerings.

Cuba Company Active Feature

Cuba Company has been one of the outstanding features of trading during the current week. Active buying of the stock has been going on, probably influenced by the approach of the meeting of directors at which the plan for the extension of valuable rights to its stockholders is to be ratified. Under this plan common stockholders are given the right to subscribe for the 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock of the consolidated railroads of Cuba at the rate of forty shares at $40 a share for each 100 shares of Cuba Company now held. It has been estimated that the rights thus accruing are worth in the neighborhood of $16 a share. The stock today was within striking distance of its high for the year.

GUIDING INSURANCE BUYERS

BY GRIFFIN M. LOVELACE
Professor of Insurance, New York University

This is one of a series of articles appearing in The Times three times a week, dealing with all phases of insurance.

XLVI.—Residence Burglary Insurance—Guest Coverage

In our last article on burglary insurance we saw that the residence burglary policy illustrated may be made to provide specifically for reimbursement of the volume of four classes of property if stolen from your residence: (1) Various kinds of jewelry, etc., and furs; (2) money, securities, etc., to a limited extent, and wearing apparel, household articles and property commonly found in residences; (3) certain specified articles of particular value, and (4) alcoholic beverages acquired by the insured prior to July 1, 1919.

It was stated that this policy provides a definite amount of insurance for each of these four classes, according to the valuation of the property of each class owned by the policyholder in the residence insured.

The same protection is also extended, without extra charge, to members of the insured's family residing permanently with him who pay no board or rent, and also to any of his relatives who regularly make their home with him; but this does not include relatives who are visiting, even for an extended period, or any other guests.

MAY COVER GUESTS

Guests may, however, be included in the protection afforded to the insured and his family for a slight additional premium, so that the theft of any property they may have brought with them will be paid for, within the limit of the amounts designated in the policy.

The guest coverage is extremely important, especially for persons who entertain a good deal. House guests as well as persons invited to a reception or party are likely to have costly valuables with them, especially jewelry and furs.

It has often happened that an expensive brooch, ring or a fur coat has been taken from a guest's room, particularly when extra servants were engaged for a dinner or a ball and many persons are coming and going, including the guests. Few things can be more embarrassing for a host than the theft of articles belonging to a guest. More than one good friendship has been broken as the result of such an occurrence, and there have been instances of suits brought by guests against their hosts to recover the value of valuables lost in this way. The theft of a guest's valuables has furnished the theme for more than one mystery play or story.

INSURANCE NOT CARRIED

An acquaintance of the writer's had a very disagreeable experience. One of his wife's classmates who had married a poor man was a guest in their home during the Christmas holidays. The occasion of this visit was to consult a specialist whose services might not have been available if it had been necessary to pay a hotel bill in addition to the doctor's fee.

The guest had a few beautiful pieces of jewelry that she had inherited from her mother, including an exquisite ruby ring, which disappeared. Some weeks afterward a plumber's helper who had done some work in the guest's bathroom confessed that he had stolen the ring, sold it for a song to a stranger and spent the money. No recovery was ever made.

The poor woman and the hostess were both deeply distressed. There was no burglary insurance and the value could not be replaced. But the host, though not wealthy, offered to pay for the ruby, which, to his astonishment, was appraised at $1500 by a jeweler who had reset it some years previously.

The guest refused to accept reimbursement, but a compromise was finally effected. The host said: "It was my duty to carry burglary insurance. You were in my house and entitled to every protection." Seven hundred and fifty dollars was accepted.

In contrast with the above case is that of a woman whose diamond rings were stolen while she was attending a house party. The host carried ample burglary insurance covering the valuables of guests, and the casualty company paid the loss promptly. The guest was reimbursed and the host was relieved of embarrassment.

Brazil Industry Suffering From Money Scarcity

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 8. (AP)—Brazil is faced with an industrial crisis brought about by the increasing value of its money, due largely to the government's policy of deflation by withdrawing a large amount of paper from circulation.

One of the banks here, the Bank of Receife, has suspended payments and filed a petition in bankruptcy, which was granted. Assets are listed at more than $4,000,000 and liabilities at nearly that much. The monetary crisis is considered the principal cause of the failure and a sugar crisis due to overproduction in the state of Pernambuco, a contributing cause.

The Amazon rubber trade is also affected because the price of exported rubber no longer returns enough to pay labor.

IRON PIPE MILLS BUSY

NEW YORK, July 8. (AP)—Cast-iron pipe mills in the Birmingham district all are operating near capacity with indications this condition will prevail for some time. The trade anticipates that production of pipe and fittings in the United States this year will exceed the record of 2,324,047 tons in 1925.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, July 8. (Exclusive)—The cotton market opened steady and unchanged to a few points higher today. Demand came principally from shorts, and it was believed that trade shorts were also buying the summer months. The selling came from the South and longs taking profits.

The Tallulah Delta Laboratory issued a report contending that the flea damage reports have become serious, and the report urges farmers to dust plants with sulphur. The report was interesting to the trade, but the trade considers reports from entomologists as too pessimistic. It is thought that as soon as the flea leaves the field the plant puts on fruit rapidly. On the other hand the persistent reports of poor fruiting are causing active covering of shorts.

Buying increased as the session progressed, and prices rallied to net gains of 1-4c a pound on active damage to the crop by hopper, fleas, leaf worms and fears were expressed that the continued cloudy, showery weather would increase the numbers of boll weevil.

In some quarters the reason for the lack of fruit on the plant is attributed to the lateness of the crop. The reports of lack of fruit are quite general, and it is understood that prominent newspaper men in the Southwest have placed the condition of the Texas crop today at only 65 per cent of normal compared with the government estimate on June 25 of 80 per cent.

The trade buying is fair in the futures market. Some price fixing continues for southern mills, but generally speaking the trade is short of the actual. Shippers have been fair buyers of summer months, and there is believed to be a good short interest in the actual against contracts made to mills earlier in the season. The trade has failed to cover their requirements owing to expectations of much lower prices had the weather continued favorable for the growing crop.

Lancashire trade conditions continue pessimistic, with reports current this morning that the entire American section might be closed down owing to the critical coal situation.

MARYSVILLE SELLS BONDS

MARYSVILLE, July 8. (AP)—School bonds of the Marysville Union High School district totaling $375,000 and bearing 5 per cent interest were sold to Weeden & Co., San Francisco, who offered a premium of $17,915.

ONE of the most helpful services rendered by a large banking institution is the selection of suitable investments for its clients. The keen discrimination shown in selecting its securities is reflected in the trust and responsibility placed in this institution by thousands of investors.

The bonds offered do not yield the highest rates of interest but combine the highest degree of safety consistent with marketability and yield. The sound judgment of bankers experienced in investment matters will aid the large as well as the small investor in his choice of a diversified list of bonds.

A conference to discuss your investment problems will incur no obligation.

MERCANTILE TRUST COMPANY, SAN FRANCISCO, TRANSFER AGENT

The following points upon which we base our recommendation of this stock have been briefly summarized from the President's letter.

The East Bay Water Company, a California corporation, was formed November 13, 1916. The company, with its predecessors, has been engaged for the past sixty years in the production, distribution and sale of water for domestic and industrial purposes in the cities of Oakland, Berkeley, Alameda, Piedmont, Emeryville, Albany, and San Leandro in Alameda County, and Richmond and El Cerrito in Contra Costa County. These communities are advantageously located on the eastern shore of San Francisco Bay and have an estimated combined population of 498,000.

OUTSTANDING CAPITALIZATION AT CONCLUSION OF PRESENT FINANCING

First Mortgage 5½% Bonds, due January 1, 1946	$ 9,169,200
Unifying and Refunding Mortgage Bonds:

Class "A" Preferred Stock	10,000,000
Class "B" Preferred Stock	2,987,200
Common Stock	100,000

Annual net earnings available for the payment of dividends on the Company's Class "A" 6% Cumulative Preferred Stock, after all prior charges including operating expenses, all taxes, depreciation and interest charges for the four year and 5 month period ending May 31, 1926, have averaged in excess of $9 per share or more than one and one-half (1½) times such requirements.

The company was formed under the supervision of the Railroad Commission of the State of California. A valuation of the properties of the Company was made by the Railroad Commission at that time, and its capitalization was based upon that valuation. Additional securities have been issued only with the authorization of the Railroad Commission to provide funds for extensions and improvements to the property.

The decisions of the courts and the Railroad Commission of California in fixing the just compensation to be paid on a sale to the public of properties similar in character to East Bay Water Company's plant have uniformly measured value as the cost of reproduction less a fair depreciation. Such a measure of value should produce a figure for East Bay Water Company's plant several million dollars in excess of all bonded indebtedness and the par value of all outstanding preferred and common stock, which at the conclusion of the present financing will total $34,388,900.

Dividends on Class "A" Preferred Stock are cumulative; and, according to the Articles of Incorporation, it is obligatory for the directors to declare such dividends if earned. Full dividends have been regularly earned and paid on this stock since issuance.

Stock is offered when, as and if issued and received by us.
Legality subject to the approval of Jared How, attorney for the Bankers, and Messrs. McKee, Tuchera and Wakefield, attorneys for the Company.

RUBBER MARKET

NEW YORK, July 8. (Exclusive)—No change in crude rubber prices was in evidence today when spot in New York at the close of business was quoted at 19c. The Rubber Exchange of New York likewise was quiet, with few sales listed. Final cables from London showed a steady market at that center, quoting spot sheets at 20¼d, unchanged from the opening.

No new development was noticed in the street today, with most of the brokers and traders temporarily retiring from activity.

BOND QUOTATIONS

Rails Head Trading

NEW YORK, July 8. (AP)—Railroad obligations were the center of trading interest in today's bond market which pushed slowly ahead to higher ground. Both investment and speculative buying was attracted to the carrier group by reason of the favorable developments which have come to light in this field, including the progress in shaping up the revised Nickel Plate Merger, the record breaking traffic in the first half of the year and the unusually high earnings for May.

The process of readjusting the so-called Van Sweringen issues to the more liberal terms of the modified plan continued today, with Nickel Plate, Erie and Chesapeake and Ohio lines working substantially higher. The demand was not limited to this group, however, and large buying orders made their appearance for such issues as Atchison general 4s, Chicago and Eastern Illinois 5s, Chicago Great Western 4s, the St. Paul and Puget Sound issues, Chicago and Northwestern general 4s, International Great Northern Adjustment 6s, Frisco Income 6s, Burlington General 4s, Southern Railway 4s and 6s, and Union Pacific first and refunding 4s, several of which set new top prices for the year.

Foreign obligations were irregular. French bonds reflected growing uneasiness over the unsettled financial situation and the slump in the franc to another low record level. Belgian and Italian issues paid less attention to the weakness of these currencies and the German bonds held fairly steady.

The conflict of price movement extended to the industrial list where the strength of a few issues stood out in contrast to the general downward trend American Writing Paper 6s and certificates reached new highs for the year while Bethlehem Steel 5s of 1936, Bing & Bing 6½s, Colorado Industrial 5s and Rogers-Brown Iron 7s rose 1 to 2 points.

Following are yesterday's high, low and closing prices of bonds on the New York Stock Exchange and the total sales of each issued:

Income Independent of Business

FEW people want to face the compelling necessity of working during their declining years. The approach of old age usually means increasing difficulty in maintaining the pace of business competition and a gradual giving up of accustomed comforts, conveniences and satisfactions.

Consistent saving and investing in sound bonds with the guidance of an investment house in which implicit confidence can be placed is a safe way to offset diminishing earnings. It is a simple way of correcting diminishing earning power.

To ask our advice leaves us free to use it. No consultation placing an order

The plan is as old as the hills and is as sound for saving small as for saving large sums.

NEW YORK CURB STOCKS

NEW YORK, July 8. (AP) — Selling pressure increased in today's curb market, although speculators for the advance continued to bid up individual issues in which special developments are pending. Net declines outnumbered net gains in closing quotations, but the losses as a rule were small.

Oils lost ground on the announcement of reductions in Pennsylvania crude and export gasoline prices. Humble dropped over a point to 62 3-8, and most of the others yielded fractionally. Lack of public interest in the petroleum issues was generally attributed to the continued uncertainty over the crude situation, due to the recent discovery of new fields.

Bullish demonstrations were successfully conducted in a number of industrial specialties. Curtiss Aeroplane, which had been dragging around the year's low, suddenly moved up over 3 points to 19½, but was unable to maintain all its gains. Net advances of 2 points or more were recorded by Atlas Portland Cement, De Voe & Raynolds B, Lehigh Coal and Navigation, New Jersey Zinc, Singer Manufacturing and United States Gypsum, the turnover in most cases being small.

Universal Pictures broke over 4 points to a new low level for the year at 20½. Motors were also heavy. Public utilities were irregular with no special feature.

The closing price is omitted when same as the last, and both low and close when above or the high. Sales are in hundreds.

by hammering some of the popular issues in the early trading, but they made little headway. United States Steel common was in rather free supply around its recent high levels, closing 3-4 lower at 141 1-8 after having fluctuated between 140 3-4 and 142½. General Motors, another recent favorite, also closed 3-4 lower at 149 1-4.

Establishment of new record low levels by the French, Belgian and Italian currencies and the continuance of relatively firm call-money rates apparently had little effect on speculative sentiment.

Laclede Gas jumped 7 points to 167, or within a point of the year's high. Union Oil of California crossed 57 to a new high but most of the other oils were sluggish, presumably on the announcement of a cut in Pennsylvania crude prices. Allied Chemical reached its highest price since the March break, but Davison Chemical, which had been active and strong recently on the prospect of an inauguration of dividends this year, yielded slightly on profit-taking. Postum Cereal crossed par for a gain of over 6 points. Shorts scurried to cover in Ward Baking B, Hudson Motors, U. S. Rubber and Goodrich, all of which closed 2 or more points higher.

COMMODITIES OFF

Commodity prices were mixed. Active wheat futures yielded about a cent a bushel. Cotton advanced 15 to 26 points with buying influenced by the fear of insect damage to the new crop. The raw sugar market was quiet and easier. Coffee futures yielded 11 to 15 points.

Call money renewed at 4½ per cent and remained at that rate all day. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges lost ground in sympathy with the acute weakness of the Latin-American currencies. French francs broke over 10 points to a new low around 2½ cents and Belgian francs touched a new bottom several points below that figure. Italian lire sold below 3 1-3 cents for the first time. Demand sterling ruled 3-6 of a cent lower around $4.85 3-4. Polish zlotys showed independent strength by climbing a full cent to 10 cents.

LOS ANGELES MARKET

CATTLE—A fairly active trade cleaned up yesterday's moderate supply on a strong to 25c higher basis, with steers and the better kinds of the stock in spots reflecting advances of $1@$2 for the week. His head of baby beeves averaging 1090 pounds and fed mostly, brought 13.50, while steer head, averaging 978 pounds, realized 12.85. A car of good 1297-pound steers topped for the day at 8.25, while a three-car string of 940-pound weights realized 7.75. Other steers, mostly low medium kinds, turned from 7.50@7.60, while late Wednesday five cars of medium steers went over for 7.25. A few common kinds sold down to 6.50.

Odd head of good heifers and weighty cows turned from 6.50@8.75, while the bulk, mostly from dairy sections, turned from 6.00@6.75. Canners turned largely from 5.50@6.00. Bulls were coarse and ruled firm, the bulk going over from 4.50@5.50.

CALVES—Steady prices ruled and yesterday's supply was cleaned up readily. A load of 350-pound Arizona calves made 10.50, while heavies, averaging 392 pounds, were taken out at 8.50. Very common kinds sold down to 6.00. A few lots of milk vealers turned for 11.00.

HOGS—Active demand cleaned up yesterday's moderate supply readily on a steady to strong basis. Three loads of 181 to 189-pound butchers topped at 17.00, while a load of mixed 194-pound butchers made 16.75, with 197-pound lots fed trucked-in butchers at the same price. Half a load of 221-pound local fats brought 15.75, while mixed 250-pound weights turned for 14.00. The few packing sows went over from 13.50@13.90. Odd head made 13.50.

SHEEP—None. Medium to choice lambs are quoted from 12.00@14.50, with common to choice clears over from 4.75@6.75.

The Rolin Chica Oil Company's well in the northern flank of the Rosecrans field, which has been the center of much attention in recent weeks went on production yesterday morning with an initial output ranging between 700 and 1500 barrels, according to various field reports. The well, the Rolin Chica's official report, was shut down at 1800 barrels. The oil is said to have been turned up late yesterday, and that drilling was to be resumed right on through the night, but Rolin Chica officials expected it to settle down to clean production within the next day or two. The well is down 5424 feet. It came in under perfect control, and without the trouble from heavy gas pressure which has marked many completions in the Ventura-avenue field.

The new well is the farthest north of any well in the avenue field, and the second completion on the north side of the structure. The Associated Oil Company's Hartman No. 1, located about 300 feet south of the Rolin Chica, was the first well, but ran into mechanical trouble made only a few barrels a day.

The Associated Oil Company, which has the lion's share of production in the Ventura-avenue field, has continued to take the oil output of the Rolin Chica, it is understood, and the pipe connecting Rolin Chica No. 1 with the Associated main trunk line is now in its first about two weeks. The Rolin Chica has about sixty acres of land now in this area, but due to the location of the new well in the south and most favorable side of the property, it is impossible to say as much of the Rolin Chica lease is productive.

The Rolin Chica lease, and the entire property of the Associated Company is all owned by the same family.

Old Producer

The Rendall Oil Company yesterday completed its Rosecrans No. 4 well in the Maxwell district of the Santa Fe field, east of Main street. The Rendall zone, getting an initial production reported at 1000 barrels per day of 40 degrees gravity oil, only provisionally to cut. It is the first well that has been completed on the Rosecrans property for several months.

Rosecrans No. 4 originally was completed in the upper Maxwell zone about two years ago, but record was killed to deepen. In addition to the oil output, the well is making about 1,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day, it is said.

Second Well

The Milham Exploration Company is shortly expected its second Grant well in the Saugus district, according to official reports. The well is the Conroy No. 2, and is located not far from Conroy No. 1, which was drilled on the Conroy ranch which the Milham Interests have a quite block.

Big Producer

The Big Petroleum Corporation completed its Grant No. 1 well in the Citrus district at Long Beach, and is getting about 1000 barrels a day initial production, according to early reports. The well was finished at 4600 feet, and is flowing from about seventy-five feet of penetration. It is located at Elm avenue and Wardlow Road.

New Well Completed

Edwards & Hines have placed their first deep zone well on production in the Los Cerritos district, northwest of Signal Hill. The well is flowing at the rate of about 800 barrels a day, gross with a cut of about 10 per cent, which is expected to clear up. Bottom is at 4836 feet. The well is located at Thirty-sixth street and Elm avenue.

Makes New Test

The Union Oil Company is conducting a new test of its Trust No. 2 in the central area of the Rosecrans field, according to official reports. The well is showing a little oil, with no gas, and the water is said to be sweet, indicating that there is a possibility that a water shutoff has been effected. The well is down 5982 feet, with pipe cemented at 5825 feet.

Plan New Well

The Ozena Oil Company of Los Angeles, an operator in Kern county oil fields, has contracted with the John Walklin interests to drill its first well in the heart of the prospective Walkin-Delano field. This area extends northwesterly from Delano, on the Southern Pacific near the Kern-Tulare county line, to Allensworth on the west branch of the Santa Fe. It is almost twelve miles long and something more than four miles at its widest point, but altops rather sharply toward each end.

The Ozena Oil Company lease covers 560 acres and is surrounded on all sides by lands owned by John Walkiin of the Walkiin Petroleum Company. Mr. Walkiin has bought nearly 4000 acres in that district and has a similar amount under lease.

The Marland Oil Company is also interested in the district, having areas in Township 24, Range 25, and Township 25, Range 25.

Considerable interest attaches to the district because of showings in the Mitchell well, which was drilled about six years ago. The Mitchell well was drilled on Section 22, 24-24, southeast of Allensworth.

Mr. Walkiin declares that he can locate the feather-edge of an oil pool by applied radio-active principles, as well as determine the depth of the pool, gravity of the oil, volume of gas and whether or not the oil is of paraffine or asphaltum base.

Mr. Walkiin says he expects to find two oil sands underlying about half of the total area in the Walkiin-Delano district, one at about 2000 feet and the other and richest at about 5000 feet. The northeasterly side of the pool is limited to one sand, he says, which lies, he thinks, at a depth of about 2000 feet, but is believed to be of much more than ordinary value.

THE INVESTOR

Great Northern's $15,000,000 General Mortgage Bond Issue is Not Callable for 50 Years; Funded Debt Increase is Less Than Half of Investments Since 1901.

[Copyright, 1926, by New York Evening Post, Inc.]

NEW YORK, JULY 8. (Exclusive.)—One of the most interesting features of the $15,000,000 general mortgage 4½ per cent bond issue of the Great Northern Railway Company, which was offered recently, is the stipulation that they are not redeemable before their maturity in 1976.

That should be a decidedly favorable attraction for large investors and institutions that do not wish to be obliged to reinvest their surplus funds upon short notice or perhaps at a time when interest rates are generally lower than at present. That feature undoubtedly was partly responsible for the quick sale of the issue.

Few general mortgage railroad bonds have been placed on sale within the last year or so, and perhaps none with a greater equity than that of the Great Northern 4½s. Some idea of the money invested in the properties of this road may be had from a recent statement by Ralph Budd, president, that since 1901 more than $491,000,000 has been invested in road, equipment and other capital assets, while during the same period the company's funded debt has been increased by only $238,000,000.

Earnings of the Great Northern applicable to the payment of interest on its funded debt for the past four years have averaged about twice such interest charges. Income available for charges were as follows: In 1922, $27,783,604; 1923, $35,045,352; 1924, $35,835,165, and 1925, $39,704,431.

If and when the railroads in the Northwest are allowed freight rates sufficient to yield a reasonable return on the money invested in them, Great Northern, along with the other carriers in that district, will be able to earn its fixed charges with a much greater margin than is now the case.

Lines of this company extend from Minneapolis and Duluth westward along the northern boundary of the United States to the Pacific Coast. Together with the Northern Pacific the Great Northern controls the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, which in turn controls the Colorado and Southern, this giving the company direct connection with Chicago, Kansas City and Denver and an outlet to the Gulf of Mexico.

More than 60 per cent of the tonnage of the road represents products of mines, iron ore being the chief item and constituting nearly half of the total hauled. Although revenue freight density has not shown a large increase during the past ten years, bigger freight cars and locomotives have added materially to the trainloads moved.

The improvement in the credit position of this company is manifest by the fact that in 1921, when it sold $115,000,000 general mortgage bonds, it was obliged to place them on a 7 per cent coupon basis. Within the past month the Interstate Commerce Commission, at the request of the company, vacated and set aside its order authorizing the sale of $5,000,000 of general mortgage bonds carrying a 5 per cent coupon. Of course, the drop in money rates generally has helped to bring about this condition.

Under the tentative plan for railroad consolidations the Great Northern was placed with the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, the Chicago, Terre Haute and Southeastern, the Duluth and Iron Range, the Duluth, Missabe and Northern, the Spokane, Portland and Seattle, the Green Bay and Western and the Butte, Anaconda and Pacific.

This plan does not conform with the wishes of the management of the Great Northern, which desires a merger with the Northern Pacific and the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy. No new merger developments have taken place recently, but it is probable that the bankruptcy of the St. Paul will tend to upset the original tentative bonds.

METAL MARKETS

CLEVELAND, July 8. (Exclusive)—Daily Metal Trade today says: "Buying of pig iron is brisk in eastern territory, regardless of holiday and midsummer influence. The total placed in the past several days is impressive, some about evenly divided between Monday and basis, being in excess of 30,000 tons.

"Some price weakness is apparent, however. Southern iron is understood to be now more freely available, particularly in Ohio. Pittsburgh district is buying heavy. Structural steel movement is remarkably high. Some buildings exceeding by far any seen in any other month this year. Export plate demand is the heaviest in many years. Sheet-mills output is 14c. DIVIDEND REDUCED

NEW YORK, July 8. (AP)—The quarterly dividend of $2 a share on the common stock of A. G. Spalding & Bros., has been reduced to $1.25, payable the 20th inst. to holders of record on the 9th inst. A statement said the change was made to accumulate a large undistributed surplus for purposes of additional working capital and necessary plant extension, than has been possible with the rate prevailing heretofore. Regular quarterly dividends on the first and second preferred stocks were declared.

Lemons found a higher market with good absorption both in New York and Chicago, the last quotation of Chicago eliminating demand and strengthening the citrus market generally. Seven cars of oranges more than yesterday were sold at Chicago and two more cars of lemons. There was considerable clean up of fruit at each auction.

Other auctions reported demand for stronger grad, except Philadelphia, where there was an easier feeling.

Representative sales by cities of oranges were reported as follows by the California Fruit Growers' Exchange:

GOOPS!

A Daily Lesson in Manners for Children

BY GELETT BURGESS

[Copyright, 1926: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PICNIC UNTIDINESS.

I've often seen a picnic group
Where every person was a Goop.
For, when they left the lovely spot,
They left a most untidy lot
Of horrid refuse there behind them.
Leave picnic groves just as you find them!

Engine Trouble Forces Liner to Return to Port

NEW YORK, July 9. (AP) — The French liner Degrasse, which sailed from New York yesterday with 1000 passengers, is returning to New York on account of engine trouble said a wireless message today. The port engine has broken down, the message said.

The Degrasse was about 350 miles out when the trouble developed and Capt. Martius Aubert, the commander, decided to bring his vessel back. She is expected to reach here tomorrow night.

ARROWSMITH

by Sinclair Lewis

DR. MARTIN ARROWSMITH, staff member of the McGurk Institute of Biology of New York, has returned from the Isle of St. Hubert after six months fighting an outbreak of bubonic plague, a situation for which he has discovered a remedy. Following the death of his wife, Leora Tozer Arrowsmith, from the plague, he forgot his resolutions to forget humanitarianism that science might be benefited by strict observation of conditions, and instead of making tests of his remedy, immunized the whole island population.

PEARL ROBBINS is the Dracula-like secretary of the Institute.

DR. A. DeWITT TUBBS was formerly director of the Institute.

"The Holy Wren," is head of the department of physiology at McGurk Institute.

DR. OLIVER MARCHAND was a negro physician of great knowledge. He, too, died from the plague on the island.

TERRY WICKETT, a roughneck biochemist, is perhaps Martin's best friend in the McGurk Institute.

JOYCE LANYON, widow of Roger Lanyon of New York, was in St. Hubert at the time of the plague. Martin and her there; they were mutually attracted.

Martin did not see Joyce Lanyon for weeks after his return to New York. Once she invited him to dinner, but he could not come, and he did not hear from her again.

His absorption in osmotic pressure determinations did not content him when he sat in his prim hotel room and was reduced from Dr. Arrowsmith to a man who had no one to talk to. He remembered how they had sat by the lagoon in the tepid twilight, he telephoned, asking whether he might come in for tea.

He knew in an unformulated way that Joyce was rich, but after seeing her in gingham, cooking in the kitchen of St. Swithin's almshouse, he did not grasp her position; and he was uncomfortable when, feeling dusty from the laboratory, he came to her great house and found her the soft-voiced mistress of many servants.

Hers was a palace, and palaces, whether they are such very little ones as Joyce's, with its eighteen rooms, or Buckingham or vast Fontainebleau, are all alike; they are choked with the superfluities of pride, they are so complete that ens does not remember small, endearing charms, they are indistinguishable in their common feeling of polite and uneasy grandeur, they are therefore altogether tedious.

But amid the pretentious splendor which Roger Lanyon had accumulated, Joyce was not tedious. It is to be suspected that she enjoyed showing Martin what she really was, by producing footmen and too many kinds of sandwiches, and by boasting. "Oh, I never do know what they're going to give me for tea."

But she had welcomed him, crying, "You look so much better. I'm frightfully glad. Are you still my brother? I was a good cook at the almshouse, wasn't I?"

Had he been suave then and witty, she would not have been greatly interested. She knew too many men who were witty and well-bred, ivory smooth and competent to help her spend the $4,000,000 or $5,000,000 with which she was burdened. But Martin was at once a scholar who made osmotic pressure determinations almost interesting, a lank, swift man whom she could fancy running or making love, and a lonely youngster who naively believed that here in her soft security she was still the girl who had sat with him by the lagoon, still the courageous woman who had come to him in a drunken room at Blackwater.

Joyce Lanyon knew how to make men talk. Thanks more to her than to his own articulateness, he made living the Institute, the members, their feuds, and the drama of coursing on the trail of a discovery.

Her easy life here had seemed tasteless after the risks of St. Hubert, and in his contempt for ease and rewards she found exhilaration.

He came now and then to tea, to dinner; he learned the ways of her house, her servants, the more nearly intelligent of her friends. He liked—and possibly he was liked by—some of them. With one friend of hers Martin had a state of undeclared war. This was Latham Ireland, an achingly well-dressed man of 50, a competent lawyer, who was fond of standing in front of fireplaces and being quietly clever. He fascinated Joyce by telling her that she was subtle, then telling her what she was being subtle about.

Martin hated him.

In midsummer Martin was invited for a week-end at Joyce's vast blossom-hid country house at Greenwich. She was half-apologetic for its luxury; he was altogether unhappy.

The strain of considering clothes, of galloping out to buy white trousers when he wanted to watch the test tubes in the constant-temperature bath, of trying to look easy in the limousine which met him at the station, and of deciding which servants to tip and how much and when, was dismaying to a simple man. He felt rustic when, after he had blurted, "Just a minute till I go up and unpack my suit case," she said gently, "Oh, that will have been done for you."

He discovered that a valet had laid out for him to put on, that first evening, all the small store of underclothes he had brought, and had squeezed out on his brush a ribbon of tooth paste.

He sat on the edge of his bed, groaning, "This is too rich for my blood!"

He hated and feared that valet, who kept stealing his clothes, putting them in places where they could not be found, then popping in menacingly when Martin was sneaking about the enormous room looking for them.

But his chief unhappiness was that there was nothing to do. He had no sport but tennis, at which he was too rusty to play with these chattering unidentified people who filled the house and, apparently with perfect willingness, worked at golf and bridge. He had met but few of the friends of whom they talked. They said, "You know dear old R. O.," and he said, "Oh, yes," but he never did know dear old R. O.

Joyce was as busily amiable as when they were alone at tea, and she found for him a weedy flapper whose tennis was worse than his own, but she had twenty guests—forty at Sunday lunch—and he gave up certain agreeable notions of walking with her in fresh lanes and, after excitedly saying this and that, perhaps kissing her. He had one moment with her. As he was going she ordered, "Come here, Martin," and led him apart.

"You haven't really enjoyed it."

"Why, sure, course I—"

"Of course, you haven't! And you despise us, rather, and perhaps you're partly right. I do like pretty people and gracious manners and good games, but I suppose they seem piffling after nights in a laboratory."

"No, I like 'em, too. In a way I like to look at beautiful women—at you! But— Oh, darn it, Joyce. I'm not up to it. I've always been poor, and horribly busy. I haven't learned your games."

"But, Martin, you could, with the intensity you put into everything."

"Even getting drunk in Blackwater!"

"And I hope in New York, too! Dear Roger, he did have such an innocent, satisfying time getting drunk at class-dinners! But I mean: if you went at it, you could play bridge and golf—and talking—better than any of them. If you only knew how frightfully recent most of the ducal class in America are! And Martin: wouldn't it be good for you? Wouldn't you work all the better if you got away from your logarithmic tables now and then? And are you going to admit there's anything you can't conquer?"

"No, I—"

"Will you come to dinner on Tuesday week, just us two, and we'll fight it out?"

"Be glad to."

For a number of hours, on the train to Terry Wickett's vacation place in the Vermont Hills, Martin was convinced that he loved Joyce Lanyon, and that he was going to attack the art of being amusing as he had attacked physical chemistry. Ardently, and quite humorlessly, as he sat stiffly in a stale Pullman chair car with his feet up on his suitcase, he pictured himself wearing a club-tie (presumably first acquiring the tie and the club,) playing golf in plus-fours, and being entertaining about dear old R. O. and incredibly witty about dear old Latham Ireland's aged Rolls-Royce.

But these ambitions he forgot as he came to Terry's proud proprietary shanty, by a lake among oaks and maples, and heard Terry's real theories of the decomposition of quinine derivatives.

Being perhaps the least sentimental of human beings, Terry had named his place "Birdies' Rest." He owned five acres of woodland, two miles from a railroad station. His shanty was a two-room affair of logs, with bunks for beds and oilcloth for table-linen.

"Here's the layout, Slim," said Terry. "Some day I'm going to figure out a way of making a lab here pay, by manufacturing sera or something, and I'll put up a couple more buildings on the flat by the lake, and have one absolutely independent place for science—two hours a day on the commercial end, and say about six for sleeping and a couple for feeding and telling dirty stories.

"That leaves—two and six and two make ten, if I'm any authority on higher math—that leaves fourteen hours a day for research (except when you got something special on,) with no director and no society patrons and no trustees that you've got to satisfy by making fool reports. Of course, there won't be any scientific dinners with ladies in candybox dresses, but I figure we'll be able to afford plenty of salt pork and corncob pipes, and your bed will be made perfectly—if you make it yourself. Huh? Lez go and have a swim."

Martin returned to New York with the not very compatible plans of being the best-dressed golfer in Greenwich and of cooking beef-stew with Terry at Birdies' Rest.

But the first of these was the more novel to him.

The next installment of this most absorbing novel—written by the author of "Main Street" and "Babbitt"—will appear in tomorrow's Times. Watch for it.

WYOMING OIL BLAZE CAUSES HEAVY LOSS

CASPER (Wyo.) July 8. (AP)—Approximately 100,000 barrels of crude oil had been destroyed when fires in two tanks of the Midwest Refining Company near Teapot Dome had burned themselves out last night. Officials of the company declined to make any estimate of the loss, but unofficial estimates placed it between $300,000 and $350,000. The fire started when one of the tanks was struck by lightning.

DEAN LECTURES ON CRIME CODE

Head of Harvard Addresses Public Affairs Class

Adds Comment on Evidence Old English Law

Teller Answers Questions on Proposed Change

The salient points of criminal jurisprudence were discussed yesterday by Dean Roscoe Pound of the Harvard Law School in Millspaugh Hall, University of California, Southern Branch, at a session of the Los Angeles Institute of Public Affairs.

Maj. Peyton K. Tuller, chairman of Gov. Richardson's commission for the revision of the code of criminal evidence, was in attendance, and answered questions concerning the governor's proposed changes in criminal law.

SOME FEATURES OLD

At the same time C. A. Dykstra, director of personnel and efficiency for the Department of Public Service, was conducting a conference on the organization of metropolitan areas.

Dean Pound explained that some of the features of this proposed changes in the system of commission, particularly that permitting comment on evidence by trial judges, was harking back to the old English common law, found by many of the States following the rise of Jeffersonian democracy.

Several criminal attorneys were present, and by their questions indicated that the proposals will meet with attack before the forthcoming legislature. In answer to their objections, Maj. Tuller said that the rights of the defendant were amply guarded, and the changes were in the interest of both State and accused.

OUTLINES PROPOSED LAW

Maj. Tuller outlined the following recommendations:

Waiving jury trial by again giving to trial judge the right to advise or not, but not direct, the jury; making three-quarter jury verdicts a felony cases; allowing the District Attorney the right to comment before the jury on defendant's refusal to take the stand; the right to waive jury trial in felony cases when defendant and both sides; reducing time of appeal in felony cases from sixty to thirty days; making commitment papers for felony, the District Attorney being allowed fifteen instead of only ten days to file his complaint.

Joinder of all counts against one defendant in the same complaint; commitment in insanity pleas so the felon may be placed in a hospital for the criminal insane instead of being relieved necessarily of notifying the District Attorney if the defense is to bring a claim of alimony; simplier form of indictment to avoid technicalities; holding of trials within sixty days of commitment, with provisions on continuances; the trial court to conduct trials rather than act simply as arbitrator; same number of peremptory challenges for both sides of the defense; no reversal if the error involves a minor instruction; no change of venue except by Appellate Court; filing of notice of appeal within ten days, hearing of appeals within thirty days after appeal is filed; changing of all prior convictions instead of only two as at present; alternative sentence for minor crimes.

FOREIGN HEADS PAPER

The Metropolitan conference was addressed by Hugh Pomeroy, director of the Regional Planning Commission; City Health Officer Parrish and County Auditor Payne. Mr. Pomeroy stated that some means of consolidating contiguous municipalities in congested regions must be found in the interests of efficient government. He explained the difficulty of bringing through extensive public improvements when the course of that improvement runs through several county townships.

Dr. Parrish read from a paper he had prepared in the interest of doing away with overlapping agencies for public health and charity. He proposed a single unit in the metropolitan area, divided into districts, and with one head.

Mr. Payne's theme was concerned with the great waste of public funds through having numerous small governmental bodies.

UNION PLOT IN CITY HALL WORK SEEN

Board of Public Works Said to Look Favorably on Anti-open-Shop Plan

Efforts of union agents to line up a majority of Board of Public Works members to prevent the large heating, ventilating and plumbing contracts in the new City Hall from being given to an open-shop contractor were reported encouraging in labor circles last night, it was stated.

The board has been deliberating over the situation for more than a week and union agents hope to have all bids thrown out, possibly on some technicality, or that in a new bidding for the contracts a union contractor may procure the contracts, which will amount to about $300,-

Following out an alternate bid [illegible] of which is now the subject of some private inquiry, the board already awarded the general contract on the City Hall to a firm [illegible] was higher than that.

TODAY'S BIBLE TEXT

"O Lord, thou art our Father; we are the clay, and thou our potter; and we all are the work of thy hand." Isaiah lxiv, 8.

THE GREAT PAVING MYSTERY

In yesterday's Times was related the manner in which the Harbor Department management created a totally unnecessary and, from an engineering standpoint, inadvisable $60,000 job of paving Badger avenue on Terminal Island, and gave this plum to its favorite contractor, Emil Cykler. Cykler's figure on the job was 15 cents a square foot, whereas his bid on another job of Terminal Island paving, more difficult though of the same thickness, and undertaken at the same time, was 10 cents a foot. However, as has been explained, it was necessary for Cykler to build a special plant near by for laying the paving—the costly patented product known as Warrenite, manufactured by Cykler's ally in many other deals, the Warren Construction Company.

The Badger-avenue job was in effect an outright donation by the Harbor Department to the Cykler-Warrenite combination—a donation which will cost the public more than $60,000. What connection, if any, there is between this donation and Cykler's purpose to corner future harbor paving jobs for himself and his ally by killing off competition, is for students of the evidence to decide. The facts are that Cykler took the first Terminal Island paving job at a figure much lower than any other contractor would offer—10 cents a foot—and that immediately thereafter he was given the Badger-avenue work at a 50 per cent increase and that that increase would net him on the whole job approximately the amount necessary to build his paving plant on the island, thereby enabling him to underbid on future jobs other contractors who do not have such a plant at hand. Further, the Badger-avenue work is one of continuous paving, where the wharf and fire-station job is made up of small pieces and consequently more difficult and expensive. If anything, the figure on Badger avenue should have been 10 cents a foot and the higher price on the other.

But none of this explains why the Badger-avenue specifications were made to call for paving 500,000 feet when the Harbor Department's own surveys show a total area of the road of 396,000 square feet.

This was no unintentional error. The tracing from which were made the blue prints that were attached to the specifications has been altered by the erasure of the original legend, which read:

"Approx. quantities: 2 inches Warrenite Bitulithic resurfacing. 396,000 square feet. Asphaltic concrete binder (base repairing) 200 tons." Below appears under date of April 30, 1926, the legend: "Drawn A. L. Checked P. A. H. Inspected A. L." and then the signatures "E. C. Earle, Assistant Harbor Engineer; R. P. Hovey, Chief Draughtsman" and the words "Approved by D. R. Coover, Superintendent of Construction; J. H. Cruger, Chief Inspector." (See drawing herewith.)

This legend tells its own story. The original specifications were drawn up April 29-30, FIVE DAYS BEFORE A LETTER SIGNED WITH THE NAME OF CHIEF ENGINEER NICHOLSON ASKED THE HARBOR BOARD FOR PERMISSION TO HAVE MADE THE "URGENTLY NEEDED REPAIRS" ON BADGER AVENUE, which did not and does not need repairing. These specifications, checked and re-checked, cross-checked, inspected and approved by no less than six department experts, called for 396,000 square feet of paving to cover Badger avenue from end to end and from side to side, that being the road's total area. When the specifications were finally finished, this 396,000 square feet has been rubbed out from the tracing—the blue prints showing the attempted alterations—and the description reads 500,000 square feet. This is an increase of 104,000 square feet over the original specifications and, if this 104,000 square feet should be paid for on the basis of Cykler's bid of 15 cents a foot, the job would cost the public $75,000 instead of $59,400. Considering that Badger avenue does not need paving and should not be paved for another three years anyway, being on a fill which will not be settled for that period, the taxpayers might consider that the lower figure was bad enough.

Now there was nothing illegal about making this change in the specifications. To allow for undetermined factors in public jobs and for errors of various kinds, the law permits changes in original estimates of 35 per cent in either direction without calling for new bids. That is, a contractor is supposed to be paid for exactly what work he does at the rate his contract sets out and the total amount may vary one-third more or less from the estimated amount bid on. In the present case there does not seem to have been any need for allowing so large a margin for error but it was legal enough.

The remarkable thing lies in the discrepancies between the official explanations of the alteration in the specifications as originally drawn.

Harbor Engineer Nicholson, whose name was signed to the request for permission to have the paving done, says he knows nothing about it. He was in Washington at the time. The use of his name on official documents was merely a matter of routine.

In his absence Assistant Harbor Engineer Earle was in charge. Mr. Earle says he discussed the matter with President Allen of the Harbor Board and that Mr. Nicholson knew about the job, as he and Earle had talked it over. Mr. Earle says further that he prepared the specifications and that the extra 104,000 square feet of paving WAS FOR WIDENING THE ROAD.

President Allen says he knew nothing about the job and did not discuss it with Mr. Earle except to tell him to go ahead and have the work done if it was needed. HE SAYS EMPHATICALLY THAT IT IS NOT AND NEVER HAS BEEN THE INTENTION OF THE DEPARTMENT TO WIDEN THE ROAD. He says there was no connection between this job and any other Warrenite job on the island; that Cykler's bid was the lowest and that he got the job; that Cykler will be paid for what paving he puts down and no more; that he, Allen, never gave anybody any specifications or ordered any changed.

The other Harbor Commissioners say they knew nothing about the job and the inspectors and draftsmen who worked on the specifications naturally decline to talk about it.

So it comes down to this: The acting Harbor Engineer says Badger avenue was to be widened and that 104,000 square feet of Warrenite paving was added to the contract to take care of it. The president of the board says it was not to be widened and, inferentially, that there was no reason for adding the 104,000 square feet.

Now 104,000 square feet put into a widening job would tack about four feet on each side of Badger avenue for its entire length. But each side of Badger avenue is ordinary, plain beach sand and to lay two inches of asphalted surface on sand would do a heavy-trucking highway about as much good as so much wet paper. It is true that Cykler's contract calls for 200 tons of rock binder. Assuming that this handful—relatively speaking—of rock was intended to make a base for the new shoulders for the road, which the specifications show it was not, there would be enough of it to do only about one block of the two and a quarter miles of paving to be done.

The explanation appears to lack something of adequacy.

The real joke of the joker is yet to come.

PRO-DRYS HELD BEST AS AGENTS

Baptist Young People Told Way to Enforce Law

Plea Made at Convention for Service to Christ

Open Forums Conducted at Yesterday's Session

The Eighteenth Amendment can be enforced if those in favor of the law are put in as enforcers, declared Judge Scott of this city yesterday in an address to the Baptist Young People's Union, which is conducting its thirty-fifth annual convention at the First Methodist Church. Judge Scott made an appeal for more playgrounds and community centers to compete with commercialized amusement for young people, and commented caustically on billboard advertising, which he said was "unspeakably rotten" in some cases.

President John F. Singleton of Chicago, opened the day's session with an address in which he challenged the youth of today to enter the service of Christ. He was followed by Dr. W. H. Bogler, who talked along similar lines. Dr. Theodore Adams of Chicago, vice-president, presided. Dr. E. A. Hanley of Berkeley, gave a talk on "Christ and This Generation" at the morning session.

FOUR OPEN FORUMS

Among the features of the day were the four open forums on social problems and ten-methods conferences in the afternoon. The forums were: "Law Obedience and Enforcement," by Judge Scott of Los Angeles; "Peace and International Relationships," by Rev. W. W. Van Kirk; Industrial Delations," by Rev. E. P. Dennett, and "Racial Relations" by Rev. E. R. Brown.

Judge Scott said uniformity of sentences for bootleggers would halt a lot of their activities. He also declared that a good deal of delinquency among the young people was caused primarily by home conditions. He said young people of today do not find their homes interesting in many cases.

"We must study our home conditions and then start our character building," the jurist said. "Unless you have an intelligent father and mother in the home, you are going to have delinquency."

Judge Scott said that where there are adequate recreation facilities delinquency is on the decrease.

AGAINST WAR

In a talk on "International Relationships," led by Rev. W. W. Van Kirk, who is a world traveler, he said he had made a study of young people's attitude on war and found they were against it. Dr. Van Kirk said that most of the young people of today had reached the conclusion that wars were caused mostly by politicians. He criticised England and France for making preparations for more wars. A number of the delegates who attended this talk disagreed with the speaker. He also said this country has got to broaden its views on Germany.

"We must forgive and forget," he said.

During another point in his discussion Dr. Van Kirk said that during his travels he met the head of a Chinese missionary body at a conference in Stockholm, who informed him that the Christian and his missionary had brought more trouble than good in China. A number of the delegates argued that this was not so.

The forums will be continued throughout today's session.

Dr. W. S. Abernethy delivered an address at the evening session. He used as his topic, "The Knight Errant."

The convention will close Sunday evening with a meeting in Shrine Auditorium. The Keynote of the anniversary is "Adventure for Christ."

LATE STATE ENGINEER LEAVES WIFE $21,500

SACRAMENTO, July 8. (AP)—State Engineer Wilbur F. McClure, who died June 22 of a heart attack while on a tour of inspection at Sly Park, El Dorado county, left an estate valued at approximately $21,500 and bequeathed it to his widow and one daughter under the terms of his will, which was filed for probate in the Superior Court today.

NEW REPORT ENTERED IN ARROYO ROW

City Engineer Shaw Finds Out Gravel Company Never Had Obtained Permit

City Engineer Shaw yesterday entered the cast of principals in the city's ten-year dramatic battle to oust the Los Angeles Rock and Gravel Company from the Arroyo Seco, and filed the one hundred-thousandth report on the subject with the Board of Public Works and the City Council.

The City Engineer reported that he had discovered that the rock company had obtained no permit from the city government to authorize its present excavations in the Arroyo. The company's answer to this is that the excavations were made in accordance with a fourteen-year-old agreement with the city.

The seriousness of the situation resulting from the excavations was pointed out in the City Engineer's report in which he declared that several thousand dollars must be spent by the city in the future to repair damages, to flood-protection walls in the Arroyo because of the excavations below the bottoms of the dalls. He also declared that the safety of the Avenue 43 bridge, which is an expensive reinforced concrete arch structure, is now in doubt, due to the rock company's excavations.

The Board of Public Works urged that the Council refer the City Engineer's report to the City Attorney "to take such action as is necessary to protect the rights of the city."

NUMEROUS glances went awry and vast optical havoc was wrecked in the Courthouse yesterday, when there appeared before the desk in the marriage license bureau one Bernard Turpin and Miss Babette Dietz, seeking the benison of the State on a few nuptials they proposed to celebrate a little later in the day.

For Bernard Turpin turned out to bee none other than Ben Turpin, the man who made cross-eyes a gainful occupation.

The word flashed about the Courthouse and immediately all the reporters in the building hurried down to the marriage license bureau.

"Say, are you Ben Turpin?" demanded the first to reach the scene. The man standing at the desk looked squarely into the eye of a traffic cop at the corner of Temple and Broadway, west by northwest, and replied:

"No, I am Douglas Fairbanks."

None of the reporters was to be deceived by any such subterfuge as that, however. They pointed out that Douglas Fairbanks had a mustache and that he is married anyway, and being thus cornered the applicant admitted he was Ben Turpin.

"Yes, and I may as well add that we are going to be married. That is what we are getting this license for," he explained.

A smile of satisfaction illuminated his face.

"How did all those folks there find out about us?" he inquired, glancing at the list of ministers and justices of the peace which is nailed to the wall of the marriage license office for the guidance of matrimonial prospects.

The reporters didn't pay any attention to the list of ministers though. Instead they craftily watched Mr. Turpin's arm, which gestured toward the window. Outside there was a mob in the street.

"They came down to see Aimee

M'NIDER WILL PAY VISIT HERE

Assistant War Secretary Arrives Tomorrow

Trip in Connection With Government Duties

Hanford MacNider, Assistant Secretary of War, known as the Army's "business man," will make a short visit to Los Angeles tomorrow. He will arrive on the Southern Pacific from San Francisco at 9:30 a.m. and will leave at 5:15 p.m., for the East.

His trip here is strictly on business. Ther will be no social functions or receptions. There will be a 12 o'clock luncheon for him at the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, however. To this affair have been invited certain business men, including bankers, manufacturers, etc.

Col. James M. Hutchinson, Q.M.C., U.S.A., the army officer in charge of the Fourteenth Procurement District, embracing the three Coast States and Nevada and Utah, will be the chief among Assistant Secretary MacNider's hosts. Col. Hutchinson pointed out today that Col. MacNider's trip over the country is in line with the duties charged to him under the National Defense Act.

"In accordance with Section 5a of the National Defense Act," Col. Hutchinson said today, "the Assistant Secretary of War, under the direction of the Secretary of War, 'shall be charged with supervision of the procurement of all military supplies and other business pertaining thereto and the assurance of adequate provision for the mobilization of material and industrial organization essential to war-time needs.'"

Although tomorrow's luncheon is to be confined chiefly to the business of war-time preparedness and discussions with the business leaders of Los Angeles and Southern California, the American Legion and the Los Angeles branch of the Second Division Association, of which Col. MacNider is the national president, will be represented. Col. MacNider is also a past national commander of the American Legion.

B. J. Barnett, president of the Los Angeles branch of the Second Division Association, two of whom will deliver five-minute addresses. John R. Quinn, also a former national commander of the American Legion, is chairman of a committee appointed by the County Council of the American Legion to greet Assistant Secretary MacNider and represent the local Legion posts, among others, at the luncheon. The other committee members are Harry E. Insley, Russell M. MacLennan and Mr. Barnett.

MacNIDER TO VISIT DEL MONTE CAMP

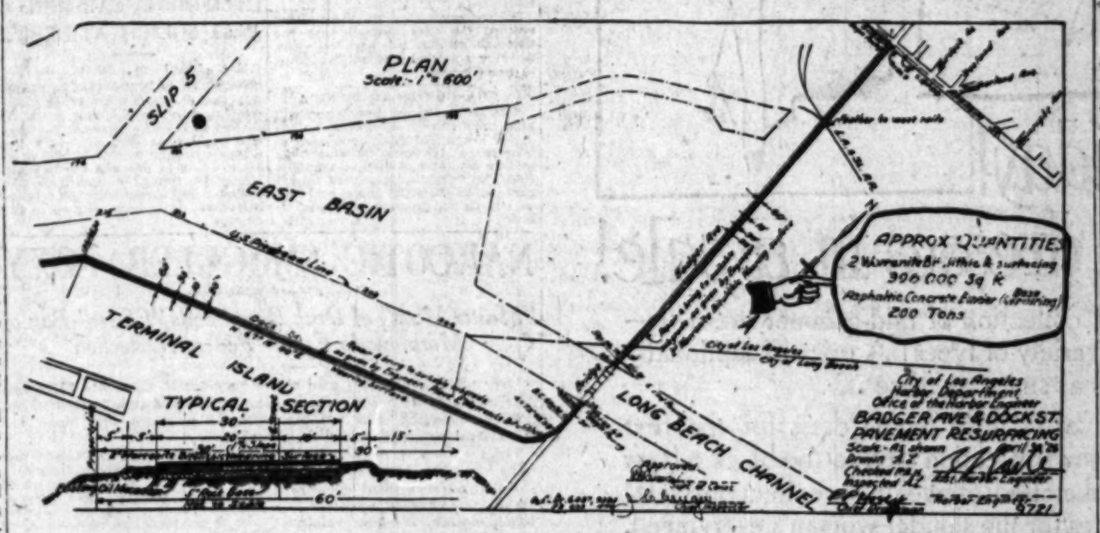
DEL MONTE, July 8. (AP)—Hanford MacNider, assistant Secretary of War, will visit the citizen's military training camp of 1100 young men here tomorrow. He will arrive by airplane from Crissy Field, San Francisco, and will be welcomed by a formal salute of fifteen guns. From here MacNider will go to Los Angeles.

Restriction on Chamber Name Use Discussed

Discussion of what has been termed a confusing situation the adopting of the name Chamber of Commerce by small improvement organizations, yesterday at a luncheon meeting of the directors of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and representatives of the newspapers of the city, marked the first steps to retain the name exclusively for the central body of the city.

Committees of the central body and recently organized Wilshire District Chamber of Commerce will meet next week with a view to renaming the Wilshire body, which is a group within the central chamber, according to President Bent of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, who stated the practice is confusing to the public.

Engineer's Drawing of Badger-avenue Paving Work With Altered Portion Restored.



This is a facsimile of the original drawing from which were made blue prints to accompany the Badger-avenue paving specificatons. Note that it was checked, re-checked, inspected and approved by six department experts. The blue prints show that the part of the map inclosed in heavy black line and indicated by the pointing hand (line and hand added by The Times) had been erased, so that the legend is very faint on the blue prints. This was done so that the map would not contradict the written specifications which provided for 500,000 square feet of paving instead of 396,000, as the map originally showed. In reproducing the map The Times has restored the erased lines to make them legible.

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

THE sympathetic furore over the discarded police horses . . .

It is a pleasant incident—this little crusade of tender-heartedness. But, after all, what are we to assume would happen to the horses if not "saved" by popular subscription? That they would be purchased by a mean man who wanted to starve them to death or feed them to the lions?

They are tip-top horses; and would probably fall into good hands. As horses usually do. In these days, nobody buys a horse unless he likes horses.

Most horses are treated better than most people; and deserve it so.

NO HOPE!

Always a fly in the ointment. John D. Rockefeller's birthday holds out to us the hope that when we are 89, we may have a billion dollars. But another line in the pleasant newspaper dispatch indicates that, even with a billion, we will still have to have a telephone in the house. There's no getting away from the darn things.

BEATING SCHOOL CHILDREN

Mr. John J. Tigert's remarks sound like a radio message from the Dark Ages.

Mr. Tigert is the United States Commissioner of Education. He ascribes the "flabbiness of modern living" to the fact that the hickory stick has vanished from the school-teacher's desk.

All you can say in answer to the estimable and austere Tigert is to request that he examine which century he is living in; and to come on in.

When you have crushed the pride of any child down to the point where he can endure a public beating without a broken heart, he has lost everything that makes for honor and high principles. On the whole, you might as well kill him as lick him.

SHOWMANSHIP

What is needed in the hearts of young people is more pride; not less.

No child who is truly interested is ever incorrigible. A naughty, inattentive child is a teacher's failure—the failure to present school subjects with proper showmanship—in a striking and dramatic way.

Pounding them with clubs will not decrease their boredom.

COL. STORY'S PROMOTION

The promotion of Col. Walter Story to brigadier-general of the National Guard is well deserved.

He took hold of the One Hundred and Sixtieth Regiment after the World War when everybody was fed up on soldiering; disillusioned and disgusted. Nobody ever tackled a more utterly disheartening task.

With unfaltering enthusiasm, he pulled up the organization until it is now recognized as one of the finest military organizations in the West.

DURKIN'S DEFENSE

The defense of Martin Durkin, the murderous gunman, suggests the case of the Irishman charged with killing. He offered the court to bring in 100 witnesses who did not see him. If the court fails to send this wretch to the gallows, it will be a discouraging circumstance. If a jury lets him go, we might as well open the jail doors and hand each crook a gun as he goes out.

HEALTH OFFICERS ASKED

Health Officer Parrish has asked the City Council for additional employees to provide health inspection service in the recently annexed districts of Watts, Bell, Sunland, Green Meadows and Buckler.

TELLER HELD ON FRAUD CHARGES

Shortage Estimated at Near Six Thousand

Asserted Confession Signed Before Officers

Jailed on Failure to Give $10,000 Bond

Charged with embezzling from the Merchants' National Bank an amount estimated at $6000, J. B. McCarthy, a teller seven years in the employ of the bank, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Head yesterday, waived examination and was held to the United States grand jury. Bond was set at $10,000, which he was unable to furnish.

McCarthy was arrested on a commissioner's complaint signed by Thomas M. Williams, national bank examiner. According to Assistant United States Attorney Chamnasian, Williams said a further check may reveal a shortage in excess of the amount stated.

SIGNS CONFESSION

Chamnasian said McCarthy signed a confession reading as follows:

"I, J. B. McCarthy, of my own free will and accord and not under any menace, duress, undue influence or threat of any kind, and without any offer or promise of immunity, do hereby make the following confession:

"While working as teller for the Merchants' National Bank at its main office in Los Angeles, I appropriated to my own use money belonging to the bank in a total sum of approximately $6000 during the period from about May, 1925, down to date. This shortage was accomplished by taking money deposited, withholding credit on the deposit from the customer's account for a few days and then taking money from other deposits and crediting it to the original account.

REFUSES ADDRESS

"All of the money taken was the property of the bank and none of it belongs to me, and none of it has been repaid to the bank."

It was said the asserted confession was witnessed by George W. Fay, comptroller of the bank, and R. H. Fulton, E. C. Sinclair and Clarence B. Rinkle, also connected with the institution. McCarthy, it was said, was held under guard in a director's room yesterday afternoon until arrested by Deputy United States Marshal Finn on the commissioner's complaint.

McCarthy declined to give his address at the hearing. He is about 40 years of age and unmarried.

IT'S CASE OF GIVE, NOT GET, GOAT

Donor Aids Families Needing Milk

Victoria Peres and Some of Gifts

"GETTING your goat" left the realms of proverbial sayings yesterday at the Goodwill Industries, a benevolent and charitable institution at 942 North Main street, with receipt at the organization's headquarters of the first half of a consignment of thirty-six honest-to-goodness females of the species for distribution among the needy families of the city.

The eighteen goats were donated to the organization by a goat-farm operator as a part of his yearly contribution to charity. Nine were given homes almost immediately upon arrival of the shipment and the remaining nine were disposed of during the day. A similar number is due to arrive at the headquarters today. The donor, whose name organization officers and workers declined to divulge, furnished fifty goats for distribution in the city last year.

The goats are given to families in poor or nearly destitute circumstances, principally those that come to the attention of the workers through application for employment through the organization. The gifts are made chiefly to widows and to families where there are children, where a goodly supply of milk is needed daily. Workers reported they have investigated cases where fifty or sixty more goats could be placed where there is a need for a supply of milk daily. The donations are distributed under the supervision of Frederick H. Blair, superintendent.

The Goodwill Industries is a non-profit organization supported by contributions, donations and the Community Chest and operates six stores for the sale of renovated clothing and furniture at low cost.

BEN TURPIN TAKES BRIDE

Semple McPherson," the reporters suggested.

"Oh," replied Mr. Turpin. "Well, I guess she's pretty well known, too."

And thereupon he grasped the arm of his fiancee.

"Come on, dear. We've a lot to attend to," he urged her, gazing fondly the while into the eyes of Miss Madeline Furlong, who had just issued the license.

Miss Dietz gave her age as 29 years and her address as 1294 South Norton, and Turpin admitted to 37 years and said he lives at 602 Canon Drive, Beverly Hills.

After obtaining the license, Turpin and Miss Dietz, who first met a year ago when the crom-eyed actor was a patient in the Cottage Hospital at Santa Barbara where Miss Dietz was employed, drove to the Church of the Good Shepherd in Beverly Hills where they were married by Father Michael Mullins.

Andy Clyde, who has appeared with Turpin in numerous Mack Sennett comedies, acted as best man, and Miss Marie C. Schumaker atended Miss Dietz as bridesmaid.

Turpin presented his bride with a diamond and platinum bracelet as a wedding gift, and announced after the knot was tied that he and Mrs. Turpin would leave on the Lark for San Francisco and from there motor through the Yosemite on a honeymoon of three weeks. On their return they will live at 602 Canon Drive, Beverly Hills.

Offer to Marry Denied in Breach of Promise Suit

Denying he ever promised to marry Lillian M. Byers, who named him as the father of her two children, Ilia A. Maloof yesterday filed an answer to the suit for $50,000 damages for asserted breach of promise brought against him by Miss Byers.

In her complaint Miss Byers asserted Maloof induced her to come here from Pennsylvania under promise of marriage and she stated she lived with him as his wife in the belief they would be married. A few weeks before her second child was born, Miss Byers charged, Maloof told her he would no longer live with her as he had found someone else "he liked better."

In his answer Maloof stated he had told Miss Byers many times he would not live with her and he declared they parted several times prior to the final separation.

A court action regarding the custody of Miss Byers's two children is now pending before Judge Keeler.

Studio Doctor Leaves Jail in Film Girl Case

Walter R. Anderson, former Hollywood studio physician, accused of a statutory offense by Gloria Delmar, 18-year-old film extra, was released from the County Jail yesterday on his own recognizance, when a motion to that effect by his attorney, Bart F. Wade, was granted by Municipal Judge Ambrose.

Anderson's hearing will be resumed on the 22nd inst. Miss Delmar accuses him of entering her apartment and attacking her after offering liquor to her and a young woman friend.

Woman Victor in Fight to Get Garbage Taken

Mrs. Olive D. Bateman wins!

Her house at 1160 West Second street in the harbor district is partly in the city and partly in the county, and for that reason, she told the City Council, the garbage collectors neglected to collect the Bateman garbage.

She was persistent. She was untiring. That neglected Bateman garbage pail must be emptied regularly by the city garbage collectors, she said.

So yesterday City Engineer Shaw notified the City Council that the Bateman garbage has been collected, is being collected and will continue to be collected.

ORANGE MEN TO PICNIC

The Loyal Orange Association will hold their annual celebration at Redondo Beach, Saturday, procession to leave hall at 111 South Catalina street at 1:30 p.m. and proceed to Diamond street, to Pacific avenue then to city park, where speaking, games and music will be the program for the afternoon.

HOLLYWOOD SANS POWER IN ACCIDENT

Electric Lines Entangled by Steam Shovel Result in Short-Circuiting

When a steam shovel belonging to Will Peck, storm-drain contractor, yesterday morning got itself entangled with a guy wire on one of the Municipal Power Bureau's high-voltage line poles at the intersection of Bronson avenue and Clinton street, it succeeded in causing a short circuit which interrupted all electric light and power service for almost two hours in certain sections of Hollywood.

The steam shovel, it was reported, was being employed by Peck, a private contractor, on the Sacatela storm drain. Its action in jerking loose a guy wire on a pole supporting high-voltage lines caused such a terrific clash of electricity that distributing lines and small power stations for dozens of blocks around were burned out and crippled.

Emergency trouble crews of the Power Bureau worked at top speed for two hours before electric service on the damaged lines could be restored.

STEP TAKEN ON WIDENING OF FLOWER

Condemnation Proceedings Started to Make Street Through Artery

Condemnation proceedings for the widening of Flower street from Eighth street to Washington Boulevard were started in Superior Court yesterday by the city.

The step is in line with the city's plan to extend Flower street through Washington to a junction with Figueroa and Thirty-eighth streets, a project, which when completed will make Flower street one of the principal business thoroughfares of the city. Court action already has been taken on the suit to condemn property for the proposed extension of the street and it is expected work on the project will soon get under way.

In the suit started yesterday it is the plan of the city to acquire the property necessary to permit a widening of the present street for several feet on each side of the present limits of the artery.

RESERVISTS TAKE CRUISE TO CATALINA

Destroyer Hazlewood to be Manned by 100 Men From San Francisco Area

Manned by 100 officers and men of the naval reserve from the San Francisco area, the United States destroyer Hazelwood arrived at Catalina yesterday in command of Lieutenant-Commander R. H. Wakeman. The cruise is the first of three which reservists will make on the Hazelwood as part of the 1926 training program.

The destroyer left San Francisco last Saturday afternoon. On the evening of the second day out a large vessel, her navigation lights aglow, was sighted steaming across the Hazelwood's course toward the mainland. Soon afterward the lights on the strange craft were doused and she vanished in the darkness. Officers of the Hazelwood believe the vessel was a rum-runner which fled after mistaking the destroyer for a Federal prohibition craft.

Short cruises, boat, gun and signal drills will be participated in by the reservists during their week's stay in Catalina waters.

ROAD COMPLETE SOON

Ventura Stretch To Be Widened by First of August

The widening of the coast route between Camarillo and Ventura from fifteen to twenty feet will be completed August 1, next, State Highway Engineer Morgan announced here yesterday.

When the contract is completed, according to Morgan, the entire State highway between Hollywood and Ventura will be of uniform width.

Similar improvements on the highway between Ventura and Santa Barbara will be commenced soon and it is expected they will be completed before the close of the year, he said.

CALIFORNIA CAB MEN MAY SOLICIT AT DEPOT

The Board of Public Utilities changed its rules yesterday to permit solicitors of the California Cab Company to stand in line with other solicitors at railroad depots. The original regulations permitted only five independent and five Yellow cab drivers to stand in line and solicit trade. Under this ruling, the California Cab Company was barred from solicitation. Strenuous complaints resulted in the change.

NARCOTIC SMUGGLER FOXY

"Master Mind" of Drug Ring Sends "Feeler" Bag of Morphine to Escape Federal Detection

For hours, a heavy-set man waited yesterday in the Santa Fe station near the check room and then, with an air of resignation, picked up an innocent appearing black handbag commonly associated with kindly old ladies from the country and walked away.

The man was A. M. Munroy, famous the West over as the Federal narcotic bureau's most unrelenting officer; the handbag contained sixteen ounces of morphine valued at hundreds of dollars.

The failure of a caller to appear for the bag had resulted in the escape of one of the most desperate narcotic smugglers in the United States who, according to Federal officers, had defied capture for a year and who apparently had sent the bag to Los Angeles as a feeler for a shipment of drugs from the Orient that is estimated to be worth $500,000.

Government operatives obtained information from Chinese agencies two months ago that the shipment was being made in readiness and that it would be shipped to Los Angeles via San Francisco. First, however, the trustworthiness of a new aide to the "master mind" was to be tested by prearrangement in Peking.

The drugs were locked in the narcotic bureau's vaults and will be held as evidence should the higher-ups in the smuggling plot ever fall into the toils of the law.

FIRE BURNS BODY WORKS AND AUTOS

Flames of Undetermined Origin Cause $25,000 Loss to Large Plant

Fire of undetermined origin last night destroyed the one-story building of the Advance Auto Body Works at 434 Mission Road, together with ten trucks and three touring cars, the loss being estimated at $25,000. The owners of the body works could not be learned.

The fire then jumped to 714 Macy street, where it caused nominal damage to a one-story frame house owned by M. Carillo and occupied by J. Marques.

of the lowest primary bidder, avowedly an open-shop contractor.

The bids for the heating and ventilating contract and for the plumbing contract were opened at the same time as the general contract bids but the board has as yet taken no action.

An open-shop company was the lowest regular bidder on the heating and ventilating contract. It was within about $200 of being lower than the lowest bidder for the plumbing contract, the lowest bidder being a San Francisco company, reported here as a union company.

Union agents are reported to be in a quandary over the lowest bid of the open-shop and the fact that the nearest competitor on the other job is an out-of-town man and hope to see all bids rejected and a new start given them.

Engineer Tells Tendencies of Traffic in City

"Traffic Tendencies in Large Cities," was the subject of an address by Henry Z. Osborne before the Joint Technical Society at its regular luncheon in the tea room of the Broadway Department Store yesterday.

The speaker traced the development of present day traffic regulations and pointed out the logical outcome of street congestion and its control in the future.

The advantages and disadvantages of sub business centers and the methods employed in large cities to secure the maximum amount of street area and the maximum use of existing street facilities were outlined as the basis for future traffic development along economic lines.

MAIL VOTE RETURNS

Officers Chosen by Institute of Electrical Engineers

Results of a recent mail election of the Los Angeles section, American Institute of Electrical Engineers, were announced yesterday. Ralph R. Cunningham of Parnham and Cunningham was named chairman, Leroy C. Williams, district manager Pacific Electric Manufacturing Company, was elected secretary, Harry L. Caldwell of the Bureau of Power and Light, assistant secretary, and Julian Adams of the Pacific Electric Railway, Prof. F. S. Biegler of U.S.C., J. C. E. M. Fritts, former motorcycle policeman at Linwood, was charged with accepting a bribe in an indictment returned yesterday by the county grand jury. On June 7, last, according to Theodore Houseman, he gave Fritts $10 to fix a tag for a traffic violation. Judge Koetch fixed Fritts's bail at $2000, which was furnished.

CHILD-STEALING CASE DISMISSED

Charges of child-stealing brought against Mrs. Maud Lucille Stockwell of El Centro by her husband, Dell Stockwell of Venice, were dismissed by Municipal Judge Ballard yesterday on motion of Dep. ATTORNEY TRIED IN EMBEZZLEMENT CASE

Trial of Louis J. Kleindienst, an attorney, on an embezzlement charge, was begun yesterday before Judge Burnell. A jury was selected and testimony will begin today. Kleindienst is charged by Charles P. Lowy, a client, with collecting $7804 from the Standard Oil Company for oil royalties, and of notifying him that a number of suits had been filed against Lowy and the money tied up. The prosecution contends that the suits were not bona fide, but Kleindienst says they were and denies he converted Lowy's money to his own use.

Youth Gives Vivid Story of Escape in Tragedy

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, July 8.—Though the severity of her injuries finally necessitated the amputation of her left foot, Mrs. Edith I. Bennett, wealthy widow who was injured in the explosion of the yacht Una-C in Avalon Bay Sunday evening, was reported to be resting comfortably in the Pasadena Hospital this afternoon, and is expected to recover.

Mrs. Bennett, who was brought to Pasadena early this week, is under the care of Dr. Fitch C. E. Mattison of this city, who stated today that her left foot was so badly fractured that it was impossible to save it. Mrs. Bennett, who lives at 457 South Madison avenue, is also being treated at the hospital for first-degree burns about the face and neck, forearms and legs.

Funeral services for Mrs. E. D. Tyler, who was killed in the explosion, will be conducted Saturday at 2:30 p.m. in All Saints' Episcopal Church. Rev. Dr. Leslie E. Learned, rector of the church, will conduct the services, to be followed by private interment in charge of Ives & Warne.

Trent Houghton, son of Mrs. E. N. Houghton of 56 North Hill avenue, the only member of the party aboard the Chaffee yacht who escaped uninjured, told a vivid story of the tragedy today on his return from Catalina Island. He had gone to the island to celebrate the holiday with his chum, Roland Tyler, whose mother was killed in the blast, and was on the yacht only through chance.

All of the women in the party were sitting in the stern of the boat, directly over the gasoline tanks, Houghton said, when the explosion occurred. There was a roar, a huge sheet of flame shot up in front of him, Houghton declared, and the next thing he remembers was his making his way to the top of the wave. When he came up, he was the highest from the boat of any member of the party.

Gerome Cooper thought that perhaps fate was smiling on him when he was let out of jail the other day, but he left Judge Gates's court yesterday wondering.

"Forty-five dollars a month pending trial," were the parting words of the judge. Cooper had come to court in response to a demand by his wife, Helen Cooper, that he do something about supporting her, now that he was out of jail and his time was his own, so to speak.

"But can't pay any alimony. I just got out of jail and got a job as streetcar conductor. The company will fire me if they hear I am in any trouble," protested Cooper.

"But you won't be in any trouble if you pay your alimony, and if you don't no one here cares whether you have a job or not," Judge Gates retorted. "You can pay $45 a month for the support of your wife and children, and I'll warrant the street-car company won't take offense at that."

"Say, how long is this going to be on?" Cooper demanded. He protested at the information that it would probably go on for several months, at least, pending trial of Mrs. Cooper's suit for divorce.

He said he had served a jail sentence for a traffic offense.

NEW GOVERNMENT

If Canada loses both its King and its Byng it will seem like making a fresh start.

THE KICK COMING

So far as working the farm is concerned, the Missouri mule is holding his own in the Middle West against both the horse and the tractor. Maybe he is popular because there is a big kick in him.

LETTERS OF NOBILITY

A Silesian count is working as a bellboy in a Kansas City hotel. He says that he has to make a living and is willing to work for it. That is what makes him noble. A count like that may be of some 'count.

EARTH'S OLDEST CITY

The Circassian policemen put into Damascus by the French wear fur hats pulled down over their ears in spite of the fact that the mercury is at 100 in the shade. Maybe they figure that by wearing earmuffs they can't hear any of the disturbance going on.

ALL DOING IT

There are now over 2,000,000 different holders of stocks in the American railroads; demonstrating that the railways are really in the hands of the people. Even the newsboy on the corner may be a bondholder in these days of popular investments. He is at least a bank depositor and that is how the investment starts.

THE CHURCH ORGAN

In the Philippines there is a church organ built more than 110 years ago—the pipes being of bamboo. It still sounds sweetly and cheerily when the keyboard is fitly approached. Perhaps it is the oldest instrument of its kind in religious service under the American flag. In the New England of a century ago musical instruments in the church were rather frowned upon.

BEING ADVISED

A well-known writer says that the American people are getting altogether too much advice and instruction. The insinuation is that the average citizen is almost denied the chance of traveling under his own power. He is either told what he must do or shown how to do it. The fact remains that good advice is good advice. If the writer means that there is too much pestilential interference, that is another thing.

DAYS OF LONG AGO

Students of runic lore have discovered aged and battered inscriptions near Spokane that would go to prove that a battle between Norsemen and Indians took place at that locality a matter of 1000 years or more ago. It is conceded that the Norsemen were within gunshot of Boston about that time, but what business could they possibly have at Spokane and how could they get there without Zeppelins? No wonder the Indians chased them.

PUBLIC WORK

Over $4,000,000 worth of public improvements were completed in Los Angeles during the month of June, according to official reports. Of this a heavy percentage was for new pavements and it is eagerly hoped by motorists that they will not be torn up for a few weeks. The old idea of ripping up a pavement the day after it was laid grates on their nerves. Efficiency experts should be able to figure out some way by which a pavement could stay put for at least three months after its completion. Our pavements might be made of Swiss cheese, the way the workers go at them.

THE LAW'S DELAY

The dean of the Harvard law school says that the legal machinery of America was created more than 100 years ago and from materials that were also ancient. This machinery has broken down under modern conditions and it is very palpable that the administration of law has not kept pace with the advances in science or medicine. It is remarkable that the American people remain patient amid the crudities of legal performance. They endure procrastinations and stupidities in law that they would not for a moment countenance in the business affairs of the hour. If we are ever to catch up with ourselves a complete reversal of form will be necessary.

HELPING THE FARMER

The Department of Agriculture is reported to be making a survey of all the counties of the United States. The character of the soil and the nature and extent of various crops form the base of the inquiry, but facts are also assembled as to highways, transportation, marketing methods, climate and other factors in farm operation. It is disclosed that many farmers are raising crops for which their soil and situation are unsuited and are neglecting crops that might easily show a handsome profit. Instruction is given in the proper treatment of the land in any section in order to produce the best results. This is paternal government of the practical sort and shows that the administration is not neglectful of the farmer.

BUILD THE ROAD!

Venturesome motorists—those who do not mind a few bumps over dusty detours, a sand-strewn stretch of road or a few miles through mountain snows—make light of what they consider the trivial discomforts of the present overland highways. And, indeed, there are times and seasons in which such discomforts are easily borne. But more and more as the automobile comes into general use the element of comfort is one which the average motorist is prone to consider as much as anything while he is out on a long tour.

Without doubt if there were one long, completely paved road across the continent into Southern California there would be a great increase in travel by motor car from eastern cities to this coast. Eastern motorists who like to make long tours and who have Los Angeles in view as their objective are strongly insisting upon the idea that there should be such a road, and if the plan is presented in the right way no doubt a considerable proportion of the $175,000,000 recently appropriated by Congress for American roadways could be secured for that purpose.

There is a project afoot for the construction of a continuous paved highway down the Atlantic Coast, across the continent on a route far enough south so that the road never would be closed by snow and connecting at Los Angeles with the Pacific Coast Highway, now paved all the way to Vancouver. The effect of the completed project would be to girdle the continent on three sides with a fine modern roadway, making possible motor traffic back and forth across the United States in any month of the year.

It would be difficult to overestimate the value of such a continuous paved road, not only to Southern California, but to the whole country. It would result in thousands of people crossing the continent by automobile who now do not come at all. Thousands of attractive inns, auto camps and other stopping places would come into existence where few are to be found at present. Motorists who place comfort at a premium would be glad to undertake the trip from their eastern homes to Southern California and many of our own people here would motor East on their vacations. When the eastern people arrived here by this route they would have their cars in which to tour at a minimum of transportation expense and a maximum of satisfaction up and down the Coast.

California should give every possible aid to such an enterprise. The Southern California part of the highway is in shape that might easily be completed by the paving of the road east from Victorville to the Arizona line. Arizona has some mileage built. Texas and New Mexico are building paved roads. It would not take much of a drive to get a road built by a southern route with northward connections here and there to accommodate travel at all times of the year. In the winter time, when other roads are blocked with snow, we would have a road that would be an every-day invitation to people to travel over it, back and forth, into and out of Southern California.

This matter has been presented to the attention of the visiting editors. They could not aid the people of this country in a much better way than by their advocacy of the plan. It is not purely a selfish one on the part of Californians. There is a nation-wide movement in favor of such a southern highway. It was launched in the East and has been received with favor throughout the South, especially in Texas.

The Times wishes to go on record as indorsing the project and promising to aid it in every way practical.

BE FAIR TO THE DOGS

Whether there is a cause for the present newspaper-fomented "rabies scare" and whether the chaining of all the dogs within the far-flung borders of Los Angeles is a proper panacea are two knotty points which the City Council will have to decide in the next few days.

Vicious dogs, of course, are to be found in Southern California, as everywhere else. But in the city of Los Angeles what proportion do the dogs that bite bear to those that are innocent of this habit? We ought to at least know the percentage of the malefactors before condemning the innocent to suffer with the guilty.

Also the assumption that rabies is more prevalent in Los Angeles than it was six months ago seems to rest chiefly on the popular superstition that first named the "dog days." Rabies has as little to do with the weather as earthquakes. Sultry weather makes dogs cross and cranky, just as it does human beings; but we have an almost irreducible minimum of that kind of weather in Los Angeles.

Rounding up all stray and unlicensed canines suggests itself as a first measure to segregate the undesirables. Nothing so quickly impairs a dog's health and temper as to keep him continuously chained. It is an infallible recipe for producing a breed of savage and sick dogs.

While in the downtown and more closely built-up residential districts a number of dogs roaming at large, out of their owners' control, may become a nuisance that calls for abatement, Los Angeles city covers many acres of hills and waste lands where a free dog is not likely to bite anything more dangerous than a gopher or a ground squirrel.

These free dogs are almost without exception friendly and good-natured. After all, dogs are much like their masters—they respond to the treatment they receive. Only they respond more generously. It should be remembered that the incident which started the agitation for better regulation of dogs in Los Angeles was the biting of a child by a bull terrier on a chain. In consequence of which we have the startling cry—Chain up more dogs!

Some measure to emphasize the responsibility of the owner, both to the dog and to the public, seems the better remedy. Why put all the chains on the dogs? Will that keep the children from wanting to play with them?

All over the city valuable dogs and pets dear to little children are being poisoned by scores as a result of this antidog campaign. In few cases have the poisoners had any excuse.

THE PRINTED WORD

Every reporter at one time or another makes each of his friends mad. It is a penalty of the newspaper game. It is so easy to disgust people with the printed word. You can say something to your best friend and he will take it as a joke. You can state the same thing in print and he takes it as an insult. The most mysterious thing in the world is the printed word, as far as effect is concerned.—[Atchison Globe.

Uneasy Dreams

FILLING THE SOCK

When a corporation balances its books at the end of the fiscal year and shows a creditable balance on the right side of the ledger there is general rejoicing among shareholders and just commendation for the executives who have made the success possible. The United States government, the largest corporation of all, has just finished one of its greatest years with a surplus of the astonishing sum of more than $377,000,000. And this with lowered taxes!

To Andrew J. Mellon, who presides as general custodian of the people's funds and counsellor on all financial measures involving government-revenue measures and expenditures, must be given the approbation of an appreciative shareholding group—the citizens of the United States. Working in co-operation with that other silent saver, the President, he has made possible an almost unprecedented achievement in Federal finance.

Political wiseacres guffawed and party demagogues scoffed when the Mellon philosophy of lower taxes and increased revenue first was set forth as the wisest policy for the nation to pursue. Alarming notices of inevitable deficits, if not approximate bankruptcy, were broadcast by the pork-barrel minority. The cataclysm not only has failed to materialize, but an extremely fat surplus has appeared instead. Furthermore, an immense saving in interest charges will be effected by application of these additional funds to retirement of the public debt.

Going on the premise that alleviation of the Federal tax burden would heighten public confidence and stimulate trade through easier money, the Secretary of the Treasury amply has demonstrated the practical application of psychology to big business. Income taxes for the last year vastly exceeded those of the previous twelve months, as did customs receipts. Throughout the land businesses, both large and small, responded to the helpful attitude manifested by those in power and proceeded to expand, benefiting both themselves and as a consequence the national coffers.

It is an interesting sidelight to note that the expectations even of Secretary Mellon and his experts were exceeded by the actual results. Excess funds totaled more than three times as much as had been anticipated earlier in the year.

Further proof need hardly be adduced of the efficacy of the Republican mode of conducting a gigantic national enterprise along sane and economically sound principles.

The people pay—but they also benefit more fully when their tax money is turned into channels where it makes further payments less oppressive. American shareholders in the commonwealth should thank Calvin Coolidge and Andrew Mellon for this new proof of service on the highest plane.

Mr. Mellon knows how to fill the sock—without pinching the foot.

CEMETERY WEDDINGS

So many couples go there to get married that another chapel will be built to relieve the calls made upon the Little Church of the Flowers. The new structure will be a replica of the Sweetheart Abbey at Dumfries, Scotland, and will be known as the Wee Kirk o' the Heather. It seems strange, but the fact remains that there are nearly as many weddings as funerals at Forest Lawn, and pallbearers and grooms-men frequently get mixed up in front of the little church. With the erection of another chapel a great deal of this confusion will be corrected.

Support of the Intellectuals

It may be the irony of fate, but it is also funny that behind every youthful "intellectual" should be found a sturdy, though perhaps not precisely smart, "Babbitt," paying the bills and enjoying many a quiet laugh over the didoes of the "intelligentsia."—[Lafayette Journal and Courier.

DRAGS

Drags have come into their own. We cut them off; we curtail them; we are not enthusiastic over them in business; we execrate hangers-on in social life; we object to everything that ties us to the dirt.

But the little omnipresent chain that drags on the ground behind the huge tank truck carries off the static and saves the modern oil industry from explosion and chaos.

Antaeus, the Greek hero, was renewed in strength every time he touched the earth, his mother. Hercules finally killed him by lifting and keeping him from the ground.

Many a parent has protected his offspring from the contacts of struggle and grime only to stifle him. Touching the dirt yet reinvigorates man.

Rubber tires have a tendency not only to soften the rough road, but also to insulate the big carrier. The drag is its salvation.

Too many folks become surcharged with egotism, and unless there be some mode of drawing it off in a quiet and efficient manner there would be a blow-up.

Most men have sufficient of the sordid in their lives to keep them intimate with the humilities. If it were not for the little drags life would be one explosion after another. Our dreams would go up in smoke.

When success comes too easy collapse is imminent. The man who makes money or acquires position and fame is in imminent peril without a little drag somewhere to keep him steady. Even a kite needs a tail.

He who makes money may make a poor progenitor. His offspring usually gets the gas and the spark without the drag.

Exclusiveness is hazardous. The person who boxes up his dreams and insulates his ambitions within the selfish circle of his own individual interests is in jeopardy of becoming remnants and embers by the roadside.

ON REALISM

By James J. Montague.

I like the tales of long ago,
Despite their rather sloppy diction,
I like them for their easy flow
Of unadulterated fiction.
Their authors wrote of love and youth,
Of honor, happiness and glory—
They didn't think the bitter truth
Was fit to put into a story.

Somewhere in me there is a kink
That makes me rather sentimental,
And still I sort of like to think
That men are brave and maidens gentle.
I like to think that married life
Is all contentment, love and laughter,
And when a young man takes a wife
He stays devoted ever after.

The novelists that we have now
Are all too doggone realistic.
They picture marriage as a row
Which often is the kind called fistic.
With them true love must take its course,
Which does not lead direct to heaven,
But far too often to divorce—
And sometimes maybe six or seven.

This may be life; it may be truth,
It may endure the test of reason;
But why not let the heart of youth
Be happy in the happy season?
The love that lights its hopeful brow
Perhaps will soon be dead and buried.
But why let lovers know that now?
They'll find it out when they are married!

Enthusiastically Received

PASADENA, July 4.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The press dispatches show that Byrd was enthusiastically received on his arrival from Europe, after flying over the North Pole. At the same time it reported the departure of Amundsen for his home in Norway, with but a handful of friends to bid him farewell. This may be due to the fact that Americans loyal to the memory of Commander Robert E. Peary resent the insult to Peary's memory placed upon it by Amundsen when, as reported in the daily press, he called upon Convict Dr. Cook in a Texas penitentiary and then announced that Cook had as good a claim to the North Pole as had Peary.

As president of the National Geographic Society and acting under the authority of the board of managers I led in the work of exposing the false claims of Cook, which unquestionably were fraudulent upon their faces, and, ex-officio, I sat with the committee appointed by the board of managers of the National Geographic Society to pass upon the validity of the records and evidence presented by Peary. This committee was composed of Admiral Colby M. Chester, United States Navy; Dr. Henry Gannett of the United States Geological Survey, and Dr. O. T. Tittman, chief of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey. Peary's records were complete and his evidence was conclusive and they were so certified by this committee, which was of such a character as to command the confidence of explorers and scientists the world over.

Amundsen has always come to America to get the support necessary for his exploration enterprises and he has never come in vain, and he has been honored here as nowhere else. His aspersions upon the achievements of America's greatest explorer are, therefore, not only resented by those who love the memory of Robert E. Peary, but are a sad disappointment to those who heretofore have entertained a high regard for Amundsen. His act was the more despicable because he was attacking the reputation of the man who beat him and who fairly beated him. He was not a game loser. He announces that he is going home to his little Norwegian village to stay. It would have been well had he gone earlier.

Colorado River Gold

RIVERSIDE, July 5.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Quoting from Senator Cameron's speech in the United States Senate a day or two ago in reference to his Colorado River mining claims as set forth in yesterday's Times, wherein he says: "We have had every reason to believe, and believe now, that these claims cover one of the most important placer areas in the United States"—contains not one word of truth, else thousands of miners would have long since flocked there. Whereas, as a matter of fact, there is not a placer miner today on any part of the Colorado River—and never was in the past—who could make his "salt" placer mining Colorado River gold.

Quite true, there is gold in the Colorado River, and of a quality almost chemically pure, but there is no known process by which it can be recovered in paying quantities. Like Snake River gold, which miners have been unsuccessfully trying to save since the early placer-mining days of Idaho, it is too fine and too light and flaky to be recovered in any appreciable amount.

One insurmountable difficulty attached to the saving of Colorado River gold lies in its excessive association with black iron sands, which occur from the fineness of flour to that of coarse shot, whose specific gravity is greater than that of the gold. F. M. C.

Open Cut-outs

LOS ANGELES, July 3.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Since my arrival in your city I have noticed in the papers repeated criticism of certain conditions in New York City. There's an old adage about people who live in glass houses. Before Los Angeles can rightfully consider herself in a position to criticise New York or any other place it should take out a few leaves from the notebook of that same New York. I especially refer to the matter of open cut-outs on automobiles. This is a condition which should not exist. Due to lack of rains the air here is bad enough without having it further contaminated by discharged smoke and nauseating smells from these cut-outs. New York City compels her motorists to close up their cut-outs and I should think that Los Angeles would likewise take similar action. I think you will agree with me that such a ruling would help considerably to clarify the air. OLD BILL, JR.

HE DID HIS BEST

Tommy was only 9, but he knew how to follow Sunday-school teachings, as he understood them. He came home one day with a black eye.

"How did you get that black eye, Tommy," asked his mother, starting at once to bathe it.

"Johnny King hit me," was his sullen answer.

"I hope you remembered what your Sunday-school teacher told you about heaping coals of fire on his head," the mother said.

"Well, mumsie, I didn't have any coals of fire so I stuck his head in the ash barrel," Tommy answered with a dash of pride.—[Columbus Dispatch.

HEART WHISPERS

BY ADRIAN RAND

Deep within my heart [illegible] oracle whispering of [illegible] I would otherwise never [illegible] all hazards and perils on [illegible] ways through life it is my friend and guide.

But its ways are so overwhelmingly against my accepted [illegible] am inclined to disbelieve them. And whenever I do I have cause for regret, so I promise myself henceforth to be loyal and listen.

My heart-whispers have no [illegible] nite and no specific [illegible] simply call my attention to [illegible] lem. I can hear them say [illegible] here, this is different [illegible] think it is," or "You are [illegible] ing something, give [illegible] tion," or, again, "This [illegible] blind alley, go back or [illegible] different direction of the [illegible]

How can my conscience [illegible] cept such intimations? [illegible] see the splendor of [illegible] judgment interprets the [illegible] cording to my past [illegible] and habits, and here [illegible] whispers opposing my [illegible] Away with them! I [illegible] cording to what I [illegible] ical and sensible. I [illegible] only the witness of [illegible] ears and shall admit no [illegible] timony. The more it [illegible] comes from such a sort of [illegible] ay, invisible, untouchable [illegible] able and ghostly substance.

Rigidly I follow the [illegible] my senses. More loudly [illegible] whispers from within [illegible] More stubbornly, and [illegible] brace up and, lifting [illegible] bravery, I go onward [illegible] I had wisely chosen. [illegible] seem to triumph. The [illegible] ward voice that warned [illegible] myself, was nothing but [illegible] fear. Or may be it was the [illegible] of reluctance become [illegible] pleasant past experiences [illegible] ed with the present [illegible] am wise and I am rewarded. But my triumph does not last long. For soon I begin to see the [illegible] gers of the road and [illegible] minute brings me into [illegible] greater peril until my [illegible] greatest problem is how to [illegible] my course, how to extricate [illegible] from the enmeshing [illegible] have stepped into.

Then the whispers within my heart are trying to help. [illegible] are not resentful nor angry at [illegible] first disobedience, but just [illegible] gether with me, just grieved [illegible] foolishness.

Sometimes, conversely, when something looks wrong to me, [illegible] oracle within gives [illegible] bright comments. It would [illegible] me to go on. It foretells [illegible] and brighter vistas. But I [illegible] afraid, and I laugh at the [illegible] ed hopefulness of the heart. It [illegible] come hard and inclinable [illegible] mined in my decision. But [illegible] afterward, as time carries me [illegible] ward in the direction I had [illegible] and the panorama before my [illegible] changes, I wish I could stretch my arms and plead that the [illegible] tunity I had disregarded should [illegible] back to me. But the [illegible] depths of time seldom, if ever, [illegible] turn what they admit into the [illegible] realms. So again I vow [illegible] to be more loyal to the [illegible] within.

Seeking a new pathway to [illegible] Columbus discovered America, [illegible] lowing a mere will-o'-the-wisp [illegible] often discover something [illegible] something that was hitherto [illegible] known and is greater than [illegible] original purpose.

It is, indeed, a strange life [illegible] we all have on this earth. [illegible] our experiences prove to us [illegible] stances that what we [illegible] ered right was really wrong, [illegible] what we had thought was [illegible] really right. Who can [illegible] right path always and [illegible] correctly the whispers from [illegible] in? Who can be sure that [illegible] not mistaking groundless fears [illegible] ward self-punishments and [illegible] passions for heart whispers?

ENJOYABLE KHJ PROGRAM

Advanced Students of Zoellner Conservatory Give Delightful Hour of Fine Music

One of the most enjoyable musical programs ever broadcast by KHJ was that last night of three Zoellner Conservatory advanced students. Elinor Barber, pianiste; Robert Harthun, violinist, and Malcolm Davison, tenor, composed the little group who gave a delightful hour.

Their opening number was "Ro-[illegible] violinist, is full of temperament, his playing is warm and emotional, with a substantial technical equipment back of it. It would seem that the future holds much in store for him.

The Golterman "Cantilena" played by Malcolm Davison was exquisitely played. There was beautiful tonal quality, fine interpretation, and facility of technique. He has a great gift for his chosen work.

A guest in our studio during the evening was Mary Louise Woseczek, who came to us from the studio of WLW, Cincinnati. Miss Woseczek graciously complied with Uncle John's request to give two short piano numbers. It was a great pleasure to have this splendid artist with us. She is leaving the city today on her tour of the West.

Dr. Phillip M. Lovell, of the Care of the Body department of The Times spoke on "The Liver and Its Ailments." This talk will be found in its entirety in next Sunday's magazine, if you wish to go over parts of it again.

Rev. Luther A. Rice, pastor of Sunnyside Methodist Episcopal Church, gave the Scripture reading.

The children's hour was an unusually happy one last night. As is his custom, Dickie Brandon brought his sunny smile, and told his stories in his lovable way. His mother sang two charming things during the hour. It adds a great deal to the enjoyment not only for the kiddies but the grown-ups as well. The little screen star, Joyce Coad, is always a delight.

Jeanne De Bard, the Little Preacher, Charlotte Palen, "Starlight of KHJ," and Robert P. Baugh, 10-year-old pianist, rounded out a most interesting program.

The noontime broadcast presented the Los Angeles Railway Hawaiian Quintet, Dot Jordan, a blues singer who is new to our radio audience, and Dorothy Ellis, gifted young pianist. Dance music by Heffner's Sunnyland Seven was the closing program for the day.

WASTE OPENS OFFICE IN BAY CITY CAMPAIGN

Advices have been received at the headquarters of Chief Justice Waste, 426 Douglas Building, of the opening of headquarters in his interest in San Francisco. The committee in charge of his campaign in the northern city is composed of many of San Francisco's citizens prominent in the professional and commercial life of that city. John L. McNab heads the committee as chairman and among others in that committee are Judge Angellotti, A. W. Brouillet, ex-Governor, James N. Gillett, Marshall Hale, Percy V. Long, Dr. Morton R. Gibbons and Milton Elsberg. The Imperial County Bar Association has passed resolutions indorsing and pledging their support to him. Mayor Evans of Riverside has headed an organization in that city strongly supporting Judge Waste. The Riverside Press has come out editorially indorsing him.

WAR ON PUNCTURE VINE

The County Horticultural Commissioner has been directed by the City Council, on motion of Councilman Randall, to take charge of the work of removing puncture vines from forty streets in the San Fernando Valley. These sharp-barbed vines are a source of great damage to automobile tires, the Councilman said.

CAFE NOTES

One of the striking features of Screen Writers' Night to be celebrated at the Hollywood Montmarte this evening will be the scenario writer's dancing contest in which many of the screen scribes have arranged to enter. Miss Betty Noon, film actress, will be the guest of honor and also will award the prize consisting of a Montmarte loving cup to the winning couple.

Brandstatter is dedicating Friday evening of each week to the scenario writers of the film capital.

The musical number, "The Scenario Writer's Blues," which Prof. Moore, leader of the Montmarte orchestra, dedicated to the screen scribes some time ago, is proving to be so popular with the writers of screen plays that he will feature it in the musical program tonight.

Eddie Brandstatter, owner of the cafe, is arranging an attractive program of vaudeville numbers for the event. Many reservations are being made by film stars, directors and writers for the occasion.

The regular week-end fashion revue and matinee dansant will take place tomorrow with Bohemian night being celebrated tomorrow evening.

The art exhibition of the "Living Masks," painted by Mme. Ivy De Verley, the celebrated painter, is proving to be highly interesting to the artists who patronize the cafe.

Reservations have been literally pouring in to Mrs. Jessie Mapes and Clarence Conlin, owners of the beautiful new half-million dollar Crystal Cafe at Ocean Park, for the formal opening tomorrow evening.

This cafe, which is located on the ocean front at Strand avenue, will be the last word in comfort, elegance and cuisine.

Alexander Pantages, the theatrical magnate, has made reservations for 100 persons and will entertain some of the most prominent stage and screen stars in addition to artists.

Many other prominent film folk also have made reservations for the opening night.

What is probably one of the greatest entertainment programs ever arranged for a cafe has been prepared for the opening night with Alexander Pantages' vaudeville road show from St. Louis putting on their entire show for the guests.

J. L. Van Norman, president of The Elite, yesterday announced that a new Elite store will be opened tomorrow at 616 South Western avenue. On this day, according to Mr. Van Norman, the new store is to be open from 5:30 p.m. to 12 p.m.

"The opening of the new Western avenue store," said Mr. Van Norman, "is in keeping with the steady progress and expansion which The Elite is now experiencing."

The new store will handle ice cream, pastries and candies and will serve as an order branch for catering and all other special orders to be sent to the main store at 629 South Flower street.

Hoot Gibson, popular celebrity of the silver screen, will be master of ceremonies Sunday night at the Hollywood Montmarte cafe, in addition to playing host to a large party of his own, the actor will introduce the visiting stars of the stage and screen and also present a silver cup to the winners of a dancing contest to be participated in by patrons of the cafe. A new revue will be introduced by Manager Dave Wolf.

In addition to the usual social activities of the Idyllwild Inn, the coming week holds two events of special interest. "Hospitality Day" will be held tomorrow. This is to be a special gathering of bridge lovers in Recreation Grove. All at Idyllwild on that day are invited to participate in this function.

The cuisine and service at the Idyllwild Inn are unexcelled.

Sam McDaniels and his Dusky Darlings are now showing at the Vernon Country Club at Forty-ninth street and Santa Fe avenue. Southland melodies, put across as only Dixieland crooners know how, please the crowds nightly at the "One Bright Spot." Jerry Strayer, manager, announces that this show will run throughout the summer with a change of program weekly.

PLAN IMPROVEMENT

City Engineer Shaw has been instructed by the City Council to prepare engineering plans for the improving of North Venice Boulevard from Eighteenth street to Pacific avenue.

Readiness

ALL over the then-known world the runners and mounted messengers of ancient Assyria bore the decrees and edicts of their rulers. Trained for fleetness and endurance, these message bearers of a vanished empire stood at their posts, stripped for the task, prepared for instant dispatch of whatever was given them to speed to distant points.

The universal message bearer now is the telephone. Its nation-wide range has come about through a far-flung system of wires, cables, switchboards and supplementary apparatus. Through the cooperation of a vast army of men and women it daily transmits the thoughts and desires of millions.

It is because of unceasing inspection, watchfulness, coordination and all else that makes for instant readiness that Americans today, anywhere, can talk to one another, any time.

The 2 Rules

for using make-up safely on your skin

By NORMA TALMADGE

Copyrighted, 1926, by P. G. Beauty Features

Do this if powder or rouge ever touches your face. Note then the great difference that comes COUNTLESS women make the great mistake of letting make-up remain on their faces over night.

Poor complexions thus often come. Yet, used rightly, powders, rouge and make-up will not injure.

The rules for make-up as used by women of the stage and urged by skin authorities are these: just careful cleansing of make-up accumulations from the pores with the gentle lather of Palmolive Soap in the following way:

RULE 1

Cleanse the Skin First

Never apply powder or rouge to an unclean, dusty skin, or to an oily skin. That is ruinous. It results in that artificial made-up look you dislike. Dampen a cloth in warm water, work up a mild lather of Palmolive and go over your face lightly with it, then rinse with cold water . . . then apply your make-up. Just see the difference this will make.

RULE 2

Never Let Make-Up Stay On Over Night

Powders, rouge and all cosmetics have a tendency to clog the pores . . . often to enlarge them. Blackheads and disfigurements often follow. Never let make-up stay on over night. This is all-important, a fundamental in correct skin care.

Follow these rules. You'll never look made-up. Your skin will be soft and lovely. And as the months roll by, you'll need fewer cosmetics.

Do not use ordinary soaps in the treatment given above. Do not think any green soap, or represented as of palm and olive oils, is the same.

BE SURE YOU GET THE REAL PALMOLIVE

Remember that before Palmolive came, women were told, "use no soap on your faces." Soaps then were judged too harsh. Palmolive is a beauty soap made for one purpose only: to safeguard your complexion. 60 years of soap study stand behind it. Millions of pretty skins prove its effectiveness beyond all doubt.

It costs but 10c the cake!—so little that millions let it do for their bodies what it does for their faces. Obtain Palmolive today. Note what one week of its use brings you. The Palmolive Company (Del. Corp.), Chicago, Illinois. 21IT

SOCIETY

BY JUANA NEAL LEVY

While the summer seems to be the season in most places for out-of-door sports, it remained for London, Eng., to be the scene of the most unusual tennis stunts. It seems that Vincent Richards and Mrs. Bunny Ryan, America's star champions at the Wimbledon international tennis matches, unintentionally started a great mystery story when they both decided that they wanted early morning practice but did not want the cheering crowds which stuck to them wherever they went, so with Yankee ingenuity Richards remembered the roof of the Savoy Hotel, where he is staying, and hastily calling in Nicholas J. Mockett, famed head porter, details were quickly arranged, and 6 a.m. the next morning found America's twin tennis stars keeping their tryst on the Savoy roof.

Golf had been played there before by Hagen, Bobby Jones and Francis Ouimet, but not early morning tennis.

Was London shocked? It was not, but tennis sharps were all agog to learn where the stars were doing their morning stunts, and only found out when an early morning reporter, walking around the Embankment, saw a throng of early workers on the pavement, watching with rapt gaze the privileged and free-for-all sight of the two stars silhouetted against a blue sky, and immediately wrote for his sheet concerning the event. The next morning camera sharps got busy with their telescopic lenses as large throngs gathered to view the odd sight. At last the champions' point of vantage was really and truly discovered, but it didn't matter, as no one could come nearer than 500 feet below, and Porter Mockett guards the roof entrances with a fierce and jealous eye—so, in sight of all, but with details seen by none, America's champions practice in peace, thanks to their native Yankee wit.

Wedding Announced

Announcement is made of the marriage the 1st inst., of Miss Eleanore Edith Buchan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Buchan of 935 North Kingsley Drive, Hollywood, to Marion Francis McCartney, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. McCartney of Pasadena, the ceremony taking place in Hollywood Congregational Church, with Rev. James Hamilton Lash, D.D., officiating. The dainty bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin and duchess lace in bouffant model, the embroidered silk tulle veil held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms, and she carried a shower of orchids and lillies of the valley.

Mrs. John Doyle, matron of honor, wore a gown of the pastel shades of green in the same style, and a large picture hat, while the bridesmaids, shades of yellow with hat to match, and Miss Olive Du Bois in pastel shades of orchid, with hat to match, all carried shower bouquets of pink sweet peas and rosebuds.

Horace B. Buchan was best man, and Raymond Gilbert, D. Cowen, C. Tomlinson and T. Donald Buchan were ushers.

The church was decorated with palms, ferns and baskets of flowers, and following the ceremony there was a wedding supper at Camel Inn, Hollywood.

Mr. and Mrs. McCartney are motoring in the north on their honeymoon, and after the 18th inst. will be at home to their friends in San Bernardino.

Entertains Editor

One of the enjoyable affairs of the past week was the dinner-dance with which Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Norris entertained at the Edgewater Club in honor of N. A. Nichols of El Reno, Okla., who attended the National Editorial Association convention here. The decorations were carried out with sweet peas and roses and unique place cards marked the covers for the hosts, guest of honor and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hickman, Dr. and Mrs. R. Nichol Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Scott and Mr. and Mrs. Lyman C. Dunbar.

Home Again

Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Geisler (Louise Hill) of the Darby in West Adams street have returned home after an extended visit in the East, where they stopped in Boston, New York City, Chicago and other eastern points of interest.

For Visitor

One of the lovely affairs of recent date was the luncheon with which Mrs. C. G. Haines entertained in the Chinese room of the Mary Louise in honor of Mrs. Roscoe Pound, wife of Dean Pound of Harvard University, who is attending the Los Angeles Institute of Politics at University of California, Southern Branch. A motif of yellow and lavender had been chosen by this hostess for her table appointments and floral decorations, unique hand-sketched Chinese place cards marking the covers for sixteen guests.

From Trip

Dr. and Mrs. Ralph R. Campbell of North Normandie avenue have returned from Del Mar, where they have been passing some time at the Stratford Inn.

At Seaside Club

Club Casa del Mar was the setting chosen by Mrs. Harry E. Hudson for her charmingly appointed luncheon recently, when the decorations were especially lovely. Umbrellas fashioned of gay summer blossoms from which depended pastel shaded ribbons graced the center of each table, while rose pink candles and favors further carried out the color note, and those included were Mrs. Albert Ralphs, Mrs. Maurice De Mond, Mrs. Charles Parker, Mrs. Walter Petitfils, Mrs. Ralph A. Dallugge, Mrs. Walter Ralphs, Mrs. Alberto Pani and Miss Constance Pani of Mexico City, Mrs. John P. Steffen, Mrs. Dave Pascoe, Mrs. Charles Mason, Mrs. Dave Fawcett, Mrs. Salmon Tuttle, Jr., Mrs. Lawrence Shepherd, Mrs. Jack Rodman, Mrs. Vincent Paul, Mrs. Loren Babcock, Mrs. Jack Campbell, Mrs. Leslie Estle, Mrs. David Fearon, Mrs. Arthur Gripp, Mrs. Jack O'Rourke, Mrs. Shelley Keiser, Mrs. Ray Foulkes, Mrs. Neil Harrington, Mrs. Charles D. Morgan, Jr., Mrs. Fred William Teschke, Mrs. Carl Guercio, Mrs. George Merritt, Jr., Mrs. Fred Shrader, Mrs. Baird Marble, Mrs. Howard Porter, Mrs. Pat Stewart, Mrs. W. B. Huber, Mrs. Melville Rapp, Mrs. Don Clark, Mrs. Nugent Thomas, Mrs. John Horbogh, Mrs. Edla Swinney, Mrs. Hal Hall, Mrs. George Daze, Mrs. Douglas Mackinnon, Mrs. Richard Wedekind, Mrs. Max Conrad, Mrs. Sanford Barnes, Miss Lucille McNamee and Miss Thelma Tegner.

The hostess was assisted by Mrs. De Mond, Mrs. Albert Ross, Mrs. Ralph Dallugge and Mrs. George Merritt.

Docked in Italy

A cable received from Naples, Italy, announces the safe arrival there of a party of prominent Angelenos who left here April 6 on a cruise around the world, including Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Desmond, Mr. and Mrs. William T. Hopper, Miss Luana Hopper, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Blair, Edward Vadey, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Latham, Mrs. Ada E. Crook, Mrs. Gladys M. Eaton, Miss Eliza Estrop, Mrs. Nettie A Harris, Jack Knight, Mrs. D. F. Robertson, Mrs. Martha J. Sharpless, Miss Salome Taylor, Miss Eva Dean, Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Ross, and Mrs. George M. Wofford.

Husband Tried to Upset Piano, Wife Declares

Testifying her husband broke the household dishes and tried to tip over the piano, Mrs. Mabel M. Renzenhausen of Pasadena yesterday was granted a divorce from Marshall J. Renzenhausen by Judge Louis H. Ward of San Francisco, temporarily sitting in Judge Keeler's department of the local Superior Court.

Mrs. Renzenhausen, who asserted her husband was intoxicated at the time, added that he "put my lovely silk sofa pillows in the bathtub and turned the water on them."

"My daughter and I went inside and tried to talk to him, but he ran us out of the house," declared Mrs. Renzenhausen's mother, who was called to corroborate the testimony of Mrs. Renzenhausen.

Renzenhausen had filed an answer and cross-complaint to his wife's suit in which he charged that his wife and a physician plied him with liquor and encouraged him to become intoxicated so they could carry on an asserted affair of their own without being disturbed by him. Renzenhausen, however, withdrew his cross-complaint and did not appear in court to contest his wife's plea for a divorce.

A-dof-lus a Beverage with Old Fashioned Flavor

The flavor of buttermilk, that never-to-be-forgotten old drink from the churn, reproduced in A-dof-lus. Not only the flavor is reproduced, but added attractiveness is given this new drink because within its creamy whiteness is contained those vital acidophilus elements which will positively eliminate from the intestines the bacteria which throw off poisons into the human system.

A-dof-lus will restore the active organisms of health and assure normal functioning even to those who are affected with chronic constipation. It is recognized and prescribed as a specific for many kinds of intestinal disorders.

Buy a quart each day and then you will know why the doctors recommend it.

Delivered to your home, 20c a quart. At fountains and lunch counters, 10c a glass.

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

Fourth of July Dessert

One Mother Says:

The children think our "Feast of July" dessert one of the pleasures of the summer season. Into a large Dutch blue bowl they put two-inch cubes of watermelon mixed with one pineapple cut in wedges and sugared. This dessert must be kept on ice until thoroughly chilled, and served ice cold.

SHORTRIDGE TO ARRIVE IN CITY TODAY

Supporters and Friends Welcome Senator for First Speech of Campaign

At the Shortridge headquarters, 303 Citizens' National Bank Building, activities were speeded up yesterday for the coming of the afternoon of Senator Shortridge. Hundreds of telephone and personal calls were received from friends and supporters for information regarding the hour of his coming.

Announcement is made by the committee in charge of arrangements that Senator Shortridge is due to arrive in Los Angeles at 3:46 this afternoon at the Southern Pacific station, where he is to be met by a large delegation of prominent men and women from Los Angeles, San Pedro, Long Beach, Pasadena, Glendale, Venice and other near-by points.

After the greeting at the station a line of automobiles will escort the Senator up Fifth street to the Biltmore Hotel, where he will in an additional throngs assembled for Louis M. Cole will introduce Senator Shortridge and will welcome him with a few brief words of greeting, following which the Senator will give his first public announcement.

Senator Shortridge is expected to remain in Los Angeles about two weeks, after which he will tour the Southern California counties before going north.

A large number of civic and other organizations have invited the Senator to address them and the committee is now busy perfecting a speaking schedule.

Mrs. Rhoda F. Graves, only woman member of the New York Legislature now serving her second term, has announced that she will run for a third term.

ANIMAL ENGINE

Councilmen Discover Weight Designated to Keep Fountains in Repair, but Final

The City Council yesterday chose for the topic of its most serious and sustained debate of the day the approval of the job of engineer in charge of animal drinking fountains. The Humane Animal Commission recently discovered that there is this job on the $18,000,000 a year city pay roll and that there was a man who wore a badge and drew pay for inspecting these drinking fountains. But the man was classified as a member of the engineering department, whereupon the commission protested and said that he should be attached to the humane treatment of animals department. Hence the debate. Who was the man? What did he do? What was his pay? Were there any animal drinkers?

COMMUNITY WILL RULING CONTESTED

Mary Saxton Heirs Appeal Decision on Property Law by Judge Doran

The heirs of the late Mary Saxton yesterday gave notice of their appeal to the State Supreme Court from the recent decision of Judge Doran holding that a wife, under the old community-property law, could not dispose of her half in the community property, according to Attorneys Joseph Scott and A. G. Ritter. A recent legislative amendment to the law gives the wife the right to will one half of the property.

Mary Saxton died on September 25, 1925, leaving a will giving one-half of her interest in the community property in equal shares to her children. Her husband, Henry Saxton, brought suit in Superior Court to quiet title against the children, asserting entire and absolute ownership of the property. Attorneys for the children raised the question that a change in the community-property law made a change in the statutes of succession and, therefore, the right to quiet title did not exist in Mr. Saxton at this time.

The point, it is said, has never been decided by the State Supreme Court. The property involved is a tract of land near the Pacific Palisades valued at about $1,500,000.

MERCHANT COMBINES BUSINESS, PLEASURE

Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Goldberg of the Swelldom, are now at Lake Louise, Can. After a short vacation there, Mr. Goldberg will leave for the East where he will make a survey of women's fashions for fall and winter, in co-ordination with the buyers of the various departments of the Swelldom. On next Thursday, Mrs. A. Fagan, the dress buyer, who is a recognized authority on women's fashions, will leave for New York with Miss C. Harriot, who is a buyer of sportswear at the same store. The New York Swelldom maintains a permanent buying office under the supervision of Miss Jean Jackson.

PAROLE OFFICER ON TOUR OF SOUTHLAND

On a quarterly tour of the local district, State Parole Officer Whyte arrived in Los Angeles yesterday. He spent part of the day in San Bernardino yesterday, and will attend to business matters in the local State building today before departing for San Diego tonight. As State agent for the Detective License Bureau, Officer Whyte made the visit to San Diego to investigate an application for a detective-bureau license.

Deerfoot Shirred Eggs

Cut six Willowbrook sausages in half-inch pieces and fry in one teaspoonful melted butter six minutes. Add one cup tomato sauce, to which has been added one teaspoonful finely chopped parsley. Put mixture in six buttered shirred egg dishes, crack two eggs in each dish and bake until eggs are set.

VIRGINIA SPOON BREAD

Heat one-half of a pint of rich milk to the boiling point, stir in one half a cupful of corn meal, cook five minutes; then beat one tablespoonful of butter and one-half teaspoonful milk (one quarter pint) into the mush, add one beaten egg, and beat vigorously once more. Gradually stir in remaining milk. Put mixture in buttered dish and bake twenty-five minutes in hot oven. Serve at once.

MEDLEY PRESERVE

One quart red raspberries, one quart red currants, one quart red cherries, one ripe pineapple, two large oranges, one pound Sultana raisins, one pound sugar.

Wash and stone the cherries, pick and wash the raspberries, pick the currants, pare and shred the pineapple and cut the oranges in small pieces without skinning them. Wash and dry the raisins.

Measure the fruit, put it in a preserving pan over a slow fire and simmer for one hour, stirring often.

Heat as many pounds of sugar as there are pounds of fruit, add to the boiling fruit, and cook to the consistency of marmalade.

Seal in jars.

LAMB CHOPS, REFORME

Wipe six French chops and season with one-half teaspoonful salt and one-fourth teaspoonful pepper, roll in flour, egg (slightly beaten and diluted with one and one-half tablespoonfuls water) and fine bread crumbs. Put two tablespoonfuls finely chopped suet in a hot iron frying pan, fry the chops in it to a light brown, arrange on a hot platter and pour around them the following sauce: Cut in fine dice two gherkins, six mushrooms and the whites of one hard-boiled egg. Add two tablespoonfuls chopped parsley and three-fourths of a cupful of rich brown stock. Bring to the boiling point and simmer five minutes. Season to taste with salt.

PINEAPPLE JELLY

Two cupfuls of boiling water, one half of a cupful of sugar, three tablespoonfuls of pineapple juice, three tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, two tablespoonfuls granulated gelatine, one cupful of cold water, one cupful sugar, one third cupfuls pineapple cut in cubes.

Pour water over sugar and when sugar has dissolved, add gelatine soaked in cold water and boil five minutes, then add juice of lemon, pineapple and lemon juice and pineapple cubes. When mixture begins to thicken add canned pineapple, cut in small cubes. Turn into a mold, first dipped in cold water, and chill firm.

...IDENCE TO THE CONTRARY

BY ALMA WHITAKER

...Mrs. Leslie Stringfellow Read, who ...s chief, publicity chairman for ...e General Federation of Women's ...bs, opened the convention at At...ic City that:

"American women do not want so ...uch art stuff and woman-interest ...ff, advice-to-the-lovelorn and un...ger-ugh stories. It is not the ...ason, but the man who read it, ...d is where they get their ideas of ...men—and a fine mess of ideas it ...!"

...ll of which is perfectly true—of ...e American women. I recall hold...the same ideas myself at one ...e and trying to convince my man...ind accordingly.

...e listened patiently and politely. ...en he opened a woman's page and ...ead the which of those various de...rtments appearing as "Of Interest ...Women" I considered superfluous.

THE DISCONCERTING LETTERS

...s I began with the home-dress...ng fashion plate. He called for ...e pencil and proved that 806 women ...re written in for dress patterns that ...ay.

...This was a bit disconcerting. So ...en I pointed to the cooking recipes ...r salad dressing. He called for the ...ail to that department for that day ...seventy-eight inquiries!

...I felt best assured, I then picked ...p the "advice to the Lovelorn."

..."Ah ha! that's it," he laughed, "you ...ould write it yourself or a couple of ...ese." I became submerged, buried ...eath a modern ocean of both sexes ...oping for more than guidance. And ...ough men predominated, I be...an to think that half our circula...ion must be amongst unhappy wives.

..."Perhaps you would like to do ...ay with the society column," he ...ded. But I remembered occasional ...ms at the society desk—with its mountains of social notes and telephone calls.

WOMEN DO READ FEATURES

"I suppose you feel that the columns devoted to clubwomen and their higher intellectual and political interests are what the women read the most," he said, smiling, "but even there you will find that clubwomen usually only read about doings of their own club, and then they want all about the floral decorations and the wonderful refreshments and the high jinks on husband's night dilated upon far more than a report of the intellectual speaker's lecture."

And as I had been a club editor for four years, I remembered that, too. They would forgive me if I dismissed the lecturer with a well-chosen compliment, but directly I left out "delicious refreshments were served" and "the wonderful cake donated for the occasion by the banker's wife, and the fascinating fashion show staged by the club juniors, and the unselfish sewing done by the philanthropy committee," believe me I was smothered in reproaches.

So I have had to revise my opinions about the judgment of male editors and what they consider suitable for the women's page. Perhaps "American women" do not want so much "women-interest" stuff, but if so, they are very secretive about it. They are providing a good deal more evidence on the other side. For one expression of interest in weightier and more intellectual material, there are ten for each of the rest of the departments.

Mrs. Read's assertion that it is the men who read these women's pages is true, but she is wrong when she says the women don't read them. And if the men get "a fine mess of ideas" about women therefrom—well, perhaps, we are still a "fine mess of ideas." But it is a comfort to remember that some of the greatest literature was all about the little everyday things of life.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

ST. VITUS DANCE (CHOREA)

Mrs. A. writes that her little girl of 8 years of age, is suffering with what is commonly called St. Vitus Dance. She drops everything when she is eating and keeps shaking her head. In fact, she seems to have no control of her muscles at all. Mrs. A. says she is not in good enough circumstances to take her to a doctor and she has four other small children. Naturally, she is very unhappy and very much worried.

Dear Mrs. A., in a city the size of the one you live in, there certainly are some welfare stations where you can have your little girl examined and where you can get some expert medical advice, and you must find where they are. Ring up the County Medical Society in your city, or the Board of Health and get this information. If there should happen to be no such institutions, then you must take her to some physician, preferably a children's specialist. You will find that any conscientious physician will modify his charges to suit your case.

I'll give you a little general information on the subject which may help you.

There are two different types of Chorea, or St. Vitus Dance. The word Chorea is from the Greek, meaning "dance," and the disease is characterized by muscular movements, twitching or spasms. There are choreas due to organic brain disease, to senility, and to various forms of chronic poisoning, but the main type is that which is known as Sydenham's Infectious Chorea, which occure chiefly in children.

This type is due to some toxic (poisonous) or infectious (germ) agent, which acts on the central nervous system, causing involuntary contractions of the muscles which, in turn, cause the purposeless movements. It is associated with muscle weakness and mental irritation.

In young adults the excessive use of tobacco is stated to be one of the direct poisoning causes of Chorea. It is found very often to follow acute rheumatism and it is now believed that it may be one of the manifestations of that disease. In children, it occurs most often in the spring, perhaps because of the children's poor general tone after they have been confined indoors and have been occupied with their school work during the winter months. It also seems to attack the bright and ambitious more often, probably because they worry more about their studies. Children living in overcrowded, poorly ventilated tenements and those who are poorly nourished seem to be more susceptible.

Frights, or some strong emotional upsets, often seem to play a big role as a predisposing cause. Usually these are not thought of as the real predisposing cause of a certain attack unless they have occurred not exceeding a week before the onset of the disease. However, some specialists hold that strong emotional upsets, even though they happened so long ago that they have been completely forgotten, will act as predisposing causes, not only of Chorea, but other nervous disorders.

Worms, eye defects, bad tonsils, abscessed teeth, ear discharges and other spots of infection in the body, have been followed by Chorea in some cases.

The average duration of the disease is from six weeks to six months, or it may last longer.

Treatment. If any of the foregoing things exist, naturally they must be cleared up if possible. Very strict attention to proper diet in sufficient amounts (often those attacked are undernourished) and the improvement of the general hygiene, including sunshine and fresh air in abundance, are very important. Deep breathing exercises and simple exercises which are gradually increased to harder exercises, all help to get control of the muscles. Absolute rest, good nursing and isolation are necessary in severe cases. Children having Chorea should not be allowed to attend the theater or movies, or join in any exciting games. Children associated with those who have Chorea will sometimes bring on muscular twitchings by imitation.

The little patients usually get well from this disease when the right treatment is given. Naturally, a child who has Chorea should be under the constant care of a physician.

ANIMAL ENGINEER KEEPS JOB

Councilmen Discover Weighty Problem in Status of Man Designated to Keep Fountains for Beasts of City in Repair, but Finally Transfers Him

...he City Council yesterday chose ...o the topic of its most serious ...d animated debate of the day the ...uestion of the job of engineer in ...harge of animal drinking fountains. ...he Humane Animal Commission ...ecently discovered that there is this ...ear in the $18,000,000 a year city ...ay roll one that there was a man ...ho wore a badge and drew pay for ...aring those drinking fountains. ...n the man was classified as a ...ember of the engineering depart...ent, whereupon the commission ...rosted and said that he should ...e shifted to the humane treat...ent of animals department. ...Then the debate. Who was the ...an? What did he do? What was his ...ay? Was there any animal drinking fountains in the city to repair? These were some of the questions asked by the Councilmen.

"I never saw a drinking fountain for animals in my district," said Councilman Barnes.

So the debate waged back and forth, some of the Councilmen saying there were drinking fountains for animals and that they needed attention.

"But why an engineer?" persisted Councilman Barnes.

"Oh, the man is only a laborer at $4.25 a day," said one Councilman.

So wearied by this time of the matter, the Council voted to transfer the inspector and engineer in charge of animal drinking fountains to the Humane Animal Commission's pay roll.

RICHARDSON SUPPORTERS WILL MEET

Newspaper Men to Gather Monday to Organize for Southland Campaign

Los Angeles county newspaper men numbering more than forty will gather at the Richardson-for-Governor newspaper men's campaign headquarters, Hayward Hotel, Monday evening, where they will perfect this county's unit in the general organization plans of the Southern California newspaper men interested in seeing Gov. Richardson returned to office.

The meeting, which will be a get-together dinner, will be attended by representatives of a similar organization in Northern California, as well as various other supporters, and it is expected that plans for Gov. Richardson's Los Angeles county campaign, in so far as the newspaper men are concerned, will be completed at this time.

"The fact that more than forty Los Angeles county newspapers are supporters of Gov. Richardson when four years ago there were hardly half that number indicates the attitude of newspaper men throughout Southern California," according to Justus Craemer of the Orange Daily News and chairman of the newspaper men's committee. "The rigid economy program of the Governor and his determined stand on law enforcement have been responsible for many papers, which four years ago either did not take part or were opposed to his candidacy, coming out forcibly for him."

Tuesday evening a similar meeting will be held at the Mission Inn at Riverside when Riverside county editors will perfect their campaign plans.

SOUTHERN STATES TO HAVE SUMMER PICNIC

Former residents of many States will meet tomorrow at reunions in Sycamore Grove Park. While all persons from Dixie will be made welcome, the States specially interested are Georgia, Tennessee, Virginia, South Carolina, Maryland, Delaware, Kentucky and North Carolina. Each State will open county headquarters in a separate section of the park and have its own picnic. All are asked to carry basket dinners but hot coffee will be supplied. The program of oratory and song will open at 2 p.m. Rev. Bob Shuler will be the speaker. Arthur C. Hurt and J. Bassett Willard also will speak. Edward Lawless and J. M. Fix will supply harmonica and fiddle music. H. J. Brubaker will lead community singing. Picnickers are asked to carry both dinner and supper if they can stay for the evening.

HEARING DATE SET

July 26 has been set by the City Council as the date for hearing appeals against the assessments for the paving of Manchester avenue from Western avenue to Van Ness avenue.

RICHARDSON TO ADDRESS CLUBWOMEN

Governor Will Talk Before Republican Study Body in Election Campaign

Gov. Richardson's first appearance before any organization of women in the present primary campaign will take place at 2 p.m. today at a meeting arranged by the Republican Women's Study Club, at Barker Brothers' auditorium, Seventh and Figueroa streets. The Governor will appear promptly at 2:30.

Mrs. Charles F. Gray, president of the club, will preside. Among those who will assist her in honoring the Governor are Mrs. O. P. Clark, member from Southern California of the Republican National Committee; Mrs. Florence Collins Porter, president of the southern division of the State Federation of Republican Study Clubs; Mrs. Clara Shortridge Foltz, Mrs. Oliver C. Bryant, Mrs. Rose Bryant, Mrs. Dora Stearns, Mrs. E. G. Magauran, Mrs. Laura Taylor Kelly, Mrs. H. Josephine Winn, Mrs. J. T. Anderson, Mrs. Cora Deal Lewis, Miss Ruth Sterry and Mrs. Harriet Works.

The club will have open house in the Governor's honor, and all women, regardless of party affiliation, are invited to attend, it is announced. The meeting will adjourn promptly at 3:45 p.m. so that members and guests may attend a reception at the Biltmore for Senator Shortridge, who arrived from Washington on an afternoon train.

GOODCELL RETURNS TODAY FROM NORTH

With the indorsement of another Alameda county club in his pocket, Judge Rex B. Goodcell is returning to Los Angeles this morning following a tour of the north coast counties in the interest of his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Governor. He will remain in the south over Sunday, announces his headquarters. Goodcell's newest indorsement is that of the Young Men's Republican Club of Alameda county, of which R. S. Blue is president, and A. S. Rice secretary. The membership of the Young Men's Club reaches to all parts of the county, it is stated. This is the sixth Alameda county organization to get back of the Goodcell candidacy.

Police were asked yesterday to search for Gordon G. Ellis was to have left his address with friends here, but did not communicate with them and Mrs. Ellis has been unable to find a trace of him. He is five feet eleven inches tall, weighs about 160, has light hair and blue eyes and fair complexion. He has been ill for some time.

Costs Only 3 Cents to Remove Wrinkles

Better than massage for removing wrinkles and age lines, far less expensive and bothersome, is a simple Tarkroot mixture which any woman can prepare and apply in a jiffy. Almost immediately after spreading this over the face there is a pleasant, soothing sensation and the mirror shows the horrid age lines and "sags" disappearing like magic. In less than 15 minutes the face is as smooth and firm as a schoolgirl's. Seems almost too good to be true, but the actual experience quickly removes all doubt.

All one need do is to procure an original package of Tarkroot from the druggist, mix a spoonful with a spoonful of lemon juice and apply with the fingers. This, of course, is perfectly harmless. It is easily washed off, leaving the face wonderfully refreshed and rejuvenated, with a healthy glow. And the cost of such application is less than three cents!

EDITORS PLEDGE RIVER SUPPORT

Delegates Tour Interior of Southland

San Bernardino Chamber Gives Banquet

Party Will Take Catalina Trip Today

SAN BERNARDINO, July 8. (Æ)—A resolution approving the Boulder Canyon dam project and pledging support for the legislation before Congress was adopted here tonight by the National Editorial Association, which today toured the interior of Southern California and completed the day at a banquet tendered by the Chamber of Commerce.

The editorial party today saw the results of irrigation by water transported from the mountains and used in the orange groves of Fontana, Bloomington, Riverside and Redlands.

Mayor Grant Holcomb presented the appeal in behalf of the Colorado River development. Frank C. Edgecombe, president of the association, of Geneva, Neb., suggested to the editors they voice their approval of the project, regarding which they had heard much since their arrival in California, and the resolution was unanimously adopted.

Herman Roe, the president-elect, and Mrs. Roe, of Norfolk, Minn., were slightly injured today in an automobile collision near Riverside. The editorial party left tonight for Los Angeles and tomorrow will go to Catalina Island.

EDITORS ON VISIT TO RIVERSIDE BEAUTY SPOTS

RIVERSIDE, July 8. (Exclusive)—Beauty spots of the Riverside district were visited today by members of the National Editorial Association, on a tour of the orange belt, following their convention at Los Angeles. Met at the train by a great motorcade, the editors were whisked out Magnolia and Victoria avenues, to the summit of Mt. Rubidoux, and to the lakes in Fairmount Park.

Following the automobile tour, the visitors were taken to the Mission Inn, where reception and entertainment had been arranged by the Riverside Chamber of Commerce. Luncheon was served in the inn patio, with Spanish senoritas strumming instruments from a balcony.

Frank Miller, master of the inn; Ross L. Hammond and President Hiram Whitehead of the Riverside Chamber of Commerce addressed the editors at a gathering in the inn music room. Frank C. Edgecomb, president of the national association, presided at this meeting. The remainder of the trip was spent in inspecting the inn, after which the editors were taken to San Bernardino in buses.

REDLANDS PLEASANT HOST TO EDITORS

REDLANDS, July 8. (Exclusive)—More than 400 pencil pushers, scribes, voices of the people—in other words, just plain editors—smiled their way through Redlands this afternoon when entertained here as a part of their jaunt through the great citrus belt.

The editors were brought from Riverside to Redlands by the way of Colton this afternoon, traveling in buses and getting a first-hand experience of the road system for which California is famous. They were driven in the front door of the National Orange Show Building and out the back door in order to get an idea of the size of that place, then over the new highway between Colton and Redlands.

They spent some time in Smiley Heights and then were entertained on the campus of the University of Redlands, finally being taken to Sylvan Park, where they were given an opportunity of taking a swim in the great outdoor plunge, regaled with oranges and plenty of orange juice and greeted by Mayor Wheaton, A. E. Brock, Senator King and newspaper men. From here they were taken to Highland and visited the State Asylum at Patton and then to San Bernardino for dinner.

ALASKAN EDITOR ATTENDING CONVENTION

Alaska is represented at the annual convention of the National Editorial Association by Harry G. Steel, editor of the Cordova Times, who is tarrying in Los Angeles for a fortnight's vacation.

"Cordova is the gateway to the Copper River country," said Mr. Steel, "and the first railroad built in Alaska extends from that thriving little city to the famous Kennicott mines, a distance of 190 miles, through one of the most scenic regions in all the world. Copper ore from these mines furnishes return cargo to the steamships, operating across the Gulf of Alaska, and thus makes possible the splendid passenger service, provided by the American lines. More tourists are visiting the territory this season than ever before—many of them journeying into the interior.

"Alaskans and all former Alaskans are deeply interested in your Los Angeles candidate for Governor, R. P. McClellan, who spent his early years in the North and was the discoverer of the great Bonanza mine at Kennicott. Cordova, indeed, owes its being largely to him, as he was also the moving spirit in the building of the Copper River Railroad."

Island Death Inquiry Dropped at Long Beach

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, July 8.—Police tonight dropped their investigation of the circumstances of the death of Robert E. Lyon, radio salesman of 2809 Marsh street, Los Angeles, reporting the case as suicide.

Lyon's body was found on Terminal Island Tuesday, clad in a bathing suit, a hand holding a revolver. The case was investigated on a murder angle on a report that Lyon had said a man was after him, accusing him of "chasing around with his wife."

Police said that Mrs. Lyon, who had begun a divorce action, said she and her husband had made up their differences and she had intended to drop the action.

While the distance between Cairo, Egypt, and Khartum, capital of the Sudan, is only a little more than that from New York to Chicago, a journey between the two requires four days of continuous travel.

THINKS CALIFORNIA VERY ACTIVE

Women Jurists Astound Japanese

Municipal Judge Georgia Bullock and Judge Kawamura

IN ABOUT two words, Judge Akio Kawamura's impression of America—by which he means Northern and Southern California—is that it is "very active."

Judge Kawamura, youngest jurist in Japan, has been designated by the Imperial Japanese government to tour the United States and Europe and study the legal procedure of the courts of those countries. He arrived in San Francisco three weeks ago from Tokio, his home, and has spent ten days of that time in Los Angeles.

Yesterday the judge was a visitor to Municipal Judge Georgia Bullock's court and spent the entire day on the bench with the woman jurist. Asked if Japan had any feminine judges, Judge Kawamura was astounded:

"In Japan we have not a woman that could do such a thing. We have not even any feminine lawyers."

Speaking of divorce in Japan, the oriental visitor said:

"The principal ground for divorce in Japan is non-support as you would say. When a Japanese's salary will no longer provide for his family, he brings his wife to court and they are divorced. Both go to work then and the children are taken care of by charitable organizations. It would not do for them to remain together, because you see, their family probably would continue to increase."

Judge Kawamura was enthusiastic about Los Angeles.

"Wherever one goes in the city," he said, "there is that dynamic, inherent activity. I am very much impressed. I think Los Angeles is to be a very, very great city."

While here the jurist is staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Y. Nagamine at 930 East Twenty-fourth street. He leaves in two weeks for Denver, where he will be the guest of Judge Ben Lindsay.

HEAR EX-TEACHER'S CHARGE

Board of Education Begins Examination of Immoral Conduct Accusation Against Principal

Charges of immoral conduct against Robert B. Emery, principal of the Ninth-street school, by Lois S. Saxton, a teacher at the same school for ten years, were taken up by the Board of Education at a hearing in the Chamber of Commerce Building yesterday. Dismissal of the principal is demanded by Miss Saxton. A score or more of teachers formed an attentive audience during the first day's hearing.

Miss Saxton, a middle-aged woman attired completely in black except for a brown hat, was the chief witness during the hearing yesterday, and frankly told of her purported experience with the school principal.

She took the stand after Dr. Thomas J. Orbison, a specialist in nervous and mental cases, had testified that she suffered from a persecution complex and from psychosis of the paranoid type. She had been dismissed from the service on May 20, last.

CHARGES FAMILIARITY

She declared that Mr. Emery had begun to treat her with offensive familiarity sometime in 1917. She related in great detail the circumstances of her asserted involuntary trysts with the school head. The affair began, she said, when she entered the supply closet in the school one day. Mr. Emery grabbed her and then hugged and kissed her, her story went.

"I'll scream if you don't stop this," she declared she told him but to this he answered:

"You'll do just as your principal tells you."

The drab story ended with Miss Saxton's matter of fact recitation of a trip with Mr. Emery to Griffith Park.

Frequent and spirited clashes between the witness and Superintendent of Schools Dorsey and opposing counsel marked the hearing.

Mrs. Dorsey forced the witness to confess that though her asserted experiences with the principal began in 1917 or 1918, she had never appeared to complain of them before the Board of Education until 1922 and that when she did appear, she flatly refused to file formal charges.

HAD SANITY HEARING

It was also brought out in the testimony of Dr. Orbison, that Miss Saxton had appeared before the lunacy commission for a hearing as to her sanity and that she had been repeatedly been examined by alienists.

Dr. Aaron J. Rosanoff, another alienist, followed Miss Saxton on the stand and declared that her mental condition was not such as would prevent her from observing, recalling and communicating facts as she observed them. He declared that she apparently was suffering from a psychopathic personality of a paranoid state, but that this condition, in her case, would tend to make her adhere strictly to the facts as she knew them though these might injure herself and others without accomplishing any good.

President Odell of the school board presided at the trial, which will be resumed at 8 a.m. today. Attorneys S. W. Thompson and Joseph A. Spray represent Mr. Emery and Attorney J. M. Pursee acted for Miss Saxton.

CHARGE OF LAZINESS SUFFICES

Virginia Valli, film actress, cut down her expenses notably yesterday, according to the story she told Judge Valentine. This she did with the help of the judge himself, who granted her a divorce from Demarest Lamson.

"I couldn't afford him any longer. He wouldn't work. I had to support both him and myself. I would ask him to go to work, and instead he would go to the bootlegger and come home drunk. When I insisted that he work, he got mad and left," she testified.

The couple were married in 1919 and separated in 1924.

KEMP WILL MANAGE CRAIL'S CAMPAIGN

John W. Kemp, pioneer Los Angeles attorney and for many years identified with the Republican party and a supporter of the Boulder Dam project, announced yesterday that he has accepted the chairmanship of the campaign committee for Joe Crail, candidate for the Tenth District Republican Congressional nomination. "The best way that the people of Los Angeles can assure themselves of success in the great Boulder Dam enterprise is to elect to Congress one who not only is in sympathy with this project but in harmony with the Republican administration that is in control at Washington," said Mr. Kemp, in announcing his connection with the Crail campaign.

Fight Launched on Rockefeller Dividends Gift

NEW YORK, July 8. (Æ)—Three organizations established by John D. Rockefeller oppose the payment to his daughter, Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, of $7,500,000 as stock dividends on stock of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, which was put in trust for her by her father in 1917. These are the Rockefeller Foundation, the Institute for Medical Research and the General Education Board.

The original trust consisted of shares which have been increased by new issues of stock paid as dividends. The trust company asks the court to rule what proportion of these stock dividends shall be considered capital and what proportion income.

Harold F. McCormick, divorced husband of Mr. Rockefeller's daughter, opposes the payment to her of the $7,500,000. He and his children contend that the stock dividend should be added to the capital of the trust fund and not considered as income.

TRAEGER TO TALK TO NATIVE SONS

As Past Grand President of the Native Sons of the Golden West, Sheriff Traeger will be the guest of honor and deliver the address of the evening at a joint installation of officers of six parlors of the order tomorrow night at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse in Glendale. Ronald H. Ross, Deputy Grand President for the district, will seat sixty officers of Ramona, Vaquero, Los Angeles, Hollywood, Glendale and Pasadena parlors. Burleigh Neighbors, retiring president of the Ramona parlor, will be master of ceremonies.

SAVING PLAN ON DAYLIGHT URGED HERE

Chamber Approves Move for New California Law; President Tells Reason

Daylight saving for California was given the approval of the manufacturing committee of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday, according to an announcement last night by President Bent of the chamber, who declared it to be to the advantage of Los Angeles and California to step into line with other large cities of the nation in adopting this form of making working conditions more agreeable.

It is planned by the Chamber of Commerce to co-operate with other commercial and civic organizations of California in perfecting a movement for procuring legislative action which will bring California under the daylight schedule now enjoyed by other States.

"It is to the best interests of the State that daylight saving become a law in California," declared Mr. Bent. "California producers are placed at a great disadvantage by being an hour out of line with eastern markets."

Mr. Bent further pointed out that a large number of the persons coming to California are drawn here by the sunshine and outdoor recreational possibilities. With an extra hour of daylight each day, those coming to California for their health and pleasure would have the many advantages of the extra time afforded by this plan.

This would be true also of industrial workers and school children, who have only a limited period of sunlight each day. Better results could be expected because of the extra daylight hours gained by these indoor workers, asserts Mr. Bent.

POLICE HUNT FOREMAN IN PICK ATTACK

County Employee Asserted to Have Felled Coworker With Heavy Tool

Search for D. W. Rowlett, 38 years of age, of Upland, a foreman in the county flood-control field force, was started yesterday by deputy sheriffs after Rowlett made an asserted attack with a pick upon Martin C. Miller, a laborer. Rowlett went to his home, got his wife and disappeared in his car after the attack, it was said.

The trouble took place at the North Pomona dam near Upland, the report said. The two men had some words, and the foreman is declared to have seized the pick, knocked Miller down with it and stood over him with the pick raised as if about to drive it through his skull. Cries of other workmen, it was said, brought Rowlett to himself, and he dropped the pick and ran away.

Miller will recover from his injuries, it was said.

CHILD WINS CLEMENCY FOR PARENT

Father Given Probation on Charge of Stealing Gold From Dentist

His admission to a probation officer that he had formerly averaged a profit of $1000 a month by buying scrap dental gold and false teeth from undertakers nearly cost Howard B. Dignal his liberty yesterday. Judge Keetch granted him two years' probation, for the sake, the jurist said, of his wife and daughter, a child 3 years of age, instead of a sentence of one to fourteen years for burglary.

Dignal was convicted of entering the office of Dr. E. G. Thornberg, a dentist, 609 South Grand avenue, and stealing $40 worth of scrap gold. Judge Keetch scored Dignal severely for what he called ghoulish practices and told him the probation officer's report had nearly caused him to refuse probation.

Second Land Cruise Party in Port Here

Bringing two score well-to-do tourists from eastern cities, the second de luxe Raymond & Whitcomb "land-cruise" trains of the summer season "made port" shortly before noon yesterday at Pasadena. The tourists immediately were taken on sightseeing trips about Pasadena, Los Angeles, Hollywood and neighboring cities.

Members of the tourist party will remain here until Saturday afternoon, when the train, a modern liner on wheels, will leave over the Southern Pacific's Coast line for the north. Visits are to be made at Santa Barbara, Paso Robles, Del Monte, Big Trees, San Francisco and Yosemite before the tourists continue to Portland and Seattle.

Carroll Hutchins, veteran tour conductor who has been bringing tourists to California since 1885, is in charge of the party. The train equipment is the most modern, having special drawing-rooms with real beds, radio, phonograph, gymnasium, theater-room and dance hall for the entertainment of the travelers.

Driver of Auto Struck by Train Lies Near Death

An automobile driven by A. F. Headley, 21 years of age, a service station operator, living at 948 West One Hundred and Second street, was struck by a Pacific Electric Redondo train at One Hundred and Seventeenth street and Vermont avenue yesterday, police reported.

Headley was taken to the Receiving Hospital where Police Surgeon Carey stated his injuries may prove fatal. He suffered concussion of the brain and a possible skull fracture. His machine was wrecked.

FIRST FOR "KING OF KINGS"

Victor Varconi is Cast for De Mille Biblical Film; Hungarian Author With Paramount; Sally O'Neil Draws Plum

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

Perhaps the most important film, from many standpoints, ever made will be Cecil B. De Mille's "King of Kings," picturizing the life of Christ. Not only because of the tremendous significance of the subject, which of course has a boundless number of important implications and phrases, but because Mr. De Mille has a brilliant genius for the presentation of subjects of holy writ, as evidenced in his "Ten Commandments," the whole world is looking toward him at this time with eagerness regarding his plans for the great film.

VICTOR VARCONI

The casting of the various parts is of course of the greatest importance, and Mr. De Mille and his staff are spending long hours in consideration of various actors for the different roles.

In talking with Mr. De Mille yesterday, I learned that one actor has been so definitely settled upon for a certain role that the producer is ready to announce him. This player is Victor Varconi, who is to have the role of Pontius Pilate.

Mr. Varconi made a very definite place for himself in the hearts of discriminating fans by his playing of his role in "The Volga Boatman," and it is on the strength of this role that he is being given the part in "The King of Kings."

Other announcements of the casting of various roles will be given out within a day or two, we are told.

In the meantime tremendous preparations for the filming of "The King of Kings" are going forward, including research work, experiments in photography and other details.

Lajos Biro With Paramount

These Hungarians certainly do seem to be making a stir in Hollywood.

Take Lajos Biro, for instance. Mr. Biro wrote "Hotel Imperial," which is to serve as Pola Negri's next Paramount picture, as well as other outstanding novels and plays popular in Europe and being translated here for the American benefit.

And yesterday it was announced that Mr. Biro is to be intrusted by Paramount with the highly important and difficult task of preparing H. G. Wells's "War of the Worlds" for the screen.

This picture is to be made one of the most spectacular features which Paramount has ever turned out. It will have not only spectacular, however, but great dramatic appeal, and is to be presented of course, by an all-star cast, no member of which, however, so far as I can learn has been settled upon.

Mr. Biro has been in New York since February, but is now on his way to Hollywood, and will arrive within a day or two, unless it chances that he has taken a stop-over at the Grand Canyon or some other point of interest on the way.

The writer has been placed under contract by Paramount, who expects to keep him busy on important tasks requiring high skill in writing following his completion of work on "The War of the Worlds." This, however, will probably take him several months.

Sally O'Neil In It

Sally O'Neil has captured one of the prize roles of the season. After considering practically every available young woman in pictures, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer have selected Sally for the part of Nita, the feminine lead in "The Mysterious Island," adapted from Jules Verne's novel.

SALLY O'NEIL

This was announced last night by Hunt Stromberg, who will produce this fantastic picture.

Selected by Marshall Neilan a little over a year ago for a role in "Mike," Sally O'Neil, who never previously had been before the camera, made a great hit in the ingenue role assigned her. She has played leading roles for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer ever since in such pictures as "Sally, Irene and Mary," "The Auction Block," "Battling Butler" and "A Certain Young Man."

Actual production of "The Mysterious Island" begins this week under direction of Maurice Tourneur.

The undersea sequences of the picture are to be filmed in Technicolor photography. The many spectacular submarine shots will be photographed by the Williamson process of undersea photography, by means of which the camera actually is lowered into the depths of the sea, under the personal direction of J. E. Williamson.

The Bahama Islands will be the location in which the picture will be filmed.

Lionel Barrymore will have the masculine lead in the picture, with Carl Dane, Warner Oland and Jacqueline Gadsden in principal supporting roles.

Warners Engage Opera Stars

The Warner Brothers are so enthusiastic over the Vitaphone, a newly invented sound-distributing instrument used in connection with pictures, that they are signing a number of Metropolitan Opera Company stars to sing for it, according to announcement made yesterday.

Giovanni Martinelli, Marion Talley and Anna Case were announced to sing by means of the Vitaphone in connection with the presentation of "Don Juan," which is to open on August 5 at the Egyptian.

To the accompaniment of the Philharmonic Orchestra of over 100 pieces, Martinelli has already sung the famous "Pagliaccio" aria, which at the conclusion was pronounced by Walter J. Rich of the Vitaphone Company and Sam Warner of Warner Brothers a perfect "take," technically as well as artistically.

These scenes will be shown at the "Don Juan" premiere, the screen prologue for which will be sung by Anna Case. Marion Talley, who last winter became a prima donna while still in her teens, will sing "Care Nome" and "Home Sweet Home" as her first screen songs. The entire Metropolitan Operahouse orchestra will accompany Anna Case when she appears before the camera.

Henry Hadley composed the score, a Spanish prelude, to "Don Juan."

All production activities at the Manhattan Operahouse, which the Vitaphone Company recently took over for its productions, are under the supervision of Sam Warner, of Warner Brothers.

Patsy Ruth Miller Home

After spending two weeks at Lake Arrowhead with her parents and brothers, Patsy Ruth Miller returned to her Beverly Hills home yesterday full of pep, and good nature and all ready to take her orders from the Warner Brothers.

Miss Miller will start work today in the feminine lead of "Private Izzy Murphy," starring George Jessel and directed by Henry Lehrman. When that picture is finished, Pat will play the star role in "The Third Degree," from the old Klein mystery play.

Beas Meredyth, who seems to have had a finger in the pie in most of the successful Warner Brothers' pictures, is writing the scenario for "The Third Degree."

Jacqueline Logan Works

Work is work in pictures, no matter what the title of the feature, and so, though Jacqueline Logan still has a vacation coming following her two months' rest, and though the title of the picture has a languorous, vacationy sound, Jacqueline feels that she will be really working when she begins today the leading role in "One Hour of Love," the Tiffany production of which she has just signed.

JACQUELINE LOGAN

Robert Fraser will play the male lead and will head the cast with Miss Logan. Others in principal roles will be Mildred Harris, Montague Love, William Austin, Hazel Keener and Duane Thompson. Robert Florey will direct. The picture is to be made at the Roach Studios, where studio space has been leased by the company.

Renee Adoree Comes Home

Renee Adoree, love affair or no love affair, back there in New York, has left that center of art and culture, and will arrive in Los Angeles on Saturday. She is to play the leading feminine role in "The Flaming Forest," which Reginald Barker is to direct.

Rex Lease in It

Just by way of showing that because a man is a picture actor is no reason why he cannot also make a good impression in the spoken drama, Rex Lease is bestowing his talents on that uplift organization, the Potboilers, and will appear tomorrow night in "Veaks," a one-acter by Harold Miller. The piece will be a part of the program to be presented at the Gamut Club by the Potboilers.

Lule Warrenton, well-known character actress, will have the other part in the playlet.

Leeds Baxter Elected

Leeds Baxter has been elected to the office of treasurer of the Writers' Club, succeeding John Jasper, the latter being forced to retire on account of bad health.

Baxter is vice-president and general manager of the Marshall Neilan Studios.

FEITSHANS WILL HEAD NEW GROUP

Greater First-Street Body Permanently Organized to Create New Artery

F. R. Feitshans was elected president of the recently organized Greater First Street Association yesterday when a permanent organization for the purpose of making First Street a great east-and-west cross-town traffic artery was perfected.

Other officers chosen were Eli P. Clark, James Macklin of Whittier, Edward C. Taylor and Royal Wheeler, vice-presidents; Fred L. Mowder, secretary; James A. Martin, treasurer.

In addition to the officers, the following will serve on the board of directors: George W. C. Baker, Leo Bergin, E. P. Bogardus, Norman Chandler, Harry Philip, S. R. Raphael, Judge U. M. Thomas and Rodney Webster.

Mr. Feitshans declared the development of First street will meet the need for a great cross-town traffic thoroughfare.

"This great cross-town thoroughfare, demanded by people in all parts of the city and county as a means of easy access to the new Civic Center, the proposed Union Station at the Plaza and the northern section of the metropolitan business area will benefit every section of Los Angeles," he said.

Visiting Editors Will be Bowl Guests Tonight

Members of the National Editorial Association and their friends here following the annual convention in Los Angeles will be guests of the Hollywood Bowl Association tonight.

Officially proclaimed editors' night, the concert program will be delivered by Emil Oberhoffer, former Minneapolis Symphony director, who opened the season for the Bowl.

About 900 are expected to attend in the editorial parties, including the 480 visiting editors themselves and their friends. A special block of seats has been set aside.

TRAFFIC CLUBS TO VISIT WAREHOUSE

Members of the Woman's Traffic Club and the Los Angeles Transportation Club will be guests of the Hollywood Fireproof Storage Company at a luncheon at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the new $750,000 Hollywood Storage Building, Highland avenue, just south of Santa Monica Boulevard. Following the luncheon the guests will be shown through the height-limit structure, said to be the most artistic storage building on the Pacific Coast.

Council Asked for Money to Widen Slauson

Councilman Shaw yesterday asked the City Council to contribute from the public improvement fund, $50,000 toward the cost of widening Slauson avenue from Figueroa street to Central avenue.

These proceedings are a part of the general plan for making Slauson avenue a through wide traffic artery from Whittier to the ocean, and because of the general benefit, the Councilman said that the city should aid with a $50,000 contribution, the property owners who are to be assessed. The request was referred to the Council's finance committee.

The plans call for an eighty-foot thoroughfare with a fifty-six foot roadway. In the section from Figueroa street to Central Avenue, it will be necessary to take from the south side of the street twenty-seven feet as the Santa Fe railroad's right of way prevents any land being taken for the widening from the north side of the street.

About 92 per cent of the whole number of persons engaged as typists and stenographers in this country are women.

"SHEIK" NO SHOCKER

LIKE FATHER, LIKE SON, IS NEW DESERT HERO

By Edwin Schallert

Judging by the excellent condition of the turbans worn by the men, and the attractiveness of the coiffures adorning the women in "The Son of the Sheik," which opened yesterday at the Million Dollar Theater, the fact may be gratuitously chronicled that the laundries and the hair-dressing parlors in the Arabian desert of romantic memory are still doing a land-office business.

It would be impossible to tell the exact location of either of the aforementioned establishments from any evidence proffered on the screen, but that is negative proof in itself, no doubt, that the sheik of fancy is with us once again. And, incidentally and quite appropriately he is impersonated, as you doubtless know, or would expect, by his original creator—none other than Rudolph Valentino.

The debut of the sheik's offspring, who is very much like his father, was celebrated with acclaim last evening. While there was not a special premiere, as sometimes—though rarely now—transpires at the theater at Third and Broadway, Rudy himself made a personal appearance, and by way of adding unintentionally to the eventfulness of the opening came very near sustaining a serious casualty after he had been introduced and made a speech to the audience.

He appeared on the stage just before the closing showing and after expressing his gratification over the reception tendered his production, he started to step down a narrow stairway that led into the audience beside the proscenium arch.

At that moment a huge oriental vase—a stage ornament—toppled over on him. He lost his balance, struggled a moment to regain it by grasping at the proscenium arch, and then fell flat on his back into the orchestra pit.

As a result of the fall, Valentino was stunned momentarily, but he arose before any of the theater attendants coming to his rescue could reach him, climbed out of the pit and walked down the aisle of the theater, while the audience which had gasped audibly when they had seen him lose his footing, applauded thunderously. He was fortunate in sustaining only a few bruises.

The attendance at the opening was unusually large. There were long lines for both evening screenings of the picture, and particularly for that presentation at which the star himself was scheduled to appear. It was the first time that he had made a personal appearance in conjunction with one of his starring productions here. As he himself stated, and though he had made similar appearances in the East, he diplomatically declared that this was the most pleasurable for him personally.

The picture, which was shown for its world premiere, also seemed to bring a surprisingly good response from the audience, though it must be said that the majority were properly attuned for its reception by their anticipations of being present at the opening showing, and also seeing the star himself.

It cannot be said on this account alone that "The Son of the Sheik" is a step forward for Valentino professionally. The picture may become widely popular because there probably exists a certain curiosity to behold him in a role very similar to that in which he gained a great vogue five years ago.

That type of curiosity alone itself hardly does not necessarily imply complete satisfaction.

Frankly, I found the story rather tediously reminiscent. Beautifully embellished as the scenes were, with fine vistas of desert, palm trees, camels, horses, and all the familiar so-called oriental embellishments, there was a peculiar insistence on the resurrecting of the romantic situations of the original "Sheik." The tent which the young sheik occupied reminded one very much of the one in which the original sheik sought to discipline, and incidentally maul, the fair lady.

The production gets away to a very slow start with a cut-back right after the opening shots. It is from the modern standpoint poorly constructed, and only really begins to move along quite a few reels after the opening.

The best part is the climax, and that has some very creditable elements of suspense. The scene in the cafe where the young sheik discloses his identity to the dancer is acceptably handled, as is the fight with Valentino playing both father and son, literally coming to his own rescue.

This dual portrayal unfortunately reminds quite a bit of a similar stunt done by Douglas Fairbanks in "The Son of Zorro."

It is fortunate for many of the individual scenes in the picture that Valentino has such a personification of luscious loveliness as Vilma Banky playing the heroine opposite him. The quality of her acting has never been finer, and her work really is splendidly emotional.

Valentino himself sustains his youthful portrayal to the best advantage. I did not care for him at all as the aged sheik. His make-up, for one thing, gave him a somewhat ghostly appearance, which might seem to many rather unconsciously appropriate. Valentino cuts quite a figure on horseback, and the sheik headgear still emphasizes his personality.

Agnes Ayres's brief appearance in the original character that she played in "The Sheik," now aged somewhat, attracted interest. Montague Love did his villaining villainously, while Karl Dane, Bull Montana, Bynunsky Hyman and William Donovan contributed literally to the humor.

The pictorial beauty of the film and the acting of the principals, too, no doubt, reflect large credit to George Fitzmaurice, who directed from the adaptation of the E. M. Hull novel by Frances Marion. The picture is scenically alluring throughout.

The prologue is an exceptionally well-staged production, and is sponsored by Paul Charlott.

IRVIN COBB GUEST OF HERBERT COMPANY

Irvin S. Cobb will be the special guest of the W. P. Herbert Company, automobile distributors, at a theater party to be given by the organization tomorrow night in Grauman's Egyptian Theater.

Invitations have been sent by the company to large numbers of persons associated with the organization in distribution of cars, and Sid Grauman has given the performance of Mary Pickford in "Sparrows" and Douglas Fairbanks in "The Black Pirate" the designation of "W. P. Herbert Nights."

INTERMISSION!

Famous Jailbreaker Here—Pola, Ugly Duckling—Miniature Movie Stars

by HERBERT MOULTON

And now the Elastic Lady, the Great Indian Basket Trick, the Living Pin Cushion and the Great Jail-Breaking Mystery. These, and other baffling feats, will be exposed to the public's gaze when Nicola, "the only white man to beat the fakirs of the Far East at their own game" parks his trappings at the Orpheum Sunday.

Nicola, judging from advance reports, is one of those mysterious gentlemen who takes delightin showing us that the impossible is possible. For twenty-six years he has studied and practiced his art in China, Japan and Egypt.

But although he is a magician par excellence, Nicola doesn't look like one. He is said to have the geniality of a Rotarian and the pep of a real-estate salesman. All of which is in strange contrast to the mystifying tricks that comprise his act.

His specialty seems to lie in escaping from prison cells, handcuffs, irons, chains, strait-jackets and other devices of the jailer's art. Clever as he may be in disentagling himself from these restraining contraptions, it remains to be seen whether Nicola gives local theatergoers a thrill with his stunts.

For jail-breaking isn't the spectacular thing it used to be—in Los Angeles.

I don't know whether Avery Hopwood had anything to do with it or not, but "Good and Naughty" has a peculiarly Hopwoodish sound.

It was he, at any rate, who did the adaptation of this new Pola Negri picture, so it is to be assumed that it will have some of the sentiments that characterized Mr. Hopwood's boudoir farces on the stage.

In addition to this there will be the prospect of seeing just how Pola looks when she decides to let Beauty alone and go in for Art. She has never before attempted an ugly duckling role and now we shall have the opportunity to observe her as a dowdy stenographer in the first part of the picture and her usual gorgeously-gowned self at the fadeout.

"Good and Naughty" is the screen version of "Naughty Cinderella," the French farce in which Irene Bordoni recently appeared at the Biltmore. Tom Moore and Ford Sterling afford support to Miss Negri and assist her in putting over the comedy that Director Malcolm St. Clair has fitted into the story. The film opens today at the Metropolitan.

Don Barclay, the New York and London comedian, will be the stellar attraction on the Fanchon and Marco stage presentation at Loew's beginning today.

He was formerly the leading comedian with the Ziegfeld Follies and followed this with forty-one weeks at the London Palace and a year with the Greenwich Village Follies. He also played in Fanchon and Marco's Sunkist Revue during its eastern tour.

"Jack Laughlin's California Babies" will make their bow at the Figueroa today in conjunction with the showing of Dolores Costello's new starring picture, "The Little Irish Girl."

The youngsters will give impersonations of some of the screen's leading luminaries, with what is said to be a replica of one of the rooms in Gloria Swanson's home for a setting.

Miss Costello, incidentally, is another star who, like Pola Negri, sacrifices her beauty and goes in for drama without the frills. In "The Little Irish Girl" she is hard-boiled, disillusioned and cynical—until, of course, she meets the hero. The latter, a country boy, is played by John Harron.

If you haven't had an opportunity to see Paramount's new French "find" as yet, you'll probably be interested in a visit to the Criterion next week.

Arlette Marchal, who hails from Paris, claims that she achieved a lifelong ambition when she was selected to play in a western. She portrays "Belle of Paradise Bar," —which certainly sounds western enough—in the screen version of Zane Grey's "Born to the West."

ARLETTE MARCHAL

Jack Holt, Raymond Hatton, George Siegman and Margaret Morris are the others who pursue the western drama over its perilous course.

The life of the Russian people offers more contrast and color than any other nationality, including the Chinese, in the opinion of Lenore J. Coffee, who wrote the adaptation, continuity and titles for "The Volga Boatman," the current fare at the Carthay Circle.

LENORE J. COFFEE

She ought to know, too, for she not only studied the Russians, but spent considerable time in "Little Russia," in the Hollenbeck Heights district, in order to gain local color.

Which probably has something to do with the well-nigh perfect atmosphere that surrounds Cecil B. De Mille's opus of Red and revolutionary Russia.

"Paris" Stars Are Guests at Loew's Tonight

Charles Ray and Joan Crawford will be the guests of honor at Loew's State Theater tonight in connection with the showing of "Paris."

Both Mr. Ray and Miss Crawford are the stars of "Paris," the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture which arrived at Loew's today.

At the conclusion of the personal appearances of Mr. Ray and Miss Crawford, they will be the guests for Fanchon and Marco at a party on the stage of the theater, at which will be present Charlie Hoff, "The Vaulting Viking," who will be on the bill in connection with the feature picture. Don Barclay, late comedian with the Ziegfeld Follies, is co-featured by Fanchon and Marco with Charlie Hoff.

CLOTHING AWARDS IN DANCE CONTEST

Lela May Chambers, screen actress is to act as guest of honor at El Patio Ballroom tonight, and will award the prizes to the winners of the Collegiate contest. Instead of presenting loving cups to the winners of the contest, as has been the usual custom, this week the prizes will be a suit of clothes for the boy, and a sport outfit for the girl.

SYMPHONY PLEASES

Beethoven Pastoral Conducted With Skill at Bowl

BY ISABEL MORSE JONES

With consummate taste, Emil Oberhoffer, conductor of the current two weeks' Bowl concerts, chose the "Pastoral Symphony" of Beethoven for the piece de resistance of the orchestra program last night. The wisdom of putting it on the end of a long concert-list was not so certain, however.

Mr. Oberhoffer's Beethoven, as exemplified in this symphony was mildly soothing, with very moderate changes in tonal volume and almost no variation in tempo. It was dignified and expressive of the serene, happy moods of nature untroubled by stress or struggle. Jay Plowe added much to the beauty of the whole by his exquisite flute-playing and the tasteful phrasing of the violin sections lifted the tenor of the performance to a high plane.

The young baritone, Jerome Swinford, who made his western debut at the Bowl last night, displayed a voice of natural beauty marred by faulty breathing and a noticeable excess of confidence. The Handel aria "Where'er You Walk," and his second encore "The Volga Boatman," were, possibly, the most enjoyable of his five songs because they served to show the naturally attractive quality of his voice to advantage. Mr. Swinford has impeccable intonation. He also sang the "Song of the Pilgrim" (Tschaikowsky) and Beethoven's "Adoration."

Other numbers on the orchestral program were the novelties, "Alborado del Grazioso," by Ravel, a Spanish fantasy which had to be repeated, the Lalo overture to "Le Roi d'Ys" and a seldom-heard Goldmark Scherzo.

The new shell which surrounds the orchestra is an artistic success but an acoustical failure. The brass, tympani and wood winds get the full benefit of the back wall, while the strings are muffled by many feet of padded space on either side of the center. Thus the orchestra loses its richness and the less important parts of the ensemble come into undue prominence. At least this seemed to be so from the seats at the extreme left close to the stage.

Respighi's "Pines of Rome" and the Brahms Symphony No. 4 are to be played tonight.

'Fire Brigade' Will be Shown at Convention

Delegates to the International convention of the Association of Fire Engineers of America will be the first to view "The Fire Brigade," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's picture of the fire-fighters of America, filmed with the co-operation of the organization, according to an announcement made yesterday.

The picture, it is said, will do incalculable good in bringing graphically before the people the message of the American firemen. It will bring home the facts of the millions of dollars in property and thousands of lives lost annually through fire destruction, and carry a powerful call to the public at large to rally to the cause of fire prevention.

The picture, it is announced, will give to the public the true story of the fire fighters, and place before audiences facts regarding the men of the fire departments never before given them. It was produced by Hunt Stromberg and filmed under the direction of William Nigh, assisted by a staff of technical experts culled from the biggest fire departments.

BEE HIVE ACTIVITY ON UNIVERSAL LOT

THREE FEATURES INCLUDED ON BUSY SCHEDULE OF PRODUCTION

With production steadily mounting during the past month, eleven companies are now shooting on the Universal lot.

Three features, a western, three serials and four comedies are in production at Universal City.

The features shooting are "Taxi! Taxi!" with Edward Everett Horton and Marian Nixon, directed by Melville Brown; "The Texas Streak" starring Hoot Gibson, directed by Lynn Reynolds, and "The Fourth Commandment," directed by Emory Johnson with an all-star cast including Belle Bennett, Henry Victor, Mary Carr, Robert Agnew and June Marlowe.

The second of the series of ten two-reelers comprising "The Collegians," is in production with Harry Edwards directing and George Lewis starred. William Desmond is starring in "The Return of the Riddle Rider," directed by Robert Hill, and "Wallace MacDonald is starring in "Whispering Smith Rides," under the direction of Ray Taylor.

Willy Wyler is directing Fred Humes in "True Blue," a feature-length western.

REGINALD POLE WILL PRODUCE IN LONDON

Reginald Pole will soon leave for London to supervise the production of his own musical drama "Bethnaan" which he has been writing at Palm Springs. His work is said to be a new form of musical production. It takes all through the acts the ensemble of orchestra, singers and actors. Arrangements have also been made to have him produce in London "The Idiot" by Dostoievsky and "Rosmerholm" by Ibsen.

Before leaving Pole will play for The Potboiler Art Theater on the 17th inst. "The Great Adventure" a four act comedy by Arnold Bennett.

W. C. FIELDS COMEDY ON RIALTO SCREEN

"It's The Old Army Game," is the featured attraction which opens today at the Rialto Theater.

W. C. Fields, who plays the part of a small-town druggist, starts a promotion game which makes all of his friends wealthy and lands him in jail. He proves to be the town's benefactor and for once fails to live up to his motto, "Never give a sucker an even break." Louise Brooks plays the leading role opposite Fields.

James Cruze, Paramount director, is claimed to have been one of the best motion-picture actors in the industry. On the other hand, Wallace Beery, versatile character player, was once a director. Cruze now is directing Beery in "Old Ironsides," heroic story of the frigate Constitution, and the early navy of the United States colonies.

NEWS OF SOUTHERN COUNTIES

JUDGE LOSES LOTS OF SLEEP

Chinese Broker Insists on Return of Trunk

Trouble Grows Out of Court Case at Ontario

Surety Company Finally Puts Up Bail Money

ONTARIO, July 8.—A trunk that recently figured in bringing about the arrest of H. B. Wright on a burglary charge last night became the indirect cause of a sleepless night for Judge George Holbrook, when he was routed from his bed shortly before midnight to issue a warrant for the arrest of M. B. Sing, a Chinese broker, giving his address as 506 North Westmoreland, Los Angeles, on a charge of disturbing the peace preferred by Wright. Chief of Police Hardy and Patrolman Sydenstryker took the Chinese into custody about 11:30 last night, after they had been summoned to the Wright home in West Ralston street by telephone and told that Sing was rousing the neighborhood and threatening to smash in the doors if the trunk, which Wright stated was the property of his sister, was not immediately turned over to him.

Then followed the issuance of the warrant by Judge Holbrook, who fixed bail at $1000 when the disturber was placed in jail pending his furnishing the necessary bond, and the court retired to his bed chamber.

But sleep for the judge was of short duration, for at 3 o'clock this morning he was awakened by a representative of a Los Angeles surety concern, who had come to secure the release of his client. However, upon examination the bond proved to have been executed for use in Los Angeles county. His honor, after refusing to accept it, again retired and was undisturbed until 9:45, when the solicitor returned with a proper bond and secured the prisoner's release.

Attorney A. D. Mitchell, who represents Wright, stated this afternoon that Sing has been given until the 15th inst., to enter his plea. The attorney says that the previous case in which Wright figured in Los Angeles was dismissed and the trunk was supposed to have been turned over to his client's sister.

HAVE EXCITING CHASE

Pomona Officers Arrest Man for Assaulting Wife

POMONA, July 8.—After a chase extending from Azusa to this city, and figuring in two automobile wrecks en route, H. E. Quinn, 33-year-old cook, was cornered in a manger in an old barn in the Ganesha Park grounds early today and arrested upon a charge of assaulting his wife and also upon a petty larceny charge as a result of the asserted theft of an automobile belonging to C. Ybarra, 580 West Tenth street, the value of the car being under $100.

Constable Hamblin of Azusa and a detail from the Pomona police department made the arrest. The Quinns formerly ran a small restaurant in this city and local police arrested the man several times for cruelty to his wife, until he was finally ordered to leave the city. He then moved to Azusa where, apparently, the family war has not subsided.

According to the Azusa authorities, Quinn appropriated the car of Ybarra on the night of the 5th inst., drove to Azusa where his wife was living and according to her story, attacked her with a butcher knife and severely choked her. He was turned over to Hamblin and lodged in jail in lieu of bail.

WEDS MINOR DAUGHTER

Mother Rushes from Hospital to Prevent Wedding

FRESNO, July 8.—After he had saved her mother, Mrs. Eva Beck, from an attempt at suicide, and she was in the hospital recovering, Stanley L. Watson, 23 years of age, secured a license to wed Catherine Carson, 16 years of age. The girl gave her age as 18 in securing the license.

As far as could be learned, the couple were not married today. Mrs. Beck seized her clothes and left the hospital without waiting to be discharged when she heard that the license had been issued.

According to Dr. T. M. Jacovics, resident physician at the Fresno county General Hospital, Watson gave the impression that Mrs. Beck was his fiance when he brought her there for treatment. Mrs. Beck said that her daughter was only 15 years of age and search for the couple was instituted.

HOLIDAYS BRING CASH TO RESORT

BALBOA, July 8.—All records in bank deposits for one day were broken Tuesday when local merchants deposited more than $56,000 received during the holidays. Never before in the history of the town have bank deposits reached that amount for a similar period, according to bank officials. According to Miss Lillian Van Osdale, secretary of the Balboa Chamber of Commerce, approximately 50,000 persons visited Balboa over the week-end. Despite the fact that hundreds who spent the holidays at Balboa have left, real estate dealers report that they have few houses to rent. Hotels and rooming-houses are filled to capacity, according to reports, and only a few rooms are available.

MAYOR IN RACE FOR COUNTY ASSESSOR

SANTA ANA, July 8.—Another contest was assured for the present political campaign today when Mayor Harry H. Crooke of Fullerton announced that he would be a candidate for the office, of County Assessor. Crooke's definite decision to oppose County Assessor James Sleeper for re-election was reached after some days of delay, while he considered the question of making the race. He is the first candidate to oppose Sleeper since 1914, when Sleeper carried every precinct in the county in a contest with Ed Vegeley, present City Clerk of Santa Ana.

Crooke, who is in the real estate business in Fullerton, is serving his first term as Mayor of that city.

KIDNAPING IS CHARGED BY POLICE

Officers Hold Pair at San Diego for Authorities in Kentucky

SAN DIEGO, July 8.—A tale of asserted kidnaping came to light today when Hazel Secrest, 17 years of age, and Charles Sullivan, 34, were arrested at the request of the Sheriff of Vanceburg, Ky. The two were picked up by Detective Sergeant J. L. Berg on information contained in a circular issued in Kentucky. It asserts that Sullivan is wanted in the southern State for issuing a bad check, contributing to the delinquency of a minor and violating the Mann Act.

Berg arrested the girl after she had left a teller's window in a bank here and at police headquarters she told her story, revealed the place where she was living and when Berg went to the address given he found Sullivan and arrested him.

The girl told Berg that Sullivan had forced his attentions on her in Kentucky and finally, she said, came to her one night and demanded that she accompany him to the West. She said he made threats against her relatives when she seemed reluctant to go with him. This was denied by Sullivan.

A reward of $300 was posted by Kentucky officers for the arrest of the couple and this will be paid to Berg, it is said. Both the man and the girl are said to be willing to return to Kentucky without extradition.

RAPID PROPERTY GAIN IN VENTURA COUNTY

VENTURA, July 8.—Increasing 20 per cent in a year, due to developments in the Ventura avenue oil field, the assessed valuation of Ventura county is now $66,191,070, or $11,641,000 more than last year, it was announced by County Assessor Jasper Barry today.

An increase of $10,000,000 in oil holdings is largely responsible while Ventura city property has increased $1,100,000 in the year. The total increase is the greatest in history for a single year.

Santa Paula gained $195,000 in the year; Oxnard grew $90,000 worth and Ojai took on $60,000 in development.

JURY REFUSES TO INDICT OFFICIAL

PASADENA, July 8.—Archie D. Orme, City Prosecutor of Pasadena, stated that he received word today that the Federal grand jury has refused to return an indictment against him after considering charges of interfering with a Federal officer brought against Orme by Chief Narcotic Agent C. J. Bright. The charges were brought after Orme ordered Bright out of a house after the latter had arrested Floyd Orme, brother of the City Prosecutor, on a charge of selling narcotics.

Orme was at liberty on $1000 bail when he appeared before the grand jury yesterday and gave his version of the affair. The bail had been set by United States Commissioner Head, before whom Orme was given a preliminary hearing last month.

EDUCATION COSTLY

Each Pasadena Child Received $280.85 Worth

PASADENA, July 8.—Each public-school pupil in Pasadena received $280.85 worth of education during the last twelve months, according to the annual report of Superintendent of Schools John Franklin West, who reported today that the cost of operating the schools here for the fiscal year ending June 30, last, was $3,905,585.58. Inasmuch as the average daily attendance was 13,906, the average cost of education per pupil for the year was $280.85. A conservative estimate places the total value of public school property in the city at approximately $7,500,000.

LARGE SHIPMENTS OF VALENCIA ORANGES

WHITTIER, July 8.—The Valencia orange season is now well under way in this district and, according to figures furnished by the Whittier District Fruit Exchange, ninety-one cars of fruit were shipped during the past week.

Of this number, forty-nine were Valencia oranges, twenty-nine lemons and the remaining three were principally of grapefruit and mixed. The exchange, which is a member of the California Fruit Exchange, is composed of seven associations, and the packing-houses are now humming with activity.

RAISE $30,000 FUND FOR ADVERTISING

SANTA MONICA, July 8.—A goal of $30,000 was set by the Greater Santa Monica Club at its meeting here, the money to be used for continuation of the organization's newspaper advertising of this city's advantages. An intensive subscription campaign is to be launched at once, according to President W. W. Bennett, and residents here will be given an opportunity to subscribe to a fund which has been of tremendous importance in the rapid growth and development of this community, club members state.

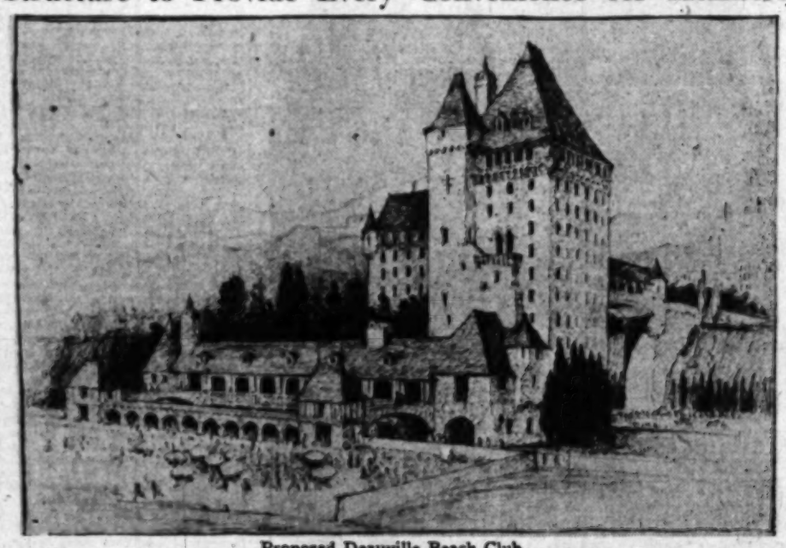
TO HOLD CONFERENCE WITH PRESIDENT

MEXICALI, July 8.—Gov. Abelardo Rodriguez plans to leave next Saturday or Sunday for Mexico City to discuss matters of importance to Lower California with President Calles, according to information given out at the territorial palace here today.

Plans for the development of the San Quintin irrigation project on the west coast south of Ensenada, are said to be among the most urgent matters requiring the Governor's

SPEND MILLION FOR NEW BEACH CLUB

Structure to Provide Every Convenience for Members



Proposed Deauville Beach Club

SANTA MONICA, July 8.—Designed to provide for a large membership of Southern Californians the smartest and best features of beach club development in Europe and America, a limit-height club building, to cost approximately $1,000,000, will be erected on property secured just north of the Santa Monica pier for the Deauville Beach Club, according to an announcement made today by J. J. Costello, vice-president of the board of governors of the club.

Associated with Mr. Costello in the enterprise is Dr. F. J. Wagner, Santa Monica capitalist and director of the Santa Monica branch of the Security Trust and Savings Bank. Dr. Wagner has been elected president of the Deauville Beach Club Holding Company, which owns title to the property to be improved. Other members of the board include C. J. Wilde, president of the Warman Steel Casting Company; George L. Patterson, owner of the Patterson Electric Company; Erwin Phillips, Beverly Hills capitalist; Hon. Rex B. Goodcell, former Collector of Internal Revenue, southern district; A. E. Colburn, president of A. E. Colburn, Inc., furriers; Dallas M. Fitzgerald, independent motion-picture producer; Hon. Judge Frederickson, judge of Municipal courts; Hon. Judge Victor R. McLucas, judge of the Superior Court; E. G. Leaf, Public Relations counsel; C. M. Fenton, Pasadena capitalist; R. B. Lawrence, secretary of the Santa Company; J. B. Fox, assistant chief, Sheriff's office, and Burt Kenaston, capitalist, Santa Monica.

Plans for the new building are now being prepared by Architects Morgan, Walls & Clements. In addition to the beach property, which has a depth of approximately 250 feet from the Ocean Front Boulevard to high-tide line, the club owns two lots at the top of the Palisades, directly opposite the site of the new building.

Arrangements have been concluded for a great bridge, connecting the main building with Ocean avenue, at the top of the Palisades, giving members of the club direct access to the building without driving down to the beach level. On the seventh floor of the building, opposite the bridge, there will be a special lobby, with elevators running to the ground floor, where the battery of elevators which will serve every floor will be located.

In the upper floors of the building there will be 500 rooms and suites for the use of members of the club and their guests. Special features will be a large gymnasium and a huge outdoor salt-water plunge, the largest in Southern California, equipped for swimming meets and aquatic events.

Practically the entire third floor will be devoted to a huge dining-room. The first two floors will be devoted to lounge rooms for men and women, card rooms, billiard and pool rooms. Along both sides of the public walk which will extend along the full 300 feet of frontage of the building will be a series of shops for club members and the public.

The entire basement of the building will be devoted to locker and shower rooms for men and women. Plans are made for a total capacity of 10,000 lockers. In the women's section there will be private showers and lockers, hair-drying apparatus, and a completely equipped beauty parlor.

BUILD MODERN CLUBHOUSE

Santa Monica to Have Newest and Biggest of Modern Beach Resorts

PLAN TO OPEN NEW DISTRICT

Kings County Residents to Spend Large Sum to Bring Water to Land

HANFORD, July 8.—Improvements involving reclamation, irrigation and storage projects contemplated by the trustees of the Delta Lands Reclamation District, at the expenditure of $346,212.37 were announced in an application to the Supervisors for the appointment of three commissioners to view and assess the lands within the district.

The Supervisors named as the commissioners for this purpose Roy May, W. E. Dingley and A. J. Nielsen. Plans for the proposed project as submitted by Engineer L. M. Stone, include levee construction, canal construction, and the securing of 2158 miles of right of way.

The levee construction involves placement of 1,538,237 cubic yards of earth and the canal construction the excavating of 119,416 cubic yards of earth.

Bank protection is to be provided for six miles and concrete and wing-walls installed. Certain lands in the Delta Reclamation District are excluded as these are to be used by the Tulare Lake water storage area, to be utilized for a permanent reservoir and pump for storage of surplus water for irrigation use.

The reclamation plan of the Delta district involves approximately 6000 acres of rich farming lands in the Tulare Lake basin southwest of Corcoran in Kings county.

FIND MISSING GIRL

POMONA, July 8.—Located at Needles, after having been missing from her home here since July 3, Naomi Smith, 16 years old, junior high school student, residing at 1040 West Third street, today wired her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Smith, that she was safe.

No details were given in the telegram and the girl's brother immediately left for the distant city to return her to her home here. Suggestions that the girl had eloped were discounted by her relatives, who state that the girl was not in the habit of associating with boys but was interested in church work and had many girl friends.

INCREASED INCOME

WHITTIER, July 8.—Taking a record of the postoffice receipts as one of the surest signs of business, Whittier has the right to be jubilant over the upward trend during the past six months, for according to figures given out at the postoffice, there has been an increase of $4211 during the past six months, over the first six months of 1925, or nearly $1000 per month.

The total for the past six months has been $84,903 as compared with $30,692 for the first six months of 1925. Every month of the past six has shown an increase over the same month last year, the greatest gain being May, with March second and June third.

AGAINST TRUCK FRANCHISES

HANFORD, July 8.—Declaring that the operation of commercial freight or truck lines, carrying loads greatly in excess of any loads contemplated by builders, is rapidly deteriorating the highways the supervisor of Kings county have adopted a resolution protesting against the granting of franchises by the State Railroad Commission and the hauling of immense trucks and trailers of gasoline and other petroleum products and other classes of freight over the public highways.

TAKES SEVENTH CHANCE

SANTA ANA, July 8.—When Lorna M. J. Baker, dashing daughter of France, was led to the altar here yesterday by Harold Creiger of Glendale, witnesses of the wedding may or may not have observed her timid blushes; perhaps not, for Mrs. Baker, although only 38 years of age, was making her seventh trip to the altar and there was no novelty about it for her. Mrs. Baker, a resident of Glendale, was born in France. Creiger, who is the same age as his bride, was making his first venture into matrimony.

NOTABLE CAREER CLOSES

Influential Chinese Dies at Bakersfield After Active Business Life

BAKERSFIELD, July 8.—Sam Yick, for forty-five years a resident in Kern county, in which time he became one of the most influential and prosperous Chinese in the San Joaquin Valley, passed away at his Eighteenth street residence in Bakersfield last evening following a lingering illness.

He was 68 years of age, and is survived by his widow, Lee Gin, two sons, May Kay and Charlie Pung, a daughter, Daisy Yick and nephew, Kakoke.

Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock in the store of the deceased, 723 Eighteenth street, and will be the most elaborate and impressive ever held in Bakersfield, it is said. Both Chinese and American rituals will be observed, Mrs. Sam Yick being in charge of the former, and Dr. Willis G. White, First Presbyterian Church, officiating in the latter services.

The deceased was one of the first settlers in what is known now as new Chinatown on Eighteenth street east of Chester avenue, and married in Bakersfield.

His methodical organization of Chinese labor in the San Joaquin Valley was one of the outstanding highlights of Sam Yicks's life. It is said of him that at one time he had a strong control of the fresh and dried fruit industry in Kern county, and carried out his operations on an extensive basis, leasing lands and furnishing the labor for the working of immense orchards.

Wholesale grocer, merchant and contractor, Sam Yick lived a most colorful life in the history of Bakersfield's Chinese colony, and has been an outstanding figure in the support of his countrymen's interests here.

JESUS CALLED RESULT OF RACE EVOLUTION

DR. HUNTINGTON SAYS BIRTH OF CHRIST WAS END OF LONG EUGENIC PROCESS

How did it happen that Jesus was born a Jew?

Ellsworth Huntington, authority on races and climates, advances the theory in the July Scribner's Magazine, that the birth of the greatest religious leader of all time was a culmination of a long eugenic process.

Writing on "The Biological Antecedents of Jesus" Dr. Huntington says:

"We see in the Jews an unparalleled example of natural selection and migration, aimed more or less consciously at the segregation of the religious temperament. We see that thus there was produced a race which is rightly called 'peculiar,' for it is peculiar not only in the sense of being unique, but of being greatly honored. That race, as might be expected, gave birth to Jesus, the greatest of religious teachers. He is the natural culmination of such a type of racial evolution. But Jesus did not stand alone. One of the most remarkable features of New Testament times is the strong group of men who he was able to gather about him. John, Peter and Paul were great men in their own right. The authors of the Gospels and some of the other apostles were men of real power. The great leader can make his doctrines effective only if he finds among his contemporaries a group of people whose minds go along with his. There must be similarity of temperament. Moreover, the great leader is almost sure to fail unless he is surrounded by other men who also possess at least a certain degree of greatness. That was what happened in Jerusalem 1900 years ago. It was the result of a long eugenic process which began with the patriarchs and culminated in Jesus."

LOST A LAUGH

The drill sergeant was not very amiable and the recruits were having a bad time.

The weather had been wet, and the parade ground was very slippery. In doing a movement smartly, as an example to his men, the sergeant slipped and fell full length. The recruits could scarcely repress their mirth.

Getting up with all the dignity he could muster, the sergeant's eye fell on Murphy's grinning face.

"Well, you grinning hyena!" he roared, "what's hurting you? Yo you see anything funny?"

"No, sir," gurgled Murphy tactfully. "O! was just thinkin' what a laugh we could have had if it had been anywan else save yourself, sergeant!" —[Tit-Bits.

Fast Asleep

Two Scottish farmers visited a town during a big cattle sale, and as the hotel where they stayed the night was crowded they were put in the same room. They tossed and turned for some time, but at last both began to doze.

Suddenly Sandy raised his head. "Are you sleepin', Jock?" he asked.

"Nae," replied Jock.

"Will ye len' me five poun' tae buy a coo?" coaxed Sandy.

"A'm sleepin' noo," said Jock.—Tit-Bits.

AIRPLANE TURNS TURTLE

Two Well-Known Aviators Injured in Accident on Ventura County Ranch

OXNARD, July 8.—Leo Nomis, well-known aviator, and Al Johnson, stunt flyer, both of Clover Field, Santa Monica, miraculously escaped death this morning when the fast monoplane they were flying turned turtle in landing at the C. S. Allison ranch, west of Oxnard.

Johnson was rendered unconscious and badly cut about the head. Nomis, who had a bad gash over the right eye, and other cuts about the nose and face, was able to release his safety belt and extricated Johnson before a number of ranchers of the district arrived on the scene.

Nomis was piloting the plane, which left Kingman, Ariz., at 4:30 o'clock this morning. The aviators were going to Clover Field, but on account of the thick fog they could not make a landing anywhere near Santa Monica or Los Angeles.

Nomis continued in this direction, hoping to make a landing somewhere near Ventura. He had been in the air for four hours. He knew the plane would soon run out of gasoline. He looked for a place to land and located a good field on the Frank Borchard ranch. While circling over the field the fuel gave out, and instead of landing in the level field he was forced down in an alfalfa patch. The landing gear of the plane snapped as the machine struck an irrigation check ridge, and when the ship hit the next ridge it turned completely over while traveling fifty miles an hour.

Pasadena Boy Dies as Result of Smallpox

PASADENA, July 8.—The effects of smallpox, contracted at Shanghai during a trip around the world, yesterday took the life of Seth C. Rees, Jr., former Pasadena High School student and son of Rev. Seth C. Rees, pastor of the Pilgrim Tabernacle Church of Pasadena, and Mrs. Rees. Word of the youth's death in Greensboro, N. C., where he had gone with his mother and father in a final effort to regain his health, was received here today.

Young Rees, who lived with his parents at 1455 Atchison street, was to have been graduated from Pasadena High School last spring. He leaves, in addition to his parents, two brothers, Rev. Paul S. Rees and Russell S. Rees, and one sister, Evangeline Rees, all of Pasadena. Funeral arrangements await the arrival on Monday of the body, which is being sent to Pasadena from Greensboro.

The youth had recovered from the smallpox attack, but the effects of the disease are believed to have undermined his constitution and brought on the complications which resulted in his death.

Attar of Roses Plant Proposed by Valley Men

SAN FERNANDO, July 8.—Following the recent mention made of the great production of roses in San Fernando Valley and the growth of other flowers in abundance, several public-spirited persons here are advocating the establishment of a perfume factory and are taking the first steps to find out whether such an enterprise could be put on a paying basis.

A number of these citizens are incited by a recent report made by a Los Angeles man who, on returning from Europe, stated that he had visited numbers of places where attar of roses is made and in sections where there are far fewer flowers than in this valley.

With the exception of occasional sales of cut flowers, roses are grown only for root stock in the valley. It is stated that the right sort of investigation and purpose might result in the location of a perfume plant here or in some other part of the valley where roses can be abundantly grown.

OFFICERS FIND CLEW

VISALIA, July 8.—In an effort to help solve the apparent mystery of discovery of an abandoned automobile near Kingman, Ariz., in which was found bloody clothing, with the name of John Davidson, Strathmore rancher, on the registration certificate, Sheriff R. L. Hill learned that the car had been sold some months ago to a boy named Stevenson of Hollister.

Stevenson is reported to have run away from home shortly after making the purchase, and so far as is known, has not been heard from since. It is hoped this information may assist the Kingman officers in solving the mystery.

ECHO OF TONG WAR

FRESNO, July 8.—Echoes of the Bing Kong-Hop Sing tong war now flaring on the Pacific Coast reached Fresno today with the arrest of six Chinese as they were riding through the city in a large touring car. The men were held long enough for county authorities to take photographs and fingerprints.

In the automobile the police found a notebook which contained the addresses and telephone numbers of all the Bing Kong tong headquarters in Pacific Coast States. The men were not armed, police investigation showed.

TEN DAYS FOR SPREE

FULLERTON, July 8.—A ten-day jail sentence and $75 in cash is the penalty Willard Humber, 19 years of age, of 2138 Marathon street, Los Angeles, paid for his holiday "spree," according to a report at the police department here. Humber was taken to the County Jail after receiving his sentence in the Municipal Court. According to officers, the Humber car was captured only after a thrilling chase. Two pints of asserted liquor were found in the machine, officers reported. Two girls and another youth were in the car with Humber.

FRUIT TO EXPOSITION

CLAREMONT, July 8.—Fresh candied fruits, marmalades and similar citrus delicacies from Claremont will be sent each month to Philadelphia for the Sesquicentennial Exposition, it was announced today through the co-operation of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and the local chamber. The products will be placed on display in the citrus by-products exhibit during the summer and until the close of the exposition.

TRANSGRESSORS PAY

BRAWLEY, July 8.—Law violators in this vicinity paid $5300 in penalties during the month of June, according to a report made public by the City Recorder today.

Brawley now leads all Imperial Valley towns in the total amount of fines collected, having taken the lead over Calexico which formerly claimed the record.

Traffic violators led the list with a total of fifty cases.

Asks Return of Money Spent to Advertise City

SANTA MONICA, July 8.—George B. Dickenson, Santa Monica banker, who was credited with bringing to this city the Recent United States good roads convention, and who was chairman of the Chamber of Commerce arrangements committee for the conclave, has asked the Santa Monica City Council to reimburse him to the extent of $1200, stating he paid bills in this amount for advertising Santa Monica and Southern California.

Dickinson says he paid out of his own pocket money for exploiting and advertising the convention, and that wide publicity was obtained in newspapers throughout the country. He was closely associated with Director-General J. A. Bountree of the United States Good Roads Association, both prior to and during the convention, which drew hundreds of delegates and seven State governors to Santa Monica. Following the convention, the Chamber of Commerce expressed its appreciation of Dickenson's energy and services in connection with his work as arrangements committee chairman.

The City Commissioners have set the reimbursement proposal over for a hearing before the budget committee.

HOLD-UP VICTIM IS BEATEN BY THUGS

HUNTINGTON PARK, July 8.—G. R. Kiskadden, giving his home as 40 Russell avenue, in Long Beach, was found seated on a bench at the Whittier Pacific Electric car line and Long Beach car line intersection late last night in a dazed condition, suffering from blows over the head. He was picked up by G. R. Burns and taken to the Sheriff's substation on Florence avenue, just west of the city.

The man stated that he had been beaten over the head by two thugs, as he was waiting for a car to Long Beach, and that he had been robbed of $85 in money and a $3 check. He stated that the men had held him up with the aid of a revolver, and marched him down one of the tracks for a distance of fifty feet, when they took his money, after which they struck him over the head with the weapon, and then left him lying on the ground. He finally regained sufficient strength to make his way to the electric line intersections, where he was found by Burns.

The man was removed to the Huntington Park Hospital and later to the General Hospital.

RELEASE GIRL SLAYER

Coroner's Jury Says Shooting Was Justifiable

EL CENTRO, July 8.—Docie Stockton, 22-year-old girl, who shot and killed her uncle, F. L. Segars, at his desert service station twenty miles east of here Tuesday morning, was released from jail today after a Coroner's jury had returned a verdict of "justifiable homicide."

Evidence given before the jury by Mrs. Stockton and other witnesses, indicated that Segars had been killed with his own revolver after he had abused the girl and frequently threatened her life during the past two weeks, when he virtually held her a prisoner at his shack on the burning desert.

Mrs. Stockton rebelled and fired three bullets into his body after Segars had forced her to return with him from the railroad station where she was about to take a train for her home at Desdemona, Tex., with money sent by her father.

FILE PETITION FOR SPECIAL ELECTIONS

INGLEWOOD, July 8.—Two petitions, each calling for a special election, to be held on the same date, were filed with the City Clerk today. The first is for the installation of trunk line sewers throughout the city, for which a bond issue of $680,000 is asked. The second is for the creation of a district in that part of the city where no sewer laterals have been installed, to issue bonds for that purpose to the amount of $115,891. City Clerk Otto H. Duelke announced that he would at once proceed to check the total of 2256 names on the two petitions, but he added that the petition with the lesser number of signatures exceeded by 841 names the number required by law.

RANCH HAND DIES ACCIDENTAL DEATH

VISALIA, July 8.—"Accidental drowning" was the verdict returned at the inquest conducted here this morning by J. M. Hadley, Tulare County Coroner, over remains of Joe Magana, 23, employee of the Martin ranch northeast of Visalia, who drowned late yesterday while bathing at Slick Rock, two miles below Three Rivers. The body was recovered last night.

Magana, with a party of friends, was enjoying a picnic on the Kaweah River. He had waded across the stream and was returning when he lost his footing and slipped into a hole more than twelve feet deep. He could not swim and was not seen again.

Recent Developments Add to Land Values

SANTA MONICA, July 8.—[illegible] property valued at more than $[illegible],000, bone of contention in a [illegible] fought with costly court battles, has been awarded to Henry Sexton, resident of Santa Monica Canyon for forty years, according to the terms of a decree handed down by Superior Judge W. C. Hafley. The 123 acres involved in the recent litigation are located on the Pacific Palisades, on Sunset boulevard. Once a wild section, dotted by isolated ranches, this district has grown to be one of the most residential locations in Southern California, with high-class developments in Pacific Palisades, the Riviera, Brentwood Park, Brentwood Heights, Huntington Palisades and other districts bringing a rapid influx of population.

The Superior Court decree awards all the property acquired by Henry Sexton and his deceased wife during their married life. The surviving husband winning his suit to nullify the terms of a will executed by the estate was left in trust for the estate was left in trust to six children, Alba Dale, Ida Belle Sexton, Clara Burnbridge, Georgiana and Louise Gabriel, children of Mrs. Sexton by previous marriages, and to the only child of her marriage with Henry Sexton, Wesley Laurendeau.

When the will was filed in probate, Henry Sexton contested on the grounds that undue influence had been used, and that his wife had been incompetent in making a will. Sexton also contended that community property could not be given away by the wife. A jury trial on the terms of the will, after which a trial was granted, the final decree being in Sexton's favor. Attorney Verge was attorney for Sexton and wife, Mary Sexton, died in Santa Monica Canyon, December 1, 1925, and the contest arose for control attracted considerable attention because of the greatly increased value of the estate.

Candidate in Plea for Tariff as Protection

"Prosperity for Southern California and the United States generally depends upon the maintainence of a strong protective tariff," W. E. Evans, professional candidate who has been unanimously indorsed by the Fifth District Republican convention, told party leaders at a meeting yesterday in his headquarters at the Lankershim Building, Third and Spring streets.

"Without a protective tariff, our farm fruits would be a drug on the market. It was only a short time ago that we saw carloads of lemons dumped in the washes because without a protective tariff there was no market for them. We are all vitally interested in this problem, for its effects are far reaching. The farmer is one of those who is most vitally interested and the laboring man is the one most directly affected. The American working man must have wage on which he can live in accordance with American standards and will enable him to properly educate his children. A tariff for revenue only serves a different purpose. It is placed on products which we who impose the tariff expect and hope will be imported in great quantity because they are seeking entry to the United States. Such a tariff is no protection because it is purposely a tariff to encourage importers."

Mrs. Mary M. Coman of Covina, for more than thirty years a State officer and leader in the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, yesterday issued an unqualified indorsement of the candidacy of Harold B. Landreth of Pasadena, candidate for Congress in the Ninth District. In a letter which she has sent to several hundred women she says:

"I know that he stands forthright and unequivocally for every law we need that will give us a dry America." Dr. Ray Lyman D. Bird, president of Occidental College, is another who has addressed communications to workers and educators throughout the district, as has Dr. Daniel F. Poling, pastor of the First Congregational Church of Pasadena. Dr. Robert Freeman of the Pasadena Presbyterian Church, in a statement yesterday, said:

"We are fortunate in having such a man as Landreth seeking office. He is a man of trained intellect, attractive personality, fearless spirit, ready speaker, the grace of public speech and with conspicuous Christian char[illegible]

MANY VISIT CITY FOR CONCLAVES

More Than 6000 Delegates at Session During June

Other Groups Invited Here for Their Meetings

Chamber Official Reports on Greetings Extended

Approximately 6000 persons visited Los Angeles during June as delegates to nine conventions here, according to a report issued by Charles A. Dale, manager of the convention department of the Chamber of Commerce, who met the incoming parties and attended the welcome of the city of Los Angeles and the chamber.

Two of the conventions, the National Association of Purchasing Agents and Interinsurance, and the Motion Picture Theater Owners of America, United States Navy Band Association, Pacific Coast Band Association, National Association of Purchasing Agents, State, County and Municipal Purchasing Agents, International Order of King's Daughters and Sons, State Association of Motion Picture Owners, and the National Biscuit Association.

Conventions to be held here during July will include the National Editorial Association, Baptist Young People's Union, International Stereotypers and Electrotypers, and the Order of Railway Postal Painters.

"We will entertain more than 15,000 visitors during July, Cooke said.

GUESTS INVITED

Invitations have been extended by the Chamber of Commerce to the following conventions to hold their annual meetings here: International Order of King's Daughters and Sons, State Conference of State Parks, North American Veterans of the Civil War, Association of Railroad Accountants, World Conference of Seventh Day Adventists, National Association of Confectionery Salesmen, Motion Picture Association, American Automobile Association, Union Central Life Insurance Company, National Association of Life Underwriters, National Bakers' Association, Kiwanis Clubs, National Association of Insurance Agents and Southern Hospital Association.

Dating June 7, R. S. Williams, assistant manager of the convention department of the chamber, furnished conventions with eighty-three tons of cheese, distributed 18,400 pounds of oranges, 10,000 souvenir puppies, and 24,000 pairs of Los Angeles literature.

Candidate in Plea for Tariff at Protection

Property for Southern California and the United States generally depends upon the maintenance of a "real protective tariff," W. E. Evans, Republican candidate who has unanimously indorsed by the Los Angeles Republican conference, told party leaders at a meeting yesterday in his headquarters at the Auditorium Building, Third and Hill streets.

"Without a protective tariff, our fine fruits would be a drug on the market. It was only a short time ago that we saw carloads of lemons rotting in the washes because without a protective tariff there was no profit for growers. We are all vitally interested in this problem for its effect on labor conditions. The farmer is one of those who, a most vitally interested and the laboring man is the most directly affected.

"The average working man must have a rug on which to can live and he cannot with American standards and still sustain him to properly raise his children. A tariff for labor only serves a different purpose when it is placed on products which do not impose the tariff expect that they will be imported in great quantities because they are seeking markets to be derived from the tariff. Such a tariff is no protection and is purposely a tariff "in name only."

Action for Congress Gets Backing of Board

Mrs. Mary M. Conman of Covina, for more than thirty years a State officer and for three years president of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, yesterday issued an unlimited indorsement of the candidacy of Harold B. Landreth of Pasadena, nominee for Congress in the Seventeenth District. In a letter which she sent to several hundred women she says:

"I know that he stands forthright and unequivocally for every law we have and will give us a dry America."

Lowell D. Birt, president of Occidental College, is another who has sent communications to the women and educators throughout the district, as has Dr. Daniel P. Fox, pastor of the First Congregational Church of Pasadena. Dr. Robert Freeman of the Pasadena Presbyterian Church is a subsequent yesterday.

Mrs. Conman is fortunate in having secured the services of Mrs. Landreth in Landreth seeking office. He is one of unbiased intellect, attractive personality, fearless spirit, ready to sacrifice the graces of public speech for the courageous Christian character.

GOLD-SEEKERS RATE TO ARIZONA GRANTED

The sale of special land-seekers rate tickets from Los Angeles to points in Arizona has been granted by the Southern Pacific Company, effective August 10. It was announced here today by C. L. Mellinger, passenger traffic manager. Under the arrangement, parties will have time to six days in which to look over their land on the basis of one and one-half fare for the round trip. Tickets will be sold on Tuesday and Friday of each week until August.

MUSIC ANNOUNCED

Concerts have been arranged by residents of Lake Shore Park to be held at a picnic at the park on the Lake Shore Park next Sunday, it was announced today by Mrs. L. Hayes, president of the 1845 One Hundred Club of Pasadena. Each member will be asked to bring a basket lunch.

FILM STAR GETS DELAY FOR TRIAL

Florence Vidor Defendant in Suit Asking $1200 for Asserted Services

Motion-picture followers who gathered yesterday in Judge Keeler's court to catch a glimpse of Florence Vidor, film star, were disappointed when through an agreement of attorneys the case in which Miss Vidor was to have appeared as defendant was continued to November 20, next. Miss Vidor did not appear in court.

Florence Vidor.

The Collection Service Corporation, acting as assignee of the Edward Small Company, representative of motion-picture players, was plaintiff in the action, which asked $1200 from Miss Vidor for services asserted to have been rendered. The nature of the asserted services was not disclosed by the complaint and this angle of the case probably will be brought out in the testimony at the time of trial.

Miss Vidor filed an answer denying she was indebted to the plaintiff or its assignor.

PRODUCER DENIES PAY DUE TO STAR

Theater Manager Asserts Marjorie Rambeau Broke Contract With Him

Michael Corper, president and general manager of the Majestic Theater, was arraigned yesterday before Municipal Judge Richardson on a complaint sworn to by Marjorie Rambeau, actress, charging him with failure to pay her $550 of her salary of $1250 for the week ending June 5, last.

MARJORIE RAMBEAU

Corper entered a plea of not guilty, and will face trial September 10. He was released on his own recognizance. It is understood his defense will be that Miss Rambeau broke her contract.

Recently the actress laid her claim before the State Labor Bureau, asserting at that time, according to Deputy Labor Commissioner Lowry, that she was also entitled, under the terms of her contract with Corper, to transportation to New York for herself and maid.

SCHOOLS OF CITY SHOW PUPIL GAIN

Enrollment Through Year Steadily Climbs in Every Institution

Throughout the year school enrollment has steadily climbed, according to the figures in Supt. Dorsey's office. The month of June showed a total of 205,107 pupils or approximately 10 per cent more than the same month last year.

The total number of high school pupils was 33,544 as against 30,707 for 1925. There was an increase of 10,480 elementary pupils. Special schools, which include those students who attend one hour or less a week for part-time instruction, Americanization, citizenship, trade extension and evening high schools show an increase of 4680 students.

IOWA ASKS SEARCH FOR G. W. STEVENSON

A request for a police search for George W. Stevenson of Sioux City, Iowa, was received yesterday from the police of that city. The request said Stevenson's wife reported he came here for a visit more than a month ago, that one postcard announced his arrival and that he had not been heard from since. The case was assigned to Detective Lieutenant Allen. Stevenson is described as 43 years of age, five feet ten inches tall, 180 pounds in weight, light hair, bald on top, blue eyes, a horseshoe-shaped scar on his forehead.

CITY EMPLOYEES PLAN FOR 20,000 AT PICNIC

Stressing the slogan, "This Picnic Will Be a Circus," the program committee headed by Pat Doyle is making elaborate preparations for the city employees' picnic at the Selig Zoo on August 21. Arrangements are being made to handle an attendance of 20,000. The program will include the presence of speakers from other parts of the State, contests for adults and children's games. The picnic is being given under the auspices of the All-City Employees' Association. Money received from the sale of tickets will go into the pension connection fund.

SHIPPING and Los Angeles Harbor NEWS

RUMOR OF SHIP MERGER DENIED

Struthers & Barry Company on Job to Stay

Local Agent Hints at Early New Development

Expects Important Turn in Affairs of Line

"Struthers & Barry are in the shipping business to stay," was the brief but pointed answer of Max G. Linder, local agent, yesterday to rumors that Harry Struthers might later be found with Swayne & Hoyt. Linder made the statement immediately after communicating with both Mr. Struthers and Fred Barry, in San Francisco.

While he was not in position to say more at this time, Linder expressed high elation at the turn of events, and indicated important news concerning his firm's future plans might shortly be forthcoming in a statement. It was apparent the expected statement will be one of good news to all who have followed Struthers & Barry throughout their struggle upward in Pacific trade, and who looked askance at the recent order of the Shipping Board transferring the operation of the American Far East Line to Swayne & Hoyt.

Information concerning the recent action of the United Stajes Shipping Board in transferring the Struthers & Barry ovvenment line to the Far East to the firm of Swayne & Hoyt was asked by the Chamber of Commerce yesterday in a telegram sent to Commissioner Philip S. Teller of the Shipping Board at Washington. "Recalling your visit to Los Angeles after your appointment, and your statement that you desire to represent Southern California as well as North, we take the liberty of referring to the action of the Shipping Board in consolidating the American Far East and Pacific Australia lines, taking the former away from Struthers & Barry and turning it over to Swayne & Hoyt," the message, signed by President Arthur S. Bent, stated.

"Inasmuch as this action was taken without the knowledge of Struthers & Barry and without consulting the interests of shippers or of the Chamber of Commerce, we respectfully ask if it met with your approval, and, if so, why. We have been unable to obtain any information with reference to this deal, although we are vitally interested in the American Far East service.

"Our board of directors discussed this situation at length today and respectfully request an immediate reply."

The Shipping Board gave as its reason for the action, "more efficient and economical operation." The Americs Far East line has eight vessels and the Pacific Australia seven in trans-Pacific trade.

REPORT SWEDEN LINE TO AUGMENT FLEET

Addition of three new motorships to the present Pacific-Scandinavian passenger and freight service is reported in advices received at offices of the Johnson Line in Gothenburg, Sweden, according to passengers arriving yesterday on the Axel Johnson.

One would be a sister-ship of the Axel and the Axele Johnson, which were commissioned and put on this run last fall. The other two are to be larger freighters.

Capt. B. Liljestedt, master of the Axel Johnson, refused to comment on the report, preferring that official announcement in this country be made by Johnson officials.

It is known, however, that the line's policy has been to keep the service well-served to demands and that the five motorships now on the run have been carrying capacity freight and passenger lists for a long time. The freight of the Axel Johnson, designing the passenger side of their trade, though fitting the Axel and the Axele Johnson with accommodations for only passengers each, appears well founded. The vessels have been bringing an average of forty travelers westbound, according to reports of ships' officials, returning from the Gothenburg & Dry Dock Co. yards.

Capt. Liljestedt said he could have carried 500 on his last trip back, had he the accommodations.

Forty passengers arrived on the ship yesterday, nineteen of them disembarking here. Of the 2500 tons of cargo the ship carried, 1000 tons are being discharged here, including wood pulp, steel and pipe, matches and bread, and 5000 bunches of bananas from Guatemala. H. R. McLaurin, local agent, announced the Axele Johnson would arrive Sunday to load 8100 bunches of bananas for the United Kingdom and Scandinavia.

A regular barge trade, transporting oil from Los Angeles Harbor to San Diego, will be inaugurated this week by the Star and Crescent Boat Company of San Pedro, it was announced today by the company. The 74-foot, 250-horse power diesel tug Palomar, just completed at San Diego, and the 2150-barrel oil barge built by the Los Angeles Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Co. will be used in a month ago and bought by the southern firm.

Dan Montigne of R. C. Griffith Company claims he has established a remarkable bit of service during the holidays just past, when they provided two big cakes with elaborate supplies, without having to draw on any but their own stocks. Some of the vessels took 2000 pounds each of meats and produce. The vessels were the F. G. Hillman for London, Tom for Chile, Eclipse and the Steel Ranger for Yokohama, Sanated for Stockholm, Barnes for New York, Sun for Philadelphia, Mitchell for Baltimore, Oregon for Gray's Harbor and the San Fernando.

The Coast Guard cutter Tamaree, which was diverted from local waters to San Francisco several months ago, has been reassigned to the local station here, Mr. Hoff, and will arrive Monday from San Diego, where she is undergoing minor repairs, Commander L. C. Covell, in charge of the station, said he had no advance reporting report yesterday that these 100-foot steel hull Diesel chasers would be dispatched here soon. The vessel now boasts here are the Tamaree, Vaughan and chasers 253, 254, 257, 258, 259, 269 and 261, the entire personnel comprising about 150 officers and men.

Catching whales at night is a new practice now under way with local purse seine boats, which are reported unusually successful in the waters several have brought in eight to twelve tons each in the last few nights, the catches being delivered to the canneries daily. Albacore, after a small short run, have again vanished, but small fleets are out scouting daily for the schools, which will usher in the packing season in earnest.

The Wilmington Transportation Company yesterday dispatched a glass-bottom launch and Alex Adams, diver, to Balboa to assist in the search for the body of the Rodgers boy, drowned there two days ago. The search, however, is reported not near like that at Catalina Island, and the boat's use has not proved as successful as expected.

Every cabin is filled on the Dollar globe-circling liner President Hayes, due from New York via Panama July 15, on the fifty-fourth world voyage for the line. Among the travelers is Miss Caroline E. Furness of the faculty of Vassar College, who goes to the Pan-Pacific Science Congress in Tokio.

PSYCHOANALYSIS

have already solved the life problems of and brought happiness to, thousands of people. As practical scientific they are helping the masses of the world's most famous men. They have been placed on the same plane as radio as among the most important modern achievements; and, like radio, they are within the financial scope of every man, woman and child.

PSYCHOANALYSIS

will reveal to you traits of your character which have long puzzled you, will define your path and forward your success or failure and, if it is a failure, will prescribe the remedy.

VOCATIONAL ANALYSIS

will reveal to you the type of profession, employment or enterprise to which your talents are best suited and through which you may attain that universal goal—Happiness.

PRACTICAL PSYCHOLOGY

in dealing with your present and future problems will enable you to avoid stumbling blocks and obstacles which retard your progress and prevent you from realizing the happiness, success and prosperity which rightfully belong to you.
